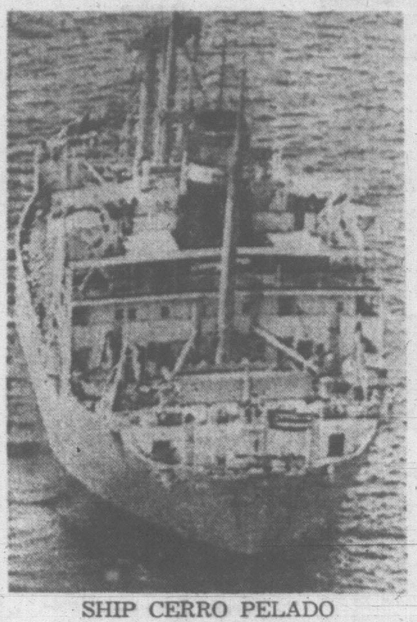
Cuban Athletes Stranded; Ship Denied Entry to Port



SHIP CERRO PELADO
. . . six miles off harbor

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard announced today that the Cuban merchant ship Cerro Pelado, carrying 364 Cuban athletes for the 10th Central American and Caribbean Games, has been denied permission to dock here.

A formal announcement said the coast guard acted on the instruction of the U.S. treasury department.

The coast guard called a press conference to announce that Cuban authorities have been advised that they would not be permitted to land either a ship or plane in Puerto Rico.

The Cerro Pelado waited six miles off San Juan's harbor. A coast guard patrol boat circled the ship and a coast guard patrol plane flew overhead.

A coast guard spokesman said he does not know what the Cuban ship will do next. He said there has been no communication with the ship.

The formal announcement said the action was taken in consultation with the state department but the final decision was made by the treasury department because the coast guard is under the latter's jurisdiction.

The coast guard said the denial of entry permission was taken under the Magnuson Act, which provides for the protection and security of U.S. port areas.

Air Canada to Operate Despite Strike Call

Ticketing Staff Walkout June 15

TORONTO (CP)—Air Canada said today it will operate its flights despite a strike called for midnight next Wednesday by employees handling tickets, reservations, airport counters, teletypes and public offices.

The airline said "some inconvenience on the ground is to be expected" but schedules will be carried out.

Robert Dye, president of the independent Air Canada Employees Association, said today the 1,453 employees voting in a contract dispute with Air Canada voted 1,201 in favor of the strike, 83 per cent.

The strike would be by personnel handling passengers and sales. These make reservations, assemble reservation data, issue tickets and handle airport passenger operations.

WILL USE SUPERVISORS

"In event of a strike we will use supervisory personnel at the airports," an Air Canada spokesman said today. "We don't anticipate any wildcats or sympathy strikes. We expect all other employee groups of Air Canada to honor our agreements with their unions."

The association is seeking a two-year contract. The basic pay for a passenger agent now is $476 a month. The union wants a 10-per-cent increase in the first year, counted from expiration of the old contract in November, 1965, and 10 per cent in the second year and reduction of the work week to 37½ hours from 40.

A conciliation board has recommended settlement pay covering Dec. 1, 1965, to June 1, 1966, of $150 an employee and a new contract starting June 1 to expire at Nov. 30, 1968. This would call for an eight-per-cent increase now and seven per cent at Sept. 5, 1967. It made no recommendation on the work week

In Victoria, Air Canada district sales manager Stan Mooney said he expects to be able to maintain normal service by using clerical and supervisory workers.

He hoped the strike will be averted, but expected Air Canada will direct some people to use the facilities of travel agents.

A strike would affect ticket agents downtown and passenger agents at Pat Bay, a total of 10.

OTTAWA SEEKS SETTLEMENT

OTTAWA (CP) — A "very senior official" of the federal labor department is attempting to work out a settlement in the wage dispute between Air Canada and its 1,453 sales employees, Labor Minister Nicholson said today.

RETRIAL of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard on a second-degree murder charge in the 1954 bludgeon-slaying of his wife, Marilyn, has been ordered by Cleveland prosecutor John T. Corrigan. Sheppard already has served nine years in prison on a murder conviction. He has been free on $10,000 bail since July 16, 1954, while appealing on grounds he did not receive a fair trial.

Brothers Sentenced In Kidnapping

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Three South African brothers were sentenced today to prison terms ranging from five to 16 years for kidnapping Mrs. Betty Glazer, wife of a millionaire property owner.

Ephraim Levy, 37, was given 16 years for kidnapping Mrs. Glazer and her 20-month-old baby. The other two brothers, Kenneth, 31, and Leonard, 43, were sentenced to six and five years, respectively, for kidnapping Mrs. Glazer.

Mrs. Glazer and her baby were released after Glazer paid a ransom of 140,000 rand ($196,000). Most of the ransom money has been recovered.

The actual kidnapping was carried out by Ephraim Levy and Stanley Jawitz, a 37-year-old unemployed actor, by stopping Mrs. Glazer's car.

Jawitz plunged to his death from the top of a Johannesburg building before he could be arrested in connection with the kidnapping.

SOVIET PLEDGE

Viet Cong Aid To Be Boosted

LEONID BREZHNEV
'. . . confident'

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Leonid Brezhnev, Soviet Communist party leader, pledged today that Soviet aid to North Viet Nam will be increased "on an ever-growing scale."

He said the Kremlin was taking "new measures" to ensure a Vietnamese Communist victory.

"We are strongly confident that the people of Viet Nam will win," he declared.

The Russian leader did not explain what new measures were being planned, but said Soviet aid for Viet Nam was multi - purpose — economic, military and political.

"We are taking new measures and making new efforts to help speed up the victory of the heroic Vietnamese people," he said in a Moscow election speech.

"We shall do everything in our power to organize a united anti-imperialist front in support of heroic Viet Nam."

Brezhnev spoke to 6,000 selected constituents in the Kremlin's Palace of Congresses. He is an assured candidate for a Moscow seat in the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) in national elections Sunday.

Martial Law Order For Hue

HUE, South Viet Nam (Reuters) — More than 400 crack paramilitary combat police moved into this dissident northern city today in a bid to end a Buddhist-led campaign to topple the Saigon military government.

Martial law was declared in the rebellious city of 105,000.

Hue has been almost paralysed by the latest form of anti - government demonstration—the moving of thousands of Buddhist family altars into the streets to block traffic.

The roads of the city were still blocked today by the altars, despite orders broadcast by loudspeaker from low-flying government planes that inhabitants must stop blocking essential supplies routes.

RADIO REPEATS ORDERS

Similar orders were broadcast by a secret government radio station, making the voice of Saigon heard in Hue for the first time in three weeks.

The radio said martial law would apply from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. each night.

A clandestine "Radio S O S Buddhist," operated by Buddhist monks, continued to pour out tirades against the military junta from one of the city's main pagodas.

The northern leader of the militant Buddhist movement, Thich Tri Quang, who is on a protest hunger strike against American support for the junta, was taken to a city hospital today after 44 hours without food.

Meanwhile, it was revealed Thursday that a manifesto issued in Saigon by the Unified Buddhist Church called for U.S. troops to remain in the country.

It said that any peace now would mean "surrender to the Viet Cong guerrillas."

It was an apparent effort of the politically conscious Buddhist group to woo U.S. support for its efforts to speed up restoration of civilian rule.

239 CONG KILLED

Paratroops In 4-Day Battle

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. paratroops battled a stubborn dug-in North Vietnamese force for the fourth day in the Central Highlands today.

Helicopters lifted at least two battalions of American and Vietnamese troops into the fierce action 280 miles north of Saigon. Battlefield reports indicated the Americans may be fighting as many as two regiments—some 1,800 men—of North Vietnamese regulars, although the enemy force earlier was estimated at 900 men.

An American military spokesman in Saigon said 239 North Vietnamese had been killed in the fighting, which began before dawn Tuesday on a small U.S. encampment.

Policeman Killed By Fleeing Suspect

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A policeman was shot to death today while taking a young burglary suspect to a cell inside the downtown public safety building, headquarters of the city police department.

The burglary suspect leaped through a closed mezzanine window and fled on foot. He was captured about 90 minutes later on a rooftop in the city's uptown district, about a mile from he downtown area.

The policeman, Joseph Gaetano, 36, of the police department's identification section, was pronounced dead on arrival at Mercy Hospital. He had been shot in the chest.

It was believed the suspect, Edward E. Bittner, 21, had shot the policeman with his own weapon.

FORMOSA, Ont. (CP)—About 1,000 Ontario dairy farmers have voted to pass a resolution threatening a tractor blockage of highways unless prices for concentrated milk products are increased to $4 a hundred weight.

The farmers from seven counties passed the resolution by a 90 per cent majority to block highways unless they receive satisfaction from Ontario Agriculture Minister William Stewart.

SUPPORT PLEAS REJECTED

U.K. Seamen Claim Solution to Strike

LONDON (CP)—Leaders of Britain's striking maritime union announced today they believe they have found a solution to the dispute which has progressively paralysed Britain's Britain's shipping since May 15.

The announcement came an hour after a meeting between seamen's union leaders and the finance and general purposes committee, the so-called inner cabinet, of the Trades Union Congress.

The seamen did not disclose their proposed solution. But they said it would mean bringing together the government, the shipowners, the congress and the union.

Efforts were reported under way to set up a meeting of nine members of the 48-man seamen's executive with congress leaders tonight or Saturday morning.

REBUFFED

The announcement came in the wake of rejection by Britain's top union leaders of pleas for support from the striking seamen. This was seen as forcing the union to the negotiating table soon.

The congress Thursday refused to help the Seamen's union and urged it to end its strike.

The TUC rebuff, coupled with an appeal from Prime Minister Wilson and a spark of dissent within the union, failed to budge the strikers.

William Hogarth, general secretary of the union, said the seamen will hold out "forever and a day" in their refusal to sail until they get a 40-hour work-week.

Hogarth said the strikers hope to bypass the TUC and he appealed directly to other unions for a boycott by dockside labor which would further cripple British imports.

The seamen also are counting on the support of foreign unions for their appeal to boycott all British ships abroad.

Shortly before the TUC meeting, the prime minister issued a statement urging an end to the strike and calling the recommendations of a judicial inquiry which the seamen rejected Wednesday "a fair settlement."

The inquiry formula calls for

'ALMA DOWN-GRADED AFTER FLORIDA SPREE

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—Hurricane Alma, her might diminished after hitting the Florida Panhandle, is splashing through Georgia today.

The national hurricane centre in Miami predicted rains up to eight inches along a wide path from Georgia to the Carolinas and warned of possible flooding.

But Alma no longer met hurricane standards of winds of 75 miles an hour or more. Her highest winds were 70 miles an hour, and reported ebbing.

The early-season hurricane from the tropics, charged with 47 deaths in three countries, was reported moving northeastward at about 12 miles an hour.

UNION CHARGES:

Court Actions Delaying Talks

MONTREAL CP)—The International Longshoremen's Union (CLC) complained to Labor Minister Nicholson today that court action being taken by the Shipping Federation of Canada and the National Harbors Board is holding up mediation talks in Quebec's month-old dock strike.

The union sent a telegram to Mr. Nicholson, with copies to the leaders of the different parties in the Commons.

The telegram said:

"Yesterday morning mediation was delayed because ILA members of the negotiating committee received subpoenas on insistence of Shipping Federation to appear in sessions court concerning a complaint made several years ago, and this morning mediation is again delayed because of National Harbors Board seeking to enjoin all picketing although ILA has not opposed injunction already granted limiting peaceful picketing to three pickets per entrance."

A spokesman for the union said the Shipping Federation's complaint for which subpoenas were handed out Thursday morning concerned a longshoremen's strike of three years ago.

"They're saying that there were too many pickets in a

HARBOR LAND DISPUTE SETTLED

OTTAWA (CP) — An 86-year-old dispute between the CPR and the National Harbors Board over 200 acres of property on the Vancouver waterfront has been settled on a 50-50 basis, it was learned Friday.

Informants said it will pave the way for a major development in the harbor.

An agreement to be signed in Vancouver gives the harbors board clear title in an area east of a line between Piers A and B C and north of the existing railway line. The CPR will take over the western and southern sections of the property.

MARTIN REPORTS TO PARLIAMENT

Little Hope for Solution to NATO Problems

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin, who helped head off a showdown with France at this week's NATO ministerial meeting, told the Commons today it will be "extremely difficult" to reconcile the position of France with that of the other 14 members.

Mr. Martin, who presided at the two-day meeting in Brussels, gave a lengthy account of the talks after he was applauded by Liberal MPs when he rose at the beginning of the day's sitting.

He said the issue is the amount of military co-operation France is prepared to provide as a substitute for participating in the integrated military structure. The French government has decided to withdraw its military forces from the structure.

Mr. Martin said this is the have concerted planning in peacetime if there is to be an issue because it is necessary to effective response in war.

He said the outcome of the "complex and crucial" negotiations agreed to at the meeting cannot be forecast "but they are at least fairly launched."

After the 14 agreed to shelve a decision on the council site—now Paris — until October, France agreed to hold talks within the council about the role of its forces remaining in West Germany.

Mr. Martin said he was opposed to any immediate decision about a change of site before learning whether co-operation with France is possible, before President de Gaulle's visit to Moscow and before the French foreign minister had arrived at the meeting.

"How could we hope to work out such arrangements with France if our first action as 14 was to anticipate that our negotiations with the French would fail?"

He said that by October the French president will have visited Moscow, there will be a clearer picture of the amount of military co-operation that can be expected from France and "in reaching our decision, facts rather than expectations can guide us."

Mr. Martin said all NATO members recognized the need to improve contacts with Eastern European countries to create an atmosphere for negotiations which must eventually take place on Germany.

"But the road to that settlement will be long. It is the intractability of the problems—rather than any lack of will to pursue solutions—which makes progress inevitably slow."

Conservative Leader Diefenbaker said "Sometimes there is victory in the postponement of action."

He thought a Danish proposal for an early East-West conference was worthy. Mr. Diefenbaker hoped a meeting could be arranged, although past experience reduces optimism about the result.

It was to be hoped that President de Gaulle would return from his forthcoming visit to Russia with new concepts about the preservation of NATO.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he does not accept the view that NATO's days are numbered. The alliance must be maintained and changed.

"NATO has not outlived its usefulness," he said. "NATO must be preserved. Mr. Diefenbaker welcomed the conference decision to postpone action on moving the North Atlantic Council site from Paris. Had the site been moved, NATO would have slid into history.

Any action to place France outside would have weakened the alliance to the extent it would have become "little more than a memory."

BRUSSELS, Belgium (Reuters)—Belgium agreed officially today to a request by its NATO allies to transfer Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe (SHAPE) to Belgian territory from its present location outside Paris.

ROME—In vast regions of the world where hunger is worst, the rats are eating better than the people.

The United Nations' Food and Agriculture Organization estimated today that rats and other pests consume 20 per cent of all grain produced in the Far East, with the loss as high as 25 per cent in some of the undernourished countries.

The loss to rats, both in volume and value of agricultural products, was estimated at more than 10 per cent world-wide, and 15 per cent in Africa and the Middle East.

FAO experts have been making recommendations for years on ways to reduce these losses. But this would require huge expenditures to modernize transport and storage facilities.

LONDON—Pte. John Hollingsworth has reported for army duty after being AWOL for 19 years.

"I just wanted to get the matter cleared up," said Hollingsworth, now 38. "It was on my conscience."

Said a defence department spokesman.

"It's one of the trickiest cases of AWOL we have ever known."

Hollingsworth was drafted into the General Services Corps in 1947 and asked for a transfer to the Signal Corps. This was granted, but he never showed up.

Instead, he changed his address, laid low and later became a vegetable seller in North London. He married and had three children.

Last weekend he walked into a London police station, told his story and voluntarily went to the signal depot at Catterick, Yorkshire.

TORONTO — Capt. Roger Edwin Ivory, 31, of the Royal Regiment of Canada, has been charged with illegally possessing explosives and theft of army material after a series of cannon-like blasts on Victoria Day alarmed a neighborhood.

Police said the blasts were caused by dynamite exploding inside a pipe under Capt. Ivory's backyard. The pipe normally supports a rotary clothesline fixture.

Police said they seized a stick of dynamite, several plastic hand grenades and 1,000 rounds of ammunition.

BURTON, Eng.—When Franke Bales retired to his country cottage in February he hoped to never again see another pea in his life.

Bales, 65, was one of Britain's foremost experts on peas. He could examine one and tell precisely when it was picked and where it was grown.

But when he retired from his canning firm, he told colleagues he didn't want to see another pea—fresh, canned or frozen—again.

A few weeks ago, Bales' quarter-acre garden began to sprout peas—everywhere; in rose beds, the vegetable patch, between stones paving a path.

"It was very kind of my friends to travel more than 100 miles just to play a friendly joke," Bales said.

King Leaves As Marchers Go Unharmed

COMO, Miss. (AP)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., whose presence has been a magnet to Negroes marching through Mississippi has gone from the head of the line today. But he promised to return immediately if the demonstration loses any impetus.

James H. Meredith, who originated the "march against fear" Sunday — and was wounded by birdshot the next day—said in New York he will be on the road again June 16 if his doctor permits.

"It is my belief from the warm reception received along the road, both in Tennessee and Mississippi, that my walk may have done something to alleviate the heavy burden of fear which rests upon Mississippi Negroes," Meredith said in a statement read to reporters by a minister.

SHOULDN'T BE AFRAID

Meredith, 33, had covered 27 miles on the 225-mile walk from Memphis, Tenn., to Jackson, Miss., when he was shot near Hernando, Miss. He was trying to show that if a controversial Negro could walk unmolested down a Mississippi highway, other Negroes should not fear to register as voters.

Meredith was the first Negro admitted to the University of Mississippi.

The man charged with shooting Meredith, Aubrey James Norvell, 40, of Memphis, still is jail, unable to make $25,000 bond.

A 58-year-old Marks, Miss., sharecropper died of a heart attack in the noon heat shortly after the start of the march Thursday along U.S. 51. King led a memorial service on the spot and left later for Chicago.

COMMONWEALTH DAY

Queen's Plea Is for Harmony

LONDON (CP) — Misunderstandings are "surly the besetting danger of the world in which we live" Queen Elizabeth said today in her message for Commonwealth Day, Saturday.

Beginning this year, Commonwealth Day will be celebrated annually in Britain on the Queen's official birthday, which this year falls on June 11, instead of the May 24 birthday of Queen Victoria, formerly observed as Empire Day.

This is the second year that the Queen, as head of the Commonwealth, has issued a message for Commonwealth Day and she opened her statement by referring to her plea in 1965 that "we should seek every opportunity to get to know one another better."

"I am sure that this is the best way to avoid false impressions and misjudgments," she said. "When you know people well, you are unlikely to misunderstand them. Misunderstandings are surely the besetting danger of the world in which we live.

'BELONG THROUGH CHOICE'

"In the Commonwealth we have a group of nations amounting to a fifth of the world's people. Each nation belongs to this group through its own choice. It chooses to belong, because it sees in the Commonwealth a great co-operative effort for peaceful development, to which it wishes to contribute and from which it hopes to benefit. Because our association is voluntary and spontaneous, we all rejoice when we can find common ground and we are distressed when differences arise.

"When we look back into history at great causes that have triumphed, we always find one common factor. Each has passed through periods of test, when doubt, fear and conflicting interests have threatened to bring its progress to a stop; and then, because those with clear eyes and stout hearts held fast to their vision, it survived, grew in intensity in men's hearts and flourished.

"Faith, loyalty and steadfastness of purpose are the essence of success. The ultimate ambitions which link us together are freedom and fullness of life and the realization of man's dignity and purpose. It is the constant pursuit of these common aims that today I commend to you all, as partners in an enterprise which will influence for good the future of the human race."

This year, for the first time, the joint Commonwealth Societies Council, which is responsible for the central celebration of Commonwealth Day in London, has arranged for a multi-religious service at St. Martin-in-the-Fields, Trafalgar Square, Saturday. The Queen and Prince Philip will be present.

FISCAL FANGS FLASH ON SALES TAX

A Gov't Above Its Own Laws

By JOHN MIKA
Legislative Reporter

A few days ago the provincial cabinet approved the annual list of prises charged by the Queen's Printer for thousands of booklets, statutes and other publications.

Mika

It does so every year but this time 14 years of routine showed the Socred ministers in an unflattering light. They were either arrogant or lazy when they signed the order because it includes the usual requirement that purchasers pay the 5 per cent sales tax on all the publications.

The cabinet must have forgotten its righteous protests that Premier Bennett's 1966 financial proposals were not miserly as claimed by the opposition but a grand "people's budget" because it included such things as abolition of the sales tax on many items of printed matter.

The premier said the tax was coming off newspapers, magazines and periodicals because his government was anxious that people be encouraged to find out what's going on.

* * *

"To further assist all citizens to keep abreast of changing times, particularly with reference to their trade, business or profession, I am recommending exemption from the 5 per cent tax of all newspapers, periodicals and magazines," he said.

True, Mr. Bennett has stopped collecting this tax in the news shops. But he also operates one of the biggest publishing concerns in this province—the Queen's Printer, a $1.5 million annual operation.

If you want to inform yourself of these new exemptions on printed matter, go down to the Queen's Printer (where Mr. Bennett's budget speech was published as well as the amending legislation) and buy the 65-page government publication "Social Services Tax Act Regulations and Instructions" which is compiled and printed each year.

* * *

The government will only charge 15 cents for the information — and one cent sales tax.

In fact, the government printing bureau will extract the tax (on Mr. Bennett's orders) for every statute, ranging in cost from a minimum of 15 cents for an individual copy to $95 for a loose-leaf set of the whole lot.

In these days of increasing government intrusion into all aspects of life and the mounting flood of laws and regulatins pouring from its press, it could hardly be argued these are not needed by citizens to inform themselves of changing situations, "particularly with reference to their trade, business of profession" to use the premier's own words.

* * *

However honeyed the words that come from one side of the government's mouth, you can see the flash of fiscal fangs on the other side as it orders "pay the tax."

The administrative device enabling the government to continue taxing purchasers of its massive volume of literature is the definition of "periodical." As a rule of thumb, this is considered to be a publication that is published regularly, at least once a year, and bears successive dates.

Well, it so happens that the government publishes a weekly newspaper known as the B.C. Gazette.

It has a circulation of close to 1,000 at any given time. It carries government notices and pages and pages of paid classified advertising, most of it from a captive clientele compelled to buy space by statute.

This is the only newspaper that still collects the sales tax in this province.

Apparently, the government is above it own laws.

Maybe that's why you won't find any letters to the editor column in the B.C. Gazette available to protesting readers.

Journalists Object To Grit Accusations

MONTREAL (CP) — L'Alliance Canadienne des Syndicats de Journalistes, the Canadian Alliance of Journalists' Unions, issued a statement Thursday protesting accusations that reporters were responsible for the defeat of the Liberal party in the June 5 provincial election.

The statement said the alliance agreed there were some "black sheep" in the ranks and did not object to these being denounced.

However, it did object to politicians making general statements denouncing the whole profession.

Premier Lesage had previously said newspaper, radio and television reporters were hostile to his party during the campaign.

Earlier Thursday, Jean Grand Landeau, public affairs and information director of the French network of the CBC, denied allegations by Mr. Lesage that the Liberal leader was not given equal prominence with other political leaders during the campaign.

Inquest Opens Into Car Death

An inquest into the traffic death Tuesday of John Albert Morgan, 17, of Sidney, opened at 4 p.m. today at Sands Chapel, Sidney.

But the inquiry is expected to be adjourned until three other youths injured in the single-car crash on West Saanich Road are released from hospital.

The Agonizing Reappraisal

PRESIDENT JOHNSON YESTERday urged his countrymen to have faith and be patient in seeking a successful outcome to the Viet Nam War. His counsel comes as United States casualty lists show an ever increasing toll of American lives—and as the political situation in South Viet Nam continues in a critical state which threatens to leave American troops without a government to fight for.

American General Sternberg, just returned from two years in South Viet Nam, estimates that it will require about 500,000 more troops to halt the flow of men and supplies to the Viet Cong enemy—twice as many United States men as are now engaged in the conflict. In other words, the general appears to be saying that it will be impossible to stop support to the enemy forces, and this implies that a military victory for the United States is out of the question.

If this is the military expert's opinion, he is in agreement with many civilian officials and observers of the war scene who see a politically courageous withdrawal from an impossible situation as the only practicable solution to the American predicament. But Mr. Johnson replies that no political magic can end the war and argues that solutions to such tangled problems can be "painfully slow".

The whole problem more and more shapes up to a situation in which the President's yes or no must decide the United States' course—and the President by temperament and policy appears unable to say the word that would constitute an admission that his Viet Nam policy for two years had been a mistake.

General Sternberg himself describes South Viet Nam as rent by religious and civil conflicts which change the idea of national unity to "something entirely different from what we know in this country". It is not often that military authorities concede that the basic principle of establishing democratic forms in all countries under American influence can run into situations in which it does not fit. There is nothing in the Vietnamese political background to parallel that of the United States. Democratic government in Viet Nam is a foreign concept, and while it may ultimately be adapted and adopted to the people's benefit, it cannot successfully be imposed from a blueprint.

While the South Vietnamese presumably do not want to be dominated by Communism, this doctrine probably does not loom in most Vietnamese minds as the major threat to their existence. Hence the motives of those South Vietnamese who are engaged in the fighting are probably much different from those of their American allies. For the fifth consecutive week American casualties have been larger than those of the South Vietnamese troops. The figures seem to reflect not only the military participation but also the comparative ideological urge of the two partners.

The President increasingly presents the picture of a man who is trapped: an accomplished domestic politician who became embroiled in foreign affairs; a man whose honest and worthy principles led him into a position where they could not be implemented. The danger is that the principles themselves may become damaged in the eventual wreckage of the means by which he strove to apply them.

Another Park Asset

ANNOUNCEMENT BY THE provincial parks branch of arrangements to acquire another 150-acre site—this time at Porpoise Bay, near Sechelt—will come as welcome news to the people of Vancouver and the lower mainland.

This is an area which reportedly lends itself to development for many recreational purposes and the move will guarantee public access to Sechelt Inlet with its many attractions.

The department shows a proper recognition of the current need for such small areas to be reserved for public use and pleasure—a need that grows with our rapidly expanding population.

How soon development takes place will depend largely on the demand for the park facilities, but it is apparent that any region of scenic attraction and recreational potential close to major centres of population will be an asset of constantly increasing value. The government is to be commended on its action in acquiring such land while property is still available. This is a policy which should be purposefully continued.

Costly Cure for Pollution

ONE OF THE REASONS WHY no thoughtful community can afford to ignore practices which lead to pollution of its water is demonstrated in action now under way in Detroit. It costs too much to remedy the evil.

After heavy pressure from state and federal authorities, Detroit has decided to find some means of reducing the sewage outflow which makes Erie the dirtiest of the Great Lakes, destroys many amenities and kills off the fish.

The problem there is the volume of phosphates passing into the lake in the sewage. The phosphates over-fertilize the water, foster the growth of algae and these in turn use up the oxygen in the lake.

To overcome the difficulty it will be necessary, according to present estimates, for Detrot to spend about $100 millions and the job will start only after another year of research on the problem.

The moral for more fortunate parts of the world, like British Columbia, is clear. The costs of failing to check pollution can be astronomical—infinitely more than prevention in the first place.

A Sharper Eye on Research Grants

WASHINGTON, LAVISH IN ITS endowments to research of all kinds, is beginning to turn a banker's eye on the recipients of its largesse in a way that might profitably be followed by other affluent countries with purse-strings loosened to many hopeful institutions.

The National Science Foundation in the United States, according to current report, will have to satisfy itself that an institution offers reasonable hope of excellence before it receives large research subsidies. This does not mean that the quest for knowledge through research will be skimped. It could mean, however, that all who ask for such help will be more carefully scrutinized to determine their potential ability to deliver the goods.

A more discriminating approach to gifts of large public sums has been advocated from time to time in Canada, where questions are occasionally asked about the returns that might be expected from such investments. No one can tell, of course, at the outset of a serious research project that it will furnish positive results—and in the field of medicine, for instance, the negative findings are often important as a guide to later research.

The United States, nevertheless, has decided that a closer watch should be kept on research funds to avoid waste. The returns from probing the unknown cannot, obviously, be measured in immediate dividends. But there should be some assurance that those engaged in this activity know how to probe effectively.

FROM WASHINGTON

By RICHARD PURSER

Meredith and Simmering Violence

"HE'LL never make it." This was the spontaneous whisper of one reporter to another at a press conference here last week when Mr. James Meredith announced his 220-mile walk from Memphis to Jackson "to conquer fear" in Mississippi. The reporters at the White House civil rights conference had assumed he would travel under armed guard, and were horrified when he told them he would have only one or two unarmed companions.

Purser

Mr. Meredith hasn't made it yet, and if he ever does, it will only be thanks to an assailant's choice of a shotgun instead of a rifle. His shooting was just the sort of thing feared by the 2,400 invited to the White House conference. It was not the possibility of individual incidents that was feared so much as an increasingly explosive reaction to them by the Negro community.

Strong Reaction

The Meredith incident did produce a strong reaction. Had he been killed, there is no telling what kind of violence might have broken out in Mississippi. Mississippi Freedom Democratic party spokesmen here had feared violence anyway during Tuesday's Mississippi primary elections.

It was to conquer the underlying conditions generating violence in American society that last week's huge inter-racial conference was called.

Billed as "The White House Conference to Fulfill These Rights," it had its genesis in President Johnson's famous June 4, 1965, speech at Howard University here. At that time he dedicated himself in sweeping terms before a largely Negro audience to the total eradication of America's shame — the centuries of sin committed by white Americans against Negro Americans.

He would, he said, call a White House conference "to help the American Negro fulfill the rights which, after the long time of injustice, he is finally about to secure. To move beyond opportunity to achievement. To shatter forever not only the barriers of law and public practice, but the walls which bound the condition of man by the color of his skin."

Action Rather Than Words

As his graduating class audience was well aware, Mr. Johnson is a man of action more than of words. His Civil Rights Acts of 1964 and 1965, which went far beyond any previous legislation had backed up his words. Now the incredibly sweeping Civil Rights Act of 1966, which comes closer than ever to striking at the heart of racial discrimination and exploitation, is before Congress. Unfortunately, Congress is just at that stage in the term of a new president when it becomes recalcitrant. Whether the president thought of this in the timing of his conference is unknown, but the gathering provided a much-needed prod to balking legislators.

To prepare for last week's event, Mr. Johnson convened a meeting of 200 civil rights leaders and specialists last November. Their lines of thought were passed to a 30-man inter-racial council, which last month produced a report containing recommendations for consideration by the full conference. The recommendations were breathtakingly radical, especially considering that the council chairman was an esteemed member of the white business establishment (Mr. Ben Heineman, spectacularly successful chairman of the once-ailing Chicago and Northwestern Railway; he even made his commuter trains pay their way).

Painful Facts

Without dealing with the recommendations, suffice it to say that they sought to improve the actual conditions of the Negro. The council realized that despite the passage of laws and the theoretical recognition of rights, the painful facts remained: A much greater proportion of Negroes than of whites was unemployed, and the proportion increased alarmingly among youth; too many Negroes were living on welfare, being brought up in broken homes, being born to a condition of hopelessness, living in enforced idleness, drifting into crime or modern methods of intoxication (spelled DOPE), attending inferior and segregated schools, living in ghettoes, being excluded from homes, bars, unions companies, neighborhoods — from America itself.

The new recognition, both in the council report and the pending 1966 Civil Rights Act, is that theoretical equality under the law does not mean actual equality of Negroes with the whites' physical condition — social and economic. For that to come, there must be enforcement. The federal government must be able to act, not merely to exhort or to hand out ex-post facto punishment.

Sacred Cows

This necessity conflicts with many once-sacred cows in American society. First, there is the sacred cow of "states rights." The constitution indeed implies that states have the right to legislate outside certain areas barred to them or assigned to Congress; but the constitution also prohibits unequal protection of the laws or abridgement of the "privileges or immunities" of any U.S. citizen.

The southern states in particular have defaulted on guaranteeing equality, and the performance of some northern states is becoming increasingly questionable. Racial equality nowadays really means the restructuring of American society, and only the federal government is big enough to pull it off.

Second, there is the sacred cow of "freedom." This is interpreted by racists in or out of the south to mean freedom to deny equal access to facilities under one's ownership, on grounds of race. But the federal government is not buying this perversion of freedom; it is not accepting the freedom to deny freedom.

So there is a fight on. Another long, hot summer is approaching. There have already been vicious stirrings in some of the ghettoes. The sweltering Negroes must see the road away from their plight. They must see it this summer, or the next, or the next; no one, white or black, can tell which summer the breaking point will come. But come it must if the Negro en masse becomes convinced that there is no non-violent way into the greater American community. Violence will get him nowhere, of course: 20,000,000 cannot prevail over 180,000,000. But violence follows the dictates of emotion, not logic. And a good deal of emotion bubbled over at the White House conference.

HISTORIC DEVELOPMENT

By JOSEPH ALSOP

Rebuilding Asian Power

EVERY so often, historical developments are so vast, so amorphous and so gradual that they pass almost unperceived until men wake up, one morning, to find they are living in a quite different world. As a final postcript to an Asian journey, it seems worth noting that such a development is now going on in the Far East, and more particularly, in the nations of basically Chinese culture. Chinese Communism, the Vietnamese war, the Japanese industrial success, all engage our attention; but these are mere flecks of spume on the surface of the underlying wave.

Alsop

The wave itself is simply the process of adjustment of these ancient nations to the Western industrial society, whose techniques must be taken over by any nation wishing to compete in the modern world. Because of our extreme historical provincialism, very few of us grasp the inner drama of this process.

How many of us realize, for instance, that in every one of China's recurrent periods of success, China was invariably richer and more powerful than any Western nation or empire, from the foundation of the Chinese empire in the third century B.C. until about the 18th century? Or how many imagine that hardly more than three centuries have passed since the leading Western nations began to overtake Japan in strength and wealth?

The achievement of Japan tends to be taken for granted. It is in fact more astonishing and impressive than the post-war revival of Europe, and not least because the Japanese, with their tiny allowance of tillable land, have now come pretty close to feeding themselves. Yet in some ways, the Japanese achievement is less striking than other elements in the general pattern.

On Formosa

Consider, for example, the Chinese on Formosa. They have always carried the immense burden of armed forces numbering about 600,000 men. For a while, they seemed stuck on dead centre, despite U.S. aid. Today, beyond some military equipment, they are able to dispense with aid; and their agricultural and industrial growth is now proceeding at a breath-taking pace.

Or consider South Korea, so desperately poor both in land and natural resources. Here, too, there is a disproportionate military burden, and aid is still essential on a considerable scale. But rapid growth in agriculture and industry is now beginning; Western firms doing business in the Far East are eagerly competing for Korean technicians; and if all goes well, South Korea should be one of the richer Asian nations in 10 years time.

Finally, consider Hong Kong, a mere waterless rock, with no natural advantages except a good harbor, a British-led police force, and a Chinese population. Who could have imagined, in 1945, that this mere rock would give a decent living to close on 4,000,000 people, or that it could become the leading light-industrial city of the world?

There is a unifying pattern, too, in all these cases. Without exception, seemingly insurmountable handicaps have been surmounted; limited resources have been made to produce very great results; Western technology has been brilliantly exploited in circumstances that would defeat most Westerners.

One cannot read the riddle of this curious pattern. One can only note that in all the cases cited, the pattern is quite clear. One must assume, therefore, that the pattern will eventually be repeated by the other peoples with the same cultural heritage — mainly the Vietnamese and the mainland Chinese.

In South Viet Nam, despite the war's ugliness, you can see signs on every side of the future success that should follow swiftly on the heels of peace. The wealth is there already. The war is training the technicians.

China's Future

In China, too, the current political convulsion points to future change, which will give more scope to the incomparable energy and talent of the Chinese people. Mao Tse-tung's Communism began as a contraption to restore China's ancient greatness. The Chinese, being highly practical people, will assuredly manage to find better ways to the same end before too much time has passed.

All this is important to note, because the process that is now at work will change the world map in the end. A huge new power centre is beginning to be formed in the Far East. Within a generation, the virtual power-monopoly of the Western nations is likely to be broken for good.

Under cover of parliamentary immunity, our members can say in the Commons anything that comes to their mind. They can accuse each other of the worst crimes and even accuse ordinary citizens of murder while the latter have no recourse to justice.

Immunity is a good thing if it allows real scandals to be brought to light, but what a deplorable thing it is if it serves only to destroy reputations and carry out political vengeance.

No doubt in yey serious cases, the parliamentary committee on privileges and elections would make an inquiry and put a brake on the abuse of language, but outside the Commons, nothing and nobody can force a member to appear before the courts, although he might have accused the most innocent citizen of murder.

In short, parliamentary immunity can authorize all sorts of derogatory remarks. . . . And nothing protects the population against these misdeeds, not even the useless Canadian Bill of Rights.

Because of this, one can be excused for wondering whether this privilege should not be taken away from the members.

At the very least, its exercise should be limited and, more than anything, our members should roll their tongues seven times in their mouths before speaking. They would then say fewer foolish things and commit fewer injustices.

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste

Where does the truth lie in the matter of fraudulent bankruptcies? Fraud has always existed in the business world. The fact it has progressed by leaps and bounds during the last two or three decades is self-evident, but its extent has not yet been determined.

How serious is the fraud and what is its repercussion in the business world? No answer has yet been given. The situation remains confused. And it is not without reason that many businessmen's associations demand a royal commission inquiry into fraudulent bankruptcies in Canada.

It is still the Canadian Lumber Dealers' Association which insists most vigorously on an inquiry capable of lancing and draining the abscess. Through the voice of Jacques LeBlanc, president of the Quebec Federation of Businessmen's Associations, the lumber dealers' association says that "fraudulent bankruptcies cost Canadian businessmen a half billion dollars in 1965." According to the same report, the business world is not the only one to be hit by bankruptcies. It is said tax revenue lost totals at least $150,000,000.

Mr. LeBlanc says the government will have to seek this lost revenue in the pockets of the man in the street while certain chiefs of the underworld, disguised as honest financiers or industrialists, seem to control the destinies of the country.

The statement of the president of the federation of businessmen's associations has an all-inclusive character which leaves few skeptics. Perhaps he used this tactic to impress public opinion.

But the fact remains that the abscess of fraudulent bankruptcies exists, that fraud constitutes a criminal industry the ramifications of which cover the whole country and even cross our borders. In millions of dollars, it represents much more than armed robberies.

God and Sex

In view of the sex obsession brought on by the immorality of today among many adults and young people, to say nothing of "babes" as young as 11 years (one in the States was reported in the public press as passing on V.D. to no less than 35 boys), you will be doing a great public service, as well as a spiritual duty, by drawing attention to the Word of God, Hebrews 13:4; "Marriage is honorable to all, but whoremongers and adulterers God will judge." — D. C., Hartley, 1284 Revercomb.

Courteous, Efficient

On Thursday, June 2, I was involved in a severe head-on collision on Oak Bay Avenue in which one automobile was demolished beyond repair, one badly damaged and a third, slightly damaged.

The Oak Bay Police were on the spot within seconds and removed one driver who had been trapped in his wreck.

Within minutes the police had politely, calmly and efficiently cleared the road, asked drivers for licences, insurance cards and statements, obtained information from witnesses, notified garages for tow trucks, answered our questions, dispatched one driver to hospital for a check-up and even radioed a taxi for myself.

As a new resident of Oak Bay and the Victoria area, I now fully appreciate the high regard the residents of Oak Bay hold for their Police Force.—David F. Else, 833 Byng.

WIRETAP GROWTH OUTLINED

WASHINGTON—An electronic eavesdropping expert told a Senate subcommittee that wiretapping is rapidly outgrowing the scope of present laws designed to contain it.

Berhard Spindel of New York urged the administrative practice and procedure subcommittee to draft legislation making all wiretapping illegal, even recording by an individual of his own conversations.

Sen. Edward V. Long, subcommittee chairman, said before Spindel testified that this new round of hearings on eavesdropping would concentrate on snooping among competing private corporations. The testimony, however, quickly shifted to involvement of police and government agencies in wiretapping.

Harsh Critics

Both Spindel and the other witness appearing with him, William J. Hussey, retired chief investigator for the New York Telephone Co., gave harsh testimony on government operations in the eavesdropping field.

Spindel was tried and acquitted in 1958 of charges that he tapped telephone lines of Teamster Union officials for union president James R. Hoffa and Hussey currently is under $75,000 bond as a material witness in wiretap-gambling investigations in New York.

Both regaled the subcommittee with anecdotes gleaned from years of tapping and counter-tapping.

Spindel, who said he now ferrets out snooping devices for clients who suspect they are wiretap victims, told of the bizarre turns wiretap cases sometimes take.

Suspected Bug

He said the vice-president of a leading cosmetics manufacturer suspected his phones were being monitored, so the company hired an expert to find the devices and trace the culprits.

It turned out that the eavesdropping expert hired by the victimized company was the same man who had planted the listening devices for its competitor.

His report to the victims said that he found no eavesdropping devices in the executive's office, but discovered clear evidence of past wiretapping.

Spindel also said that a leading New York bondsman once suspected that his phones were being tapped and asked Spindel to investigate.

The witness said that he traced wires to the office of the district attorney, but when he notified the telephone company he was told that it was their practice to refer such complaints to the district attorney.

Live In Fear

Hussey said that all phone company officials live "in mortal fear of government regulatory agencies" and are reluctant to refuse co-operation with police wiretapping.

He described an informal understanding between phone officials and local police in New York by which wiretapping aid is supplied by the telephone company in return for assiduous detection of coin-box telephone thieves by police.

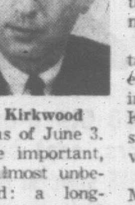
Southeast Asia Outlook Becoming More Hopeful

By JOHN KIRKWOOD
Times Far East Correspondent

HONG KONG — Some of the most encouraging news the nations of turbulent Southeast Asia have heard for a long time has emerged recently from the charming Thailand capital city of Bangkok and from the Philippines.



Kirkwood

First, the Republic of the Philippines — a nation staunchly pro-Western and fervently democratic — announced diplomatic recognition of the Federation of Malaysia as of June 3.

And, even more important, in Bangkok the almost unbelievable happened: a long-heralded meeting on neutral ground between the foreign ministers of Indonesia and Malaysia which ended in champagne toasts and agreement instead of the customary insults and disagreement.

The Philippines' long-awaited decision to recognize Malaysia marks the end of an unfortunate period of diplomacy which started almost three years ago when the republic, then headed by President Diosdado Macapagal, severed diplomatic ties because of his country's rather obscure claim to the Borneo state of Sabah, now part of Malaysia.

Bigger Role

But, under the dynamic leadership of fiery President Ferdinand Marcos, the Philippines in recent months has been playing a more and more important role in trying to settle the disagreements between Indonesia and Malaysia and, thus, has managed to gain the confidence of both governments.

Now that the decision to restore diplomatic ties has been made, the Philippines should lose nothing and gain much: her claim to Sabah (never pressed with too much zeal) will doubtless be settled peacefully; and, most important, Malaysia will now be able to help her extensively in her battle to wipe out the rampant smuggling of cigarettes and luxury goods which flood into the island republic from the Malaysian states in Borneo.

But the developments between Indonesia and Malaysia are of even greater importance.

For almost three years — ever since the Federation of Malaysia was formed — the glowering Republic of Indonesia has waged a pointless and enormously costly war of confrontation against it.

Now, in the short period since power was wrested from the stubborn and headstrong President Sukarno, it appears the new leaders are determined to end it.

First, an Indonesian military delegation took almost everyone by surprise by flying into the Malaysian capital of Kuala Lumpur to pay a secretly-arranged goodwill visit.

Then, Indonesian Foreign Minister Adam Malik and Malaysian Deputy Prime Minister Tun Abdul Razak held a round of formal talks in Bangkok.

The results: although confrontation will not end overnight it definitely appears that only details remain to be ironed out before, at last, Indonesia and Malaysia can live quietly together as friendly neighbors.

Stubbornly trying to cling to his once omnipotent power, the ebullient Sukarno continues to oppose the end of his cherished confrontation:

"I am keeping my mouth shut now in one thousand languages," he grandly proclaimed just the other day.

"However, with God's will, at some time in the future I will pour out all my feelings and I will say what I have to say."

Say what he might, observers of the Southeast Asian scene are no longer listening to the mighty Bung Karno.

They're watching, instead, the sober, determined actions of the new Indonesian leaders and the top ministers of Malaysia, all of whom seem intent to end confrontation as soon as possible.

Perhaps the most encouraging development of all to emerge from the tangled Indonesia-Malaysia-Philippines hassle is the fresh new spirit of co-operation which appears to be blowing through the sultry air.

Over the centuries the nations of Southeast Asia have been at one another's throats for one reason or another.

Now, for the first time in their histories, Indonesia, Malaysia, the Philippines and Thailand seem bent on nothing but co-operation.

Shakespeare's Henry V As an Anti-War Play

By RICHARD COE

(Mr. Coe is a drama critic for The Washington Post)

STRATFORD, Ont. — Youngsters were playing baseball at the bottom of a riverside hill when trumpets punctuate their shouts and the spectators flock into the hilltop theatre to watch "Henry V."

This was the opening of Canada's 14th annual Stratford Festival, begun and dominated by Shakespeare but now expanded to music and ballet, Strindberg and Mozart.

Why "Henry V?"

"What," asks festival director Michael Langham, "has this jingoistic national enthem of a play to do with our age?" In his new staging of the history, which had given Christopher Plummer a stirring version in '56, Langham seems to be thinking of the futures of those schoolboy players at the foot of the hill.

For with a bedraggled army, exhausted individuals and unfamiliar accents, he has turned "Henry V" into an anti-war play.

The English are fighting in France to insure Henry's claim to the English throne. Through clerical machinations which also claim for him the French, a successful Henry can have security, costly to his inferiors but satisfying to family pride.

For this land of a vocative French minority, director Langham also has thoughts about contemporary France. The king, ironically named Charles, is nobly enough intended but fitful, dying and clutching to grandeur. The atmosphere around this Charles is filled with glory, glitter and pomposity, all empty and arrogantly personified by the Dauphin.

Darker Tones

Thus, in new accents and darker tones "Henry V" becomes a study in the reasonings which lead to wars. Of the French, because that's the way the play is, we see only the rulers and their fated false values. Of the English it is the steady sober people who may survive though no one really will win. Some are slobs or fools: Falstaff dies off-stage, Pistol, Nym and Bardolph are common looters but there are such as Michael Williams to question the King's responsibilities.

Chorus — He who begin's "Oh for a muse of fire' — solidifies this anti-war impression. His comments have in William Hutt's skillful reading, more sorrow than pride, more coolness than passion, the grieved observer of unfortunate events. Hutt's performance is a major force to this production for when we question whether we have guessed the director's intention correctly, there is Hutt's reading to underline it, a subtly critical performance.

Reasons Way

Douglas Rin's King Harry also is carefully couched. Eschewing assured heroics, he reasons his way into them, a thinking man who chooses his means to security with little fire but regretful skill.

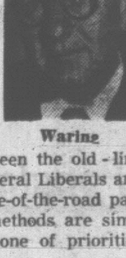
Jean Gascon, Canada's leading French theatrical figure who has directed here but whom I had not seen act, is marvellously skillful as Charles VI, who might as well be Charles de G. — quite a comment.

All this is, of course, quite another reading from the wartime film with which Laurence Olivier set the "Henry V" key for a generation.

Elections Without Issues One Reason for Stalemate

By GERALD WARING

OTTAWA — It can hardly be wholly coincidental that the last three federal elections and the last two provincial elections have all resulted in virtual stalemates. This signifies something about our political leaders or our people. But what?



Waring

The federal stalemate is commonly attributed to a popular revulsion against the Grit and Tory leaders. But a great many voters couldn't stand Mackenzie King either.

No, the answer is deeper than personalities. Policies perhaps? There is not a great deal of difference between the old-line parties on this score. The federal Liberals and Conservatives are both middle-of-the-road parties. Their objectives and methods are similar; the difference is more one of priorities and emphasis and timing.

I think this may also prove to be true when the Quebec Union Nationale faces the realities of governing. During the campaign, UN leader Daniel Johnson spouted fire about what his government would do in confrontation with Ottawa, but Jean Lesage has made the same kind of noises.

★ ★ ★

It would be possible to work up a woolly argument about a confused and divided people uncertain of their identity and destiny and not knowing which way to turn—except that I suspect that's a lot of hokum.

The main reason we have stalemated parliaments and legislatures is that premiers persist in believing it's enough to present the voters with the government's record. But a government that stands for re-election solely on its record has one strike against it. The voters have short memories.

When you match this with an opposition that really hasn't much more to offer than the government, you create a situation favorable for stalemate.

Prime Minister Pearson was stalemated Nov. 8 because the voters had no enthusiasm for his election issue, his desire for a majority. Premier Walter Shaw of Prince Edward Island sought re-election May 30 on his record, and when the votes were counted he had two fewer seats than the Liberal opposition, but with voting in one two-member riding still to be held. Premier Lesage stood on his record with a promise of more of the same, but lost by a margin so narrow as to leave the new legislature virtually stalemated.

Thus a common denominator in all three elections was the lack of an issue potent enough to grip the imaginations of large numbers of voters. This fact won't be lost on Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba, who is in an election campaign, and Premier W. A. C. Bennett of British Columbia, who is believed to be planning an election this year.

Another common factor is the state of the electorate: relatively affluent, fed up with elections and politicians, and engrossed in the problems and interests of personal living. Voters who don't want to be bothered are poor prospects for a government's re-election, while those who welcome an election are likely to be those who want to vote against the government.

In Quebec the basic conservatism of the people spoke in overwhelming rejection of separatism. Mr. Johnson will have to consider whether a conservative disaffection for the speed and fruits of the Liberals' "quiet revolution" wasn't more important to his victory than his bellicose attitude towards Ottawa.

Genetics and the Future of Man

By E. A. CARLSON

(Associate professor of zoology at the University of California at Los Angeles and author of the forthcoming book: "The Gene: A Critical History.")

Life was cheap in our grandparents' day. In 1900, six of the 10 major causes of death were infectious diseases and a family of four to six children frequently experienced one or two deaths from such diseases.

Today, we expect all our children to live. Only one infectious disease, pneumonia, remains among the top 10 killers. Public health work, mass immunization and medical advances have changed a death pattern that had been taken for granted for thousands of years.

But while we celebrate the victory over infectious diseases, we overlook a problem that the victory has brought. Why was it that in the old days only a few members of a large family died from infectious diseases? Geneticists have suggested that the susceptibility of resistance to infectious diseases reflects the genetic constitution or genotype of the individual.

At conception, each human being receives 46 chromosomes, the microscopic physical basis of heredity found in the nuclei of cells. These 46 chromosomes (23 from a sperm and 23 from an egg) contains about 100,000 genes, which compose a human "blueprint" or genotype. This genotype gives the individual his biological uniqueness.

Genes Seldom Make Errors

When genes duplicate, they seldom make errors in assembling the exact sequences of nucleotides (the chemical basis of heredity) which provide the code for the various proteins in the cell. This accuracy is not perfect, however, and one out of every 100,000 copies will be defective, or mutant. Like a delicate watchwork dropped on the floor, a gene is much more likely to lose its function than to improve it as a result of the mutational accident.

Because there are 100,000 genes in a human cell, the fertilization of an egg results in an individual with one more mutation than his parents had. Most of these mutations (more than 99.9 per cent) are losses of function; they slightly weaken the individual who receives them although the other parent may have contributed an unmutated gene for that particular function. The average impairment of such a "covered" mutation is 1 to 2 per cent.

Each of us carries about eight such covered mutations. This is called our genetic load. There are about five generations per century, and within 200 years, eight covered mutations would accumulate per person.

But man has lived considerably longer than this. What has happened to the rest of his accumulated genetic load? The answer to this is seen in the six infectious diseases among the 10 main causes of death before the 20th century.

Infectious diseases carried off many of the children with higher genetic loads and those with tolerable loads lived on and reproduced. Man was subject to natural selection through infectious diseases.

Man's Genetic Load Higher

In the 20th century, man removed himself from natural selection. The elimination of infectious diseases results in the higher accumulation of a genetic load. In two centuries, the load may be doubled and the average individual will carry 16 covered mutations. Can he tolerate this load? How is the load expressed in the absence of infectious diseases?

Some of this load is eliminated today by miscarriage (20 per cent of all pregnancies) and by sterility (mutations affecting fertility and sperm and egg production). Ten per cent of couples attempting to have children are permanently sterile and either sex is equally likely to have inherited infertility. A smaller portion is lost in uncovered mutations if both parents contribute a similar defect (cystic fibroses, muscular dystrophy, childhood diabetes).

Where the load is not eliminated before reproduction, it expresses itself in precocious heart attack, susceptibility to cancer, precocious stroke and chronic illness.

Our load of mutations also results in a loss of teeth, impaired hearing, a need for eyeglasses, allergies and other "trivial" complaints.

If nothing is done medically to replace the elimination of excessive genetic loads of mutation, then the population of the future will see a rise in miscarriages, infertility, birth defects, inherited childhood diseases, precocious heart attack and precocious stroke.

The man of two centuries hence would suffer from multiple complaints. Major surgery would be as commonly expected as a tonsillectomy is today. The effort to provide medical skills to repair the effects of larger loads would be costly and frustrating.

It is my belief that this cannot go on indefinitely. Just as man resisted and then accepted mass immunization and enforced standards of public health, so will he demand controls over his own heredity. However repugnant it is to our values today, the prospect of genetic control, or eugenics, will be an inevitable feature of man's future.

There are two prevailing eugenic philosophies today. Negative eugenics seeks a status quo with today's load of mutations. It hopes that selective breeding techniques and genetic control devices will be used only to prevent the conception of fertilized eggs bearing excessive mutational loads.

Positive eugenics would use the same genetic tools and techniques to reduce our present mutational load and associated with intelligence and creative talents.

Needs Century Of Education

It is likely that the use of negative eugenics will be commonplace a century from now. But it will require another century of education, technological advance and a debate on values before positive eugenics will be employed, because of its many potential abuses.

Much of the technology that can be applied to eugenics will be a consequence of our mastery of the genetic code. The sequences of nucleotides in the "blueprint" compound DNA (deoxyribonucleic acid) can be translated directly as a sequence of amino acids in a protein.

Within this century, the primary sequence of amino acids will be used to predict the three-dimensional structure of the protein in different psychological environments. Computers will be used to calculate the most favorable folding and organization of the protein from its sequence.

The analysis of an enzyme's function from its three-dimensional structure will also be possible by the end of this century. Computers can then be used to design enzymes for any known (or desired) biochemical function. The genetic code of such artificial enzymes can be determined readily from the amino acid sequence.

Also by the end of this century, biochemists will have learned how to synthesize short molecules of DNA containing nucleotides of any desired sequence. The test tube synthesis of proteins from nucleic acid has already been done, and there should be no problem using such artificial genes to produce enzymes for a variety of human needs.

Primary Source Of All Food

For example, photosynthesis of sugar from carbon dioxide and water is done by plants. This is the primary source of food for all other life on earth.

The artificial manufacture of these photosynthetic enzymes by the technology of the 21st century will provide an enormous increase in the available food supply for the 10 to 15 billion people living at that time.

In the 22nd century, the possible eugenic technology will increase. A simple blood test required for a marriage license will provide the basis for a genotype analysis by computer. The mutational load of each individual can thus be estimated, and if either or both parents exceed accepted norms, they may be counseled to have artificial insemination or implantation instead.

As these advances in molecular biology and molecular medicine become accepted, the nature of medicine will change. It will become almost exclusively preventive. There will be no infectious diseases; all illness will be of genetic origin except for accidents, maternity and senescence.

The population of the world will be fixed, birth control will be universal, higher education will be universal and the world standard of living will be high. To maintain these conditions, both negative and positive eugenics will become established habits of human reproduction.

Talks Launched To End Strike

VANCOUVER (CP) — Professor Ray Herbert of the University of British Columbia today launched his attempt to settle the civic outside workers' strike.

Prof. Herbert, appointed Wednesday by the provincial government as an industrial inquiry commissioner, planned separate meetings today with city representatives and union officials.

The strike of the 1,500 outside workers is in its 35th day. The men want a 70-cent increase over three years on thtir basic hourly pay of $2.28½, but they indicated before the strike they might accept 40 cents over two years. The city's final offer was 28½ cents over two years.

Meanwhile, electrical mechanics, wiremen, linemen and radio technicians employed by the city voted 28-10 Thursday for a strike to back up demands for a nine per cent increase on their present rate of $3.56 an hour.

There was no indication when they plan to strike. They rejected a conciliation board recommendation of a 5.65 per cent raise.

In suburban North Vancouver, striking civic and school board employees asked Thursday for an industrial inquiry commissioner. There was no immediate comment from Labor Minister Peterson.

The North Vancouver strike started 17 days ago.

Silver Threads Membership Nears 4,000

Membership in Victoria Silver Threads Centre today topped 3,800.

"New members are coming at the rate of 10 or more daily and this morning we were swamped with applications," said Mrs. Catherine Horne, director.

"Our growth in membership has been phenomenal since Sept. 3, 1965."

On that date, the Centre moved to its capacious quarters at 4 Centennial Square from the old clubrooms on Broughton St.

In addition to the registered membership, the centre provides counseling for 800 to 1,000 senior citizens every year.

They are advised on housing, pensions, taxes and other matters.

strike three years ago and for this we have to hold up talks in the current strike to go to court. We were in court yesterday and again today and we could be in court for the rest of the week."

"It seems they just want to stall the talks," he added.

Federal mediator Judge Rene Lippe held talks Thursday with officials and legal advisers, of the International Longshoremen's Association (CLC), which represents the 4,250 striking dockworkers who have tied up the ports of Montreal, Quebec City and Trois-Rivieres since May 9.

The longshoremen are seeking a new two-year contract with the Shipping Federation of Canada. Wages, working conditions and the size of work gangs are at issue.

Judge Lippe told reporters after talks with federation representatives that "we're narrowing the gap, that's for sure."

Meanwhile, Prime Miniser Pearson told the Commons any parliamentary intervention in the dispute in the national interest would involve a most delicate decision by the government and Parliament.

"We have not given up hope that this most serious dispute can be settled by the process of collective bargaining and not through parliamenary intervention," he said.

SEEKS ADMINISTRATOR

The subject came up when the New Democratic Party attempted to introduce legislation calling for the appointment of a federal administrator to reopen the strike-bound ports.

The bill would also institute an 80 - cent hourly wage increase over two years and shelve for at least a year any reduction in work gangs.

The bill, drafted by Frank Howard (NDP—Skeena), may be introduced today.

Meanwhile, ships diverted from Montreal are unloading goods as far away as Halifax and Toledo, Ohio.

All three Quebec ports were quiet this week after a flare-up of violence early last week. Picketing is continuing but is reduced to token forces due to interim injunctions granted last week.

Injunction hearings for all ports are scheduled for June 17.

Many ships are still tied up in the ports and others are anchored in the St. Lawrence River between Quebec and Montreal.

'Cut Tax If Savings Passed On'

OTTAWA (CP) — Revenue Minister Benson said Thursday the 11 per cent federal sales tax represents between 1.8 and 3 cents of the retail dollar price of prescription drugs,

He reiterated to the Commons drug price inquiry that the government is willing to exempt these from the tax, collected at the manufacturers level, but wants to be sure the benefit will be passed along to the consumer.

Mr. Benson said the customs duty has little or no impact on prices to the consumer of prescription drugs.

Only 1.9 per cent of drugs sold in Canada were imported in finished form and the duty represented 6.25 cents per retail dollar. Another 19 per cent of drugs sold were imported in unfinished or bulk condition and the duty impact was 2½ cents on the retail dollar.

The remaining 80 per cent imported for sale carried a duty-impact at retail level of seven-tenths of 1 per cent per dollar.

a 40-hour work week next year, with a reduction of 48 from 56 hours in the meantime. The shipping companies have accepted the compromise proposal which brings the 40-hour week a year closer than their best previous offer.

Wilson's statement, approved by the cabinet, said the government welcomes the fact the TUC had called the seamen's union national executive to a meeting.

TUC leaders told the seamen they are now "on their own."

The union has requested other unions to boycott foreign tankers bringing in oil normally carried by British ships, which would cut the country's oil imports in half. They also asked that British ships docking here not be unloaded.

SOLIDITY BROKEN

Earlier Thursday, there was the first sign of a peace movement within the union, after a week in which militant strikers had been increasingly vocal and had carried the day with demands for a tough stand.

A delegation from the union's small local at Harwich, northeast of London, arrived to tell the national leaders they thought the inquiry formula was a basis for new negotiations.

If a split within the union membership develops it would probably pit deep-sea sailors against those working the coastal trade and short ferry runs. The Harwich members mostly work on ferries.

Before meeting with the TUC the union executive decided to launch an appeal to other unions for financial support in the strike. It said it now is paying out £60,000 ($180,000) a week in strike pay.

More than 22,000 of the union's 63,000 members now are on strike. The union says more than 780 ships are tied up.

Belmont High Mourns Crash Victim

Teachers and students from Belmont High School were among the more than 100 mourners Thursday at the funeral of traffic victim Lee Gerald Williams.

The 19-year-old boy, the only son of Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Williams, died Saturday of head injuries about 12 hours after the car in which he was riding slammed sideways into a tree on Glen Lake Road.

He was a Grade 12 student at Belmont High School and with his parents came to Langford from Calgary two years ago.

The service at Colwood Thursday was conducted by Rev. William Van Druten.

12-HOUR BATTLE

An inquest into the death Wednesday revealed doctors had fought a 12-hour battle in vain to save the life of the boy. He finally succumbed to brain damage, blood clotting from a broken leg and pneumonia.

The inquest was adjourned until June 29 when it will be resumed in magistrate's court.

At a coroner's inquiry earlier Wednesday, Walter Cahill, 516 Yates, was ruled to have died by accidental drowning.

Mr. Cahill's body was pulled from the water near the Causeway on Saturday.

Driver Fined $300 For Impairment

A Vancouver man was fined $300 Thursday when he pleaded guilty to impaired driving.

Police testified they stopped Gordon Birchall early Thursday morning after he was seen speeding and weaving on Estevan.

Fined $200 when he appeared for sentence on a similar charge was Larry Mitchell, 18, of 611 Fernhill.

He was placed on probation for a year for dangerous driving and barred from driving for a similar period.

LESAGE DECLARES:

'Hold Johnson' To His Promises

QUEBEC (CP) — Premier Jean Lesage meets Daniel Johnson next Tuesday to set a date for the transfer of power to Mr. Johnson's Union Nationale party, which won a four-seat majority in Sunday's Quebec provincial election.

The Liberal party won 51 seats compared with 55 for the Union Nationale. The other two seats in Quebec's 108-seat legislative assembly went to independents, one of whom has said he will support the Union Nationale.

Mr. Lesage told a press conference Thursday:

"I have informed the lieutenant-governor of my intention to submit my resignation on a date which will be set during my meeting with Mr. Johnson next Tuesday."

As Opposition leader, he planned to hold the Union Nationale to its campaign promises and to make sure that patronage and favoritism never recur in Quebec.

The Liberals would never indulge in "systematic obstruction" or "sterile battles for nothing," but would introduce "a more modern and efficient concept of the role of the Opposition."

Mr. Johnson said he will announce the date of the next session after his meeting with Mr. Lesage and added that "the announcement will take into account the tradition that vacations are always more agreeable when one can take them with the children"

START IN SEPTEMBER?

This was taken to mean that the sitting would not begin until summer vacations for school children end in early September,

Johnson is expected to take two cabinet posts in addition to the job of premier when he forms his cabinet.

Mr. Johnson, informants suggested Thursday, is likely to assume both the federal-provincial affairs and the justice portfolios in his cabinet.

It is believed that Paul Dozois, UN financial critic in the last house, will be offered both the finance and revenue portfolios.

It also is believed that Jean-Jacques Bertrand will be asked to take both the education and family and social welfare posts. Two men likely to be named ministers without portfolios — Jean-Marie Morin and Michel Masse—probably will aid Mr. Bertrand with his family and social welfare post.

Yves Gabias, member for Trois Rivieres, is expected to be assigned the job of provincial secretary. He was expelled from the legislature in 1964 when he made an allegation of bribery against then-attorney-general Rene Hamel.

A legislature committee ruled the allegation unfounded and expelled Mr. Gabias for three years.

Mr. Johnson did not comment on Mr. Lesage's reference to patronage. But Bertrand, welfare and youth minister when the Union Nationale was defeated in 1960, said in an interview: "The movement leading to the complete disappearance of patronage must continue, and more quickly than before."

Paul Dozois, former municipal affairs minister, said the Union Nationale plans to set up a committee through which the opposition would be able to examine government spending plans. As a supplementary guarantee, the legislature's public accounts committee would be able to review expenditures already made.

Mr. Lesage said the result of the election was not affected by the two separatist parties in the running, or by the fact that the election was held on a Sunday for the first time.

The three factors which had caused his defeat were the elimination of patronage, which had angered some persons; "apathy and overconfidence" on the part of Liberal candidates and supporters; and independent Liberal candidates, who drained off part of the Liberal vote.

KIDNAP VICTIM ESCAPES

GUATEMALA CITY (Reuters) — The kidnapped first vice-president of Guatemala's National Congress has escaped from rebel captivity, it was learned today.

Hector Menendez Delariva, also secretary-general of the Institutional Democratic party, was kidnapped May 26 by the Communist Revolutionary Armed Forces, F.A.R.

Leaders of his party confirmed his escape, but would not give details of how it was carried out or where he had been held.

'Many Answers Needed' On Regional Management

VANCOUVER — There are a number of "unanswered questions which require clarification" about the new regional boards, Victoria city manager Dennis Young said Thursday.

He was addressing a regional government seminar at the Canadian Association of Mayors and Municipalities meeting here.

Is it to be a voluntary partnership or a form of metropolitan government?

The fact that members had the right to opt out indicated the former, but if this was so it was unlikely that a lasting union would be formed.

He pointed out that one Greater Victoria municipality has decided against providing its share for the acquisition of regional parks.

Will district boards be eligible for aid from senior governments? This seemed to be unknown.

Would boards be accountable to ratepayers for their actions? Since voting power was held by members appointed by councils, they might not be too sensitive to the wishes of taxpayers.

Mr. Young explained the mechanics of a regional board and stressed it could encompass the best of two worlds — direct service without interference with parochial interests.

But he said it is "obvious that regional boards have their work cut out for them if they are going to fulfill successfully the grand design on which they are based."

MAYORS WANT LAW CHANGED

By TOM CARNEY

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Criminal Code should be amended to allow municipal agencies to give out birth control information, the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities agreed Thursday.

Delegates to the federation's 29th annual conference approved a request that the federal government amend the code.

They also asked senior governments to provide funds to compensate those who are victims of criminal acts.

During the conference which started Tueday, more than 1,000 delegates heard guest speakers and took part in discussions of urban renewal sections of the National Housing Act, the need for a Canadian community development act, urban policy and municipal government, and solution of regional problems.

The conference called for a review of the whole municipal tax structure at the three levels of government and exploration of the possibility of a federal-provincial - municipal conference for such a review.

It also called for a broadening of the National Housing Act to give municipalities more financial assistance, and asked that senior governments increase assistance in the municipal burden of education and health service costs.

The federation established a standing committee to co-ordinate research material, study new plans and devices and advise related parties on municipal problems, pollution of air and water and sewage disposal.

Delegates asked that the federal government order the Canadian Pacific Railway to restore Dominion passenger train service across the Prairies.

Cancer Development Speeded by 'Pill'

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Quebec researcher says the commonest birth control pills contain an ingredient that stimulates development of cancer in mice.

Dr. Alexander Meisels, associate professor of pathology at Laval University, said Wednesday he does not necessarily mean the pill is dangerous or will cause cancer in women.

But women should know of a potential danger, said Dr. Meisels, here for a conference of the Canadian Federation of Biological Societies.

"The danger I see is that women might take the pills for a very long time, perhaps 20 years, and we don't know what the effects will be," he said at a press conference following presentation of a paper at the conference.

He said the hormones estrogen and progesterone are produced by the ovaries of mice, as by the ovaries of women.

In mice which had their ovaries removed and then had estrogen injected he found no significant change in the number of cancers that developed.

But when progesterone was injected in ovary-less mice there was a significant increase in the number that developed cancer and in the speed in which cancers developed.

OVERPRIVILEGED

Union Bargaining 'Socially Abusive'

TORONTO (CP) — The 92nd general assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada was told Thursday that labor unions don't use their privileges properly.

Speaking on a resolution supporting the right - to - work aspect of union security, Dr. Archibald Brown of Toronto told delegates that unions' conduct at the bargaining table "is socially abusive."

He said if the church supported unionism it would be giving something "to the already overprivileged labor union" that they don't deserve.

Despite his address, the assembly passed the motion and also a resolution asking the federal government to raise old age pensions.

In another session, delegates passed a motion sanctioning inter-racial marriages. The issue was carried easily but the moderator, Dr. G. Deane Johnston, told the assembly it did not mean the church encouraged such marriages.

"The individual must consider the society and culture in which he lives before he takes such a step," Dr. Johnson said.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Most grains showed signs of irregularity in late trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

There was some activity in oil seeds in early trading, stimulated by broad advances in the soybean market in the United States and by the possibility of the sale of edible oils to India and Pakistan. As the session progressed, however, there were reductions from the earlier gains.

CHICAGO (AP) — Demand slackened considerably in the grain futures market today but selling pressure was light to moderate most of the time and prices only slightly easier.

Old-crop soybeans held onto gains of a cent or so most of the time after having opened almost 3 cents higher. Dealers said there seemed to have been some speculative profit-cashing for the weekend but that the offerings were absorbed by commercial accounts.

THE WORLD POPULATION WILL DOUBLE IN 36 YEARS

Obviously this will be good for our young Canadian economy, calling on its huge untouched resources to meet the ever-increasing demands of all countries.

In the resulting flush of enterprise antiquating services will diminish — ventures based on new services will appear. Some will lose, some will win and stay on to become institutional. Many businesses, old and new, will continue as before to experience the irregular ebb and flow of success in their respective classes and in the "long haul" provide a reasonably assured growth for the investor.

But, through it all, the Mortgage business will carry on within its own sanc, protective sphere—unheralded—non-dynamic—punching out its above-average yield year after year.

It is for the investor who requires, economically or psychologically, the assurance of a steady income or growth, without fluctuation, that mortgage investments serve best.

Victoria Mortgage Corporation offers 7½% on 5-year debentures; 7¼% 2½ years; 7% 1 year; (all payable before maturity in event of death). Interest paid quarterly (or compounded on request). Current Mortgages average 39% of appraised security. Share Capital further secures the debenture holder. No acquisition cost. For prospectus to be mailed to you, phone Douglas Hawkes, EV 4-7128.

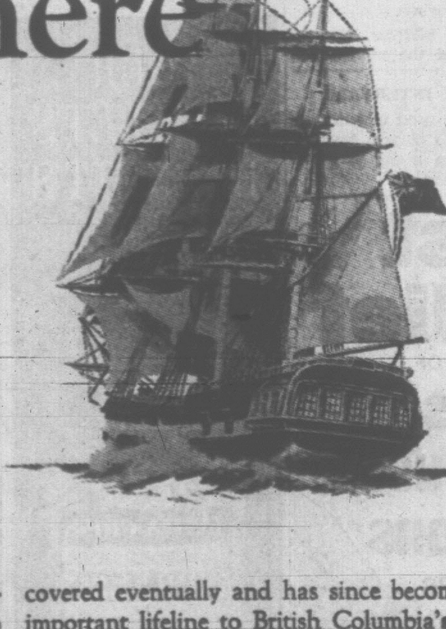
The River that wasn't there



The year is 1791. Captain George Vancouver of the Royal Navy and Don Dionisio Alcala Galiano and Cayetano Valdes, of the Spanish navy, meet aboard one of the Spanish ships anchored off Point Grey. In comparing notes, the explorers find that neither of them has been able to locate Rio Blancho, a river found a year earlier by Jose Maria Narvaez. Thus, the Rio Blancho passes into the annals of discovery as a river that couldn't be found.

History shows that the river was re-discovered eventually and has since become an important lifeline to British Columbia's agriculture and industry. Without it, the dynamic growth of this province would have been impossible. Next time you stand at the banks of the mighty Fraser River, think of the men who discovered it—and lost it. Think also of the men who have made this province what it is today—a shining example of progress. Celebrate Centennial Year — 100 years of British Columbia.

DELAYS INVESTIGATED

Chamber Would Hasten 2-Year-Old Street Plan

A Victoria Chamber of Commerce group will investigate delay in launching a 15-year $35 million arterial transportation plan for Greater Victoria.

The master plan for streets and downtown traffic improvements, parking facilities and a new parkway linking the urban core with main highway accesses was brought in more than a year ago.

A recent Chamber of Commerce director's meeting agreed its implementation is vital to the survival of downtown Victoria as the economic epicentre of the capital region.

The Chamber harbor and transportation group, chaired by director George Farmer, was given the task of compiling a feasibility study which is hoped will point the way to financing the undertaking in co-operation with the provincial government.

'END DELAY'

"We want to get the various bodies acting together, to end the delay and fence-sitting," Mr. Farmer said in outlining a proposed plan of operation.

A preliminary group meeting was held Thursday, attended by most of the seven members of the harbor and transportation group. Others besides Mr. Farmer are Foster Isherwood, Tom Blackwood, Robert Wright, Lionel Walter, Hugh Stephen and Thomas Denny.

Mr. Farmer said a series of meetings between the group and municipal representatives would pave the way for co-ordinating meetings by the fall.

He said it is the intention to get as much technical information as possible first from the engineers and planners of Greater Victoria.

The Capital Region Planning Board, author of the master plan, would be brought into the co-ordinated scheme that will evaluate ideas of how to accomplish the plan.

At present, Mr. Farmer said, there seems to be a bottleneck in development along the eastern half of the route that would be followed by a loop.

SAANICH ACCESS

Even if it were possible to delineate where the Saanich end of the access would lie — which depends on a provincial highways department decision on Patricia Bay Highway — the situation would be improved, Mr. Farmer said.

Mr. Farmer was referring to the extension of Rose Street into a multi-laned route forming part of a loop to encircle the Inner Harbor and legislative precinct via a bridge or tunnel at Laurel Point.

This would be partly elevated to avoid conflict with urban renewal schemes and be built as a landscaped parkway to express highway standards.

The western half of the system, envisaged as an extension of Patricia Bay Highway and Trans-Canada Highway, would follow railway right-of-way, cross Selkirk Water and pass through Victoria West before crossing into James Bay.

Both ends would join the highways at interchanges at the northern side.

The whole would be laid out in harmony with parking facilities and be within walking distance of the downtown business section.

Mr. Farmer feels the partly developed Blanshard-Rose Street section should be continued northward to connect with the suburban highways.

"The other aspect in Victoria West would be more in the future," he said.

Meanwhile, with nothing being done, adjoining development in both Victoria and Saanich is being held up because of zoning uncertainty.

Tunnel Project Starting

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian National Railway Tuesday announced the awarding of contracts for $10,000,000 railway tunnel under suburban Burnaby and part of Vancouver.

The tunnel will connect with a planned $8,000,000 bridge over Burrard Inlet and will form part of a new CNR link with Vancouver Harbor.

The over-all plan, announced in April of last year, calls for the tunnel, bridge, and expansion of yards and other facilities at a total cost of $27,000,000.

Contract for the two-mile tunnel was awarded to Northern Construction Co. and J. W. Stewart Ltd., and Perini Pacific Ltd., both Vancouver firms.

Dennison Mines Biggest Shareholder

TORONTO (CP)—S. B. Roman, president of Dennison Mines Ltd. of Toronto, has confirmed the company has become the largest shareholder in International Mining Corp. of New York.

He said Lewis B. Harder, chairman of International Mining, was wrong in announcing that Dennison purchased 425,000 International shares with a current price of $6,000,000.

MARKET SUMMARIES

New York Up; Trading Heavy

The New York market showed a substantial gain today in the heaviest trading since May.

Industrials remained bouyant in Montreal, Toronto moved fractionally higher. But Vancouver continued low in dull trading.

AT NEW YORK glamor stocks were the leaders in early trading while blue chips moved up conservatively. As the session wore on many of the market wheelhorses also took fire, giving the Dow Jones industrial average a jump of better than eight points.

Alcan gained ⅞ among Canadian stocks. Dome Mines fell 1¾, International Nickel and Walker Gooderham ⅜.

AT MONTREAL utilities were off, with Trans-Canada Pipe Line slipping ⅝ to 32¾ and CPR ¼ to 12½.

Among the papers, Domtar eased ⅛ to 18¼.

Industrials moved higher, with Moore Corp. climbing ¼ to 84¼. Base metals were off, with Cominco declining one point to 41.

The machinery section moved higher, with Massey-Ferguson adding ½ to 35.

AT TORONTO the gold index was down 3.36 to 173.47 and had been as low as 172.26 in morning trade. Dome paced the decline falling 1⅝ to 44¾ and Giant Yellowknife 1 to 12½.

Scurry Rainbow sparked a western oil advance, climbing 2 to 31½. Banff gained ⅝ to 15¾ and Home A ½ to 17⅝. Chieftain added ¾ at 7.

AT VANCOUVER four mines hit new lows. Brightest spot in mines was Norgold which rose to a new high of 20 cents, up .01.

New lows were recorded by Croydon, down .08 to 63 cents; Peel off .01 to 14 cents; Slocan off .04 to 46, and General Resources off .02 to 24 cents. General later regained to 25 cents.

Other mines were: Anuk up .05 to 83 cents; Brenda up .10 to $6.80; Buttle Lake down .03 to 62 cents; Dynasty up 37 to $13.25; Silver Arrow up .04 to 92 cents; Trojan up .03 to 34 cents and West Coast Resources off .04 to 88 cents.

AT LONDON the stock market stood up remarkably well today to an apparent deadlock in the seamen's strike. Selling was light and a little selective buying was enough to maintain a firm undertone.

A Wall Street price rally was more than offset by a further fall in the dollar premium and dollar stocks were mostly easier. In Canadians, International Nickel fell 4s. Losses elsewhere in Canadians were under a point. Canadian banks were easier.

Tourism Major Business

Tourism in British Columbia is now a $201,000,000 business, it is reported in a resources manual released by Trade Minister Loffmark.

And the tourist volume will increase over last year's 5,157,000 visitors, the minister said, because of the new Kelsey Bay-Prince Rupert ferry link.

American visitors provided most of the tourist dollars last year.

Some 2,400,000 U.S. tourists crossed the border into B.C. and spent $95,200,000. Another 534,000 who entered via Alberta spent $21,400,000.

Canadian tourists spent $69,200,000 while British Columbians paid an estimated $15,500,000 to vacation in their own province.

The report states the average automobile tourist spends 29 per cent of his holiday money on food, 24 per cent on travel, and 20 per cent for lodging.

Longer Shutdown Seen for Plants

DETROIT (AP) — Chevrolet Division of General Motors Corp. plans to close down 13 assembly plants for longer-than-normal changeover periods this summer.

Company officials refused further details, but industry observers say they believe it would mean production cuts amounting to some 150,000 autos.

SCARCITY and high cost of mortgage funds has temporarily shelved a proposed move to north Douglas Street area by Empress Motors Ltd. David H. Lawson, president and general manager, confirmed that his company has renewed leases on its Fort Street location for at least 22 months. That puts any thought of relocating "on ice," he said. The firm has picked a tentative new site and was investigating financing.

Argentina Boosts Oil Products Price

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Oil czar Facundo Suarez has announced that Argentina is raising the price of its petroleum products 15 per cent, but said this country can still undersell U.S., Canadian and European suppliers.

Suarez, who heads the government's oil monopoly, told a news conference the price rise is necessary because of last week's devaluation of the Argentine peso.

Suarez said Esso International Corp. has offered to sign a $12.5-million contract at the new price level.

BRITISH BUSES TO U.S.S.R.?

LONDON (UPI) — The top salesman of Britain's Leyland Motors was Moscow-bound today on a business trip to sell the Russians buses and possibly a bus factory.

Leyland's export sales manager, Louis Portman, was going to the Soviet capital in response to a request Wednesday by Premier Alexei Kosygin for designs and bids from a British firm for selling buses to Russia.

The British company, which won publicity when it sold buses to Communist Cuba, also planned to follow up Portman's trip by sending a complete bus to Moscow.

Mission Delayed

Scottish trade representatives will arrive here next week one day later than announced.

The day of their visit is changed from Wednesday to Thursday. Arrangements to meet with the visitors may be made through Victoria Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager Earl Dicknoether.

The mission consisting of 14 members of Scottish manufacturing firms will seek new trade outlets in visits to Vancouver, Montreal and Toronto during their stay under sponsorship of the Council of Scottish Chambers of Commerce.

Trade Relations with Russia Explored

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Winters leaves Saturday for London and Moscow to discuss Anglo-Canadian and Commonwealth trade and to try to lay a broader base for commercial relations with Russia.

The detailed agenda for his talks is secret, but it appeared they would revolve around several main subjects:

- Whether and to what extent Commonwealth preferences in tariff treatment, the mainstay of Commonwealth trading relations since the 1930s, should be revised.

extent Commonwealth preferences in tariff treatment, the trading relations since the 1930s, should be revised.

- The attitude and position of Commonwealth countries generally in the current Kennedy round of international tariff negotiations in Geneva.
- Britain's attitude towards membership in the European Common Market and what this might mean to Canada.
- Remaining thorns in Anglo-Canadian trade which the British say have not all been blunted on the Canadian side.
- How serious is Russia's recent diplomatic prickliness towards Canada and how the Russians can be reassured of Canada's commercial goodwill.

Mr. Winters said in an interview it will be his first visit to Russia and will serve as a prelude to a trip he plans this autumn to the Eastern European countries. All of these represent good opportunities for Canadian trade—if they can be pointed out to Canadian businessmen and if the latter can be encouraged to try them.

The trade minister will attend a closed meeting of Commonwealth trade ministers in London June 13-16.

Mr. Winters then is to talk with British ministers and officials about Anglo-Canadian trade.

He is likely to hear again from British authorities that Canada's relaxation of regulations governing the pricing of British goods for Canadian duty purposes hasn't been put fully into effect.

Air Canada Orders Two More Big Jets

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada will buy two 196-passenger DC-8-61 jets at a total cost of $18,000,000, the Crown corporation has announced.

The planes are to be delivered early in 1968.

Air Canada previously ordered four planes of the same type, to be delivered in February, 1967, and is now using 18 smaller DC-8 jets.

'ABSOLUTELY NO POLLUTION'

Mine Tailings in Buttle 'Probable' Says Kiernan

CAMPBELL RIVER — Recreation and Conservation Minister Kenneth Kiernan told an audience here Thursday night that mine tailings probably will be dumped in Buttle Lake.

But he promised that "absolutely no pollution of Buttle Lake" will occur.

He said the tailings from Western Mines' mill in Strathcona Park will be dumped into a deep area of the lake and will pose no problem for fish life.

Government engineers are examining the proposal and their approval must be certified before the step is taken, Mr. Kiernan told a Chamber of Commerce meeting.

He also said the company will be given a townsite at Shepherd's Bay on Buttle Lake but it will be controlled strictly.

He said it will not be visible from the new road and, besides dwellings, will have only one general store, one gas station and one recreation hall. All sewage will be treated.

Bruce Lang, mine manager for Western Mines, said the townsite decision was a "tremendous morale booster" and will encourage hard-to-find miners to work at the mine.

He said 350 men are employed now, including 150 men involved in construction work. Another 40 will be added in August to Western Mines' staff in preparation for the September start of production.

Construction is continuing on a service building, power project and road.

ISLAND DIGEST

Old Fire Hall Burns With Envy

PARKSVILLE — The village's bright new fire engine performed its first service Thursday—on the old fire fall.

The new machine was being given a workout beside the present firehall when smoke was seen coming from the old hall across the street.

Smartly, volunteer firemen used their newest acquisition to douse the fire. The smoke originated in a small tower on top of the hall.

Mystery is how it started because, so far as is known, no one has been in the tower for years. The old firehall is now a tourist bureau but it had been closed Thursday.

Sea Urchins From Valdez Sold To Japan

NANAIMO — A Vancouver company is harvesting sea urchins for shipment to Japan where they are considered a delicacy.

Ocean Gardens Ltd., is working off the eastern shore of Valdez Island at Gabriola Pass.

Their factory is the old government ferry Smokwa which has been turned into a processing plant and living quarters for the employees.

When the operation is in full production the ferry will act as a mother ship for 14 smaller fishing boats which will be loaded by 30 skindivers.

Workers will strip the roe which will then be processed and either canned or packed in casks.

Each sea urchin produces about three to four ounces of roe.

Sea urchin harvesting is carried on in other parts of the world but this is the first time it has been attempted in B.C.

'UNKEMPT, DIRTY' YOUTHS

Modern Britain Stuns Professor

COURTENAY — Many of the young people in Britain today are "unkempt and dirty," says Dr. A. E. Carlsen, assistant professor of history and economics at Royal Roads, Victoria.

In a talk to Courtenay Unitarians, Dr. Carlsen said he was shocked by "the unkempt, even dirty appearance" of a lot of youths he saw there.

He added that he is a great admirer of Britain and all she had done in the past, but was shocked by some aspects of life there today.

3 PER CENT ATTEND CHURCH

"The religious life is very meagre with only about three per cent of the people attending church."

There seemed to be two different views on Britain today: 1. That she had "had it." 2. That she would somehow muddle through once more.

Dr. Carlsen said Britain's economic problems are now acute, more so than at any time since the Second World War.

"She is fighting for her very existence."

LABOR DIVIDED

Dr. Olsen said the Labor Party is divided in its support of Prime Minister Wilson.

"Many actively dislike him."

The speaker said that, in spite of his criticisms, he considered Britain had contributed more to western civilization than any other nation.

Happy Wanderer Going Back To the 'Pearl of Africa'

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN — School teacher Ronald Harvie just isn't cut out for the cosy urban life.

The happy wanderer is off once more to Africa.

For the past two years he has been on the staff of Mount Prevost Junior Secondary School.

Now he is answering the call of the Canadian government's external aid program.

Mr. Harvie leaves in July to join the staff of a teaching college in Nigeria.

●

He classes his leaving as a matter of dollars and cents.

"The government is offering twice as much in the way of salary as I get from the school board," he says.

But Mrs. Harvie insists her husband sells himself short.

He feels the challenge in teaching the coming leaders of Africa.

For eight years he worked in Uganda on the staff of the British Colonial Office, then spent a further two and a half years in Nyasaland (now Malawi).

●

Said Mrs. Harvie: "Ronald is frustrated here. In Africa he built schools, trained and appointed the staff and administered them. It was quite exciting."

Mr. and Mrs. Harvie are both science graduates of the University of Alberta. She is now teaching home economics at Cowichan Secondary School.

Mr. Harvie spent a year at Imperial College, Trinidad, studying tropical agriculture before he began his sojourns in Africa.

When he was in Uganda as a government agriculturalist his responsibilities were various. He developed the western Uganda coffee and cotton industries on an economic basis.

●

He built and staffed schools and he was responsible for the construction of market roads and market sites.

And once he was confronted with building a village to house 500 lepers outcast by their fellow Africans.

Mr. Harvie said leprosy is still a dreaded and fatal disease.

He says western culture has barely touched African life except in the Union of South Africa, Southern Rhodesia and Kenya.

In the interior of Uganda the only Europeans are often the banker, judge and a few government administrators.

Mr. Harvie said: "At a normal station there will be no more than 20 white families."

Uganda straddles the equator but because of the high altitude has a climate akin to the west coast of B.C.

Mr. Harvie recalls Winston Churchill's description of it as "the pearl of Africa."

He sees as a main reason for the lack of white settlers the fact that for 60 years non-whites have not been allowed to buy and hold property there.

●

Mr. Harvie praises the influence of both Protestant and Roman Catholic churches in backward Africa.

He says a lot of the native education is directly operated by the churches, though often with government subsidy.

After his African safari, Mr. Harvie spent a short time doing similar work on Fiji.

He was not so entranced by the South Sea Islands.

"It's nice but there's a reluctance among the people to develop."

And so, back to Africa as an educational adviser.

For the first of his two years' leave of absence he leaves Mrs. Harvie and sons Tom, John and Brett behind in Duncan, "the pearl of Canada."

Skilled Loggers Needed at Alberni

PORT ALBERNI—There is an acute shortage of skilled loggers in the Alberni Valley, says National Employment Service manager J. A. Gunn-Fowlie.

He said 242 men and 21 women were registered for work in the valley and west coast areas during May.

SOOKE ASKS IMPROVED FIRE SIGNS

More and better signs about fire hazards have been suggested by Sooke District Combined Fire Organization as a means of reducing danger in the area.

Members would also like a gate on Leech River bridge to stop the public making the Shawnigan-to-Sooke circle via Leechtown.

Because hazard conditions vary in the area and road systems are interlocked, a general closure will be in effect during July and August.

Island Catholics Raise $4,745 For India Fund

The Roman Catholic diocese of Victoria has raised $4,745 for the Aid to India Fund.

Responding to a recent appeal from Bishop Remi De Roo, the sum has been raised by 30 churches and missions, seven schools and institutions and six religious communities — all on Vancouver Island.

Sluggish Kidneys May Bring Restless Nights

If you "fight the pillow", toss and turn all through the night and don't really know why — perhaps here's news and help for you! One cause of such restlessness may be traced to sluggish kidney action. Urinary irritation and bladder discomfort may follow. The result can be backache and restless nights. This is when Dodd's Kidney Pills can help bring relief. Dodd's stimulate kidney action, helps relieve the irritated condition that causes the backache. Take Dodd's, and see if you don't feel better, rest better. Used successfully by millions for over 70 years. New large size saves money.

Man Jailed Month After Road Death

NANAIMO — Lawrence Richard Lawson, 24, of Duncan was sent to jail for one month and had his driving licence suspended for two years in Assize Court here Thursday.

He had been found guilty of a reduced charge of dangerous driving, after being originally charged with criminal negligence in connection with the death of Donald Olson, 22, of Duncan on Dec. 28.

Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan said he took into consideration the fact that Lawson had spent the last six months in jail.

He had been unable to raise the required bail.

On June 1 a jury of 10 men and two women found Lawson not guilty of criminal negligence and failing to return to the scene of an accident near Duncan.

It found him guilty on the lesser charge of dangerous driving.

Olson was said to have been killed by a car travelling on the wrong side of the road.

"The car came round the corner and stayed more to the right instead of the left. He was coming right for Don (Olson)," one witness said.

"The next thing I knew the car hit him. I remember him flying into the air and landing. It happened so fast."

Olson had been a passenger in Lawson's car just before the accident.

Rubbery Patkin Funniest Fella In Baseball Suit

By MILTON RICHMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—There's a guy who works his heart out practically every night in some of the country's dustiest whistle-stops and all they ever do is laugh at him.

He's glad when they do because that's the only way he knows he's doing a good job.

Rubber-faced, double-jointed Max Patkin, the last survivor among baseball comics who still make the circuit, hit the road last week and by the time he finishes in late August, he will have performed in 70 different cities and made fans laugh from coast to coast.

"I work under a great handicap," says Max. "No talent."

Don't you believe it.

Patkin, a 46-year-old one-time minor leaguer, happens to be the funniest human being I have ever seen in a baseball uniform beyond any shadow of a doubt.

Max is one of the few individuals who can make people laugh just by looking at him inasmuch as he combines the best features of a dodo bird and a giraffe. More than that, however, he works at being funny and any baseball fan who has ever seen him perform will tell you that Patkin genuinely is.

Now starting his 21st year on the circuit, Patkin usually does his clowning in minor league ball parks before a game. He also has operated on the coaching lines while contests were in progress.

"I've never tried to make a mockery of the game," he insists. "The only thing I try to do is brighten the dull moments. I've never mimicked anyone without first getting his permission to do it. Even the umpires go along willingly with my gags so long as I don't foul up the game."

He doesn't foul it up although he does some gyrations on the ball field that Abner Doubleday never dreamed of.

Pitching Career Ended Abruptly

For all his joking and clowning, Max pulls down around $20,000 a year and still feels so seriously about baseball that if you catch him in an unguarded moment he'll tell you his greatest disappointment was his failure to make the majors. As a player, anyway. He coached briefly for the Cleveland Indians and old St. Louis Browns.

His professional career as a ptcher ended abruptly at the tender age of 26 in 1946. He was with Wilkes-Barre of the Eastern League at the time when the general manager summoned him into his office.

"How is your arm?" asked the general manager.

"It's still bothering me," Patkin replied, "but it ought to be all right in a couple of weeks."

"I'm afraid we can't wait," the GM declared. "Sorry, but we're gonna have to give you your release."

Lou Boudreau was managing Cleveland then and he had seen Max clown around. Boudreau told owner Bill Veeck about him and without ever having seen him previously, Veeck hired Patkin as a coach for the Indians, strictly for comic relief.

It hasn't been all fun for Max, though. He fractured a toe while performing once and spiked himself several times. A weak right knee, the result of a fall during his act, forces him to wear a brace now.

But Patkin wouldn't change his job for the world.

"Where else," he asks, with that doleful expression of his, "can you have so many laughs?"

SEVEN IN 16s

Scots Dominate British Amateur

CARNOUSTIE, Scotland (AP) Scotland took a firm grip on the 1966 British amateur golf championship today.

Seven Scots emerged from Thursday's fourth-round shelling that eliminated most of the pre-tournament favorites.

Two Americans, two South Africans, three Englishmen and one Frenchman survived to the round of 16.

Hunter McDonald, 25, of Southfield, Mich., who was born in Scotland, has won two matches 6 and 5 and one 5 and 4. This has propelled him into a favorite slot.

The two Americans who came through were Charles McCallum, Fort Lauderdale, Fla., real estate man, and Richard Anthony, 20, a University of Alabama student.

Anthony pulled the surprise of the championship, eliminating Bill Campbell of Huntington, W. Va., on the 19th hole.

Two Canadians were defeated in the day's roud.

David Symons of South Africa defeated Eric Hansen of Toronto 3 and 1, while Ronnie Shade of Scotland defeated Lou Moler of Toronto 5 and 4.

Leaders Can Testify Hett's Back in Form

Geoff Hett had lost four games in a row when he took the mound for last-place Colony against first-place Carlings at Heywood Park Thursday night.

He wasn't of a mind to try for five.

Hett, the hottest pitcher in the Senior A Men's Softball League when he is right, was all right Thursday.

His humming fastball handcuffed Carlings. They picked up but two singles.

Meanwhile Brian Smith and Herb Latreille rapped out first inning singles for Colony's first run and Hett added another with a home run to his off field in the second inning.

ART WORTH . . . man with big bat.

Baseball Is Like Hobby For Versatile Southpaw

By TONY COSIER

Usually it isn't difficult to spot a veteran in the Victoria Senior Amateur Baseball League. Just look at his spikes.

A veteran seldom buys new baseball shoes. At the close of every season, he insists that he is giving up the game for good.

However, when another winter goes by the boards, the ringing sound of a bat and the stinging smack of a ball in a glove often prove too much to resist.

He puts on the old spikes and heads for the park. He doesn't buy a new pair because he knows for sure that this is going to be his last season.

The oldest spikes in the Senior Amateur League should belong to Art Worth.

THIS COULD BE BEST

The 37-year-old southpaw pitcher-first baseman has commanded respect in the league for a number of seasons. Seven to be exact. He has played for Transport Workers every one of them and announced his retirement at the close of the last three or four.

This year could be the best of the lot.

In 16 games, the powerful lefthanded swinger has pounded out 28 hits, five of them doubles, has scored 15 runs and driven in 17 more. His batting average is a lofty .467. He leads the league in each of these five departments.

"I don't keep track of statistics," Worth said when asked about these impressive marks, "I just enjoy playing. Baseball is like a hobby to me."

PITCHED TWIN BILL

Worth has pitched four games for Transports this year. He has won all four of them. Last Sunday, on a stifling hot day in Chemainus, he hurled and won both ends of a doubleheader.

"It takes a nice warm day," he joked, "to give us old men a chance."

Worth has been playing steadily for 16 seasons since starting a professional career with Spokane of the former Western International League in 1950. Art played professionally for no less than nine teams, including Seattle's Pacific Coast League club, before returning home to Vicotria in 1956. Since then, he has played three years of semi-pro ball as well as seven years in the Senior Amateur League.

DOUBLE PRACTICE

Throughout his career, Worth has both pitched and played first base.

"The toughest part about playing two positions professionally," Art said, "is spring training. I used to take batting practice and infield practice and then go out to run with the pitchers.

If the years have taken some of the spring out of his legs and some of the steam off his fastball, they have provided him with the experience to get the most out of his remaining skills.

The husky six-footer exhibits fine pitching control and possesses an assortment of deliveries as well as a remarkable talent for spotting weaknesses of opposing hitters.

If Worth is all craftiness on the mound, at the plate he is all power.

Batting from a closed stance, he generally takes a long, smooth stride into a pitch and his hands are held wide from his body, his bat held firmly in control.

Worth, a natural hitter, maintains, "All the talking in the world can't help a man to hit better. A hitter needs a good free swing, and confidence, and concentration."

The big lefthander can do a lot of things with a given pitch. He can pull the ball aggressively, he can steer the ball on a line into left field, or he can drive it back up the middle to leave a pitcher trembling.

Although some younger players may think of him as almost a legendary figure in the Victoria league, Art is the first to admit he has many of the usual baseball faults.

There have been times when he has argued too strenuously with an umpire and got thumbed from a game. He has had his off days on the mound, accumulated his share of strikeouts and bobbled balls in the infield.

In fact, the bat he swings is no bigger than those belonging to other players.

It just looks bigger and performs better in Art Worth's hands.

THREE-HITTER

Pitcher in Pinch, Bishop a Prince

With all his regular pitchers either ailing or unavailable, manager Gary Bishop of Kings Hotel stormed out to the mound Thursday night at Hampton Park and promptly blanked Rawlings 3-0 to lead his squad into third place in the Senior Amateur Baseball League.

Bishop, playing an unfamiliar position, gave up only three hits.

Kings collected five hits off losing pitcher Myron Wallace, but added strength to their attack with six stolen bases, three by third baseman Don Head.

Kings scored their first run in the top of the third after Gary Robertson singled, stole second and advanced to third base on a wild pitch. Robertson then came home on a double steal as Al Cuthbert moved down to second base after reaching first on a walk.

Kings used power at the plate to pick up two insurance runs in the top of the eighth. Bishop smacked a line-drive double to lead off the inning, then scored when Dennis Thompson connected for a long home run to left field.

Kings' defensive performance played a vital role in victory. The winners committed two errors, but came up with some big plays in the field on key situations. Thompson, posted deep in left field, charged back quickly at the crack of the bat to rob George Brice of an apparent home run. Rick Siddons, Kings' right fielder, made the final putout of the game by running far and sinking to his knees to grab a twisting line drive.

Brice also made a fine catch for Rawlings in the seventh, hauling in a short fly ball in right-centre while narrowly avoiding a collispon with centre fielder Chuck Bennett.

Rawlings and Kings meet again Saturday night at 6 p.m. at Hampton Park in a game that could feature a pitcher's duel between Rawlings' ace lefthander Des Moseley and hard-throwing young John Knowles.

Hot Mounties Inherit Share of League Lead

By Associated Press

The dark-horse Vancouver Mounties have made it a three-way race going around the first turn in the Pacific Coast League western division baseball race.

The Mounties outlasted Tacoma 2-1 Thursday night to complete a sweep of a four-game series and move into a tie for first place with Seattle and Portland.

Portland remains a nose—two percentage points — ahead despite a 11-5 loss to Tulsa, which snapped a four-game losing streak.

Seattle remained motionless on a split doubleheader at Denver. Seattle won the seven-inning opener 4-3 and lost the nine-frame second game by the same score.

In other PCL towns, San Diego's Grant Jackson pitched a two-hitter as the Padres downed Spokane 7-2, Phoenix tipped Oklahoma City 5-4 in the last of the 10th, and Indianapolis held out against Hawaii 3-1.

With the defeat of Tacoma, the Mounties, who were in last place nine days ago, ran a winning streak to five. They have won 17 of their last 23 games.

John Donaldson gave the Mounties their margin for victory with a homer in the fifth to make the score 2-0. Tacoma scored its lone run in the eighth.

MORRISONS CLICK

Morrisons beat Langford 7-2 in a Junior Men's Softball League game at Central Park Thursday night. Bob Reed drove in two runs with two doubles for Morrisons.

Who Needs Enemies With Jimmy Around?

Davenport's Blow Enables 'Frisco To Stay Ahead

By UP International

With friends like Jim Davenport, Los Angeles Dodgers don't need enemies.

"I've always liked the Dodgers, especially since they kept me in the league during my rookie year," said the all-around San Francisco infielder who hit .470 against Los Angeles his freshman season in 1958.

"It seemed that most of the balls I hit in L.A. went off the screen or over it."

Davenport contributed greatly that campaign as the Giants won 16 games in 22 decisions against the Dodgers, who fell to seventh place in the National League. Although his role in the San Francisco attack is diminishing at the age of 32, he continues playing a part in Los Angeles fortunes.

Davenport slammed a two-run double in the 11th inning Thursday night, giving the Giants a 3-1 victory over the Houston Astros and preventing the Dodgers from ousting San Francisco from first place.

Los Angeles, rained out of an afternoon contest with Chicago, would have taken over the top spot by four percentage points if the Giants lost. Davenport's double, however, dropped the Dodgers one game off the pace.

CINCY SHADES PHILS

Elsewhere in the senior circuit, St. Louis whipped Pittsburgh 4-2, Atlanta routed New York 8-4 and Cincinnati shaded Philadelphia 1-0.

In the American League, Baltimore moved into first place by stopping Washington twice, 8-7, in the conclusion of Wednesday night's suspended game and 4-2 in the regular contest; Detroit walloped Boston 9-1, Minnesota bombed Kansas City 9-4, while New York at Cleveland was postponed because of rain.

Davenport, a versatile performer who has played every position in the infield except pitching and catching, received the Golden Glove award as the outstanding NL third baseman in 1962, the year he made the all-star team.

FIRST FOR HENRY

Davenport's smash with one out in the 11th scored Tom Haller and Willie McCovey and presented reliever Bill Henry with his first triumph of the season. San Francisco starter Ron Herbel, who pitched nine innings, drove in the other run in the fifth with his initial hit of the campaign.

Mack Jones highlighted a five-run first inning with a three-run homer as the Braves stretched their winning streak to six. Jones accounted for another run with a sacrifice fly in the seventh. Rico Carty also homered for Atlanta and Ken Boyer connected for the Mets off Tony Cloninger, who raised his record to 5-6.

Leo Cardenas' single in the eighth inning scored pinch runner Dick Simpson for Cincinnati's winning run. Joey Jay, who allowed only five hits, turned in his first complete game of the campaign and first shutout since June 13, 1965. Jay stopped the 11-game hitting streak of Philadelphia's Cookie Rojas.

ADANACS STOPPED

Sepka Making Presence Felt

NEW WESTMINSTER — Cliff Sepka missed the first few games of the Inter-City Lacrosse League with New Westminster Salmonbellies and the Mann Cup champions were hurting. Now Sepka is back and rolling and other teams are hurting.

Sepka's contribution to Salmonbellies' success was clearly defined here Thursday night.

He pumped in a goal a period, added an assist as the 'Bellies bounced Coquitlam Adanacs, 11-9.

The teams were tied 9-9 after three quarters.

Tom Koretchuk scored the winning goal after four minutes and Sepka finished off his fabulous night with his fourth.

THIRD SETBACK

The loss was only Adanacs' third in 10 games. They lead the 'Bellies and Vancouver by three points. Victoria Shamrocks are 10 points behind the leaders and seven behind Vancouver and N.W.

Shamrocks meet Vancouver, twice their nemesis this week, at Memorial Arena Saturday at 8.

Rocks hope to have their leading scorer Ranjit Dillon back after a two-game absence. Dillon suffered a dislocated right toe last Saturday at Coquitlam.

HIDDEN WEIGHT . . .

. . . FOR EXTRA DISTANCE

Slap Par With New Glove

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Golf duffers who dream of hitting one straight down the fairway 250 yards might be interested in a new golf glove.

Early models of the glove tested by pros and amateurs indicate it actually helps increase your distance.

One pro, who asked not to be identified, said of the glove invented by Rod Campbell, a Philadelphia professional, and Dr. Stanley K. Herberts:

"Of all gadgets that I have seen or tried which are made to improve your game, this is by far the best."

The secret of the glove is added weight hidden in the back.

Nearly a quarter pound of metal pellets are sewed into the glove. Positioned on the back of the left hand, the weight helps pull hands into the ball faster than usual. More hand speed results in longer shots.

Campbell says the glove helps keep your swing in a groove. He claims it helps any golfer, no matter how well or poorly he or she plays.

"I think," says Campbell, a former Ohio Wesleyan halfback and heavyweight boxer, "that this glove will have the same effect on golf that glass poles have had on the pole vault."

Campbell says he hasn't sought a ruling on his glove from the U.S. Golf Association because he feels it would be considered illegal.

AFL Paying Big Price To Step Across Tracks

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — Who won the war — the National Football League or the American Football League?

Both of them, and again, neither.

Some wag commented that the AFL generals won the battle but its politicians lost the peace.

The NFL definitely came out of it the top dog. The mammoth new circuit, jelling in 1970, will be called the National League. The NFL's boss, Pete Rozelle, calls all the shots, effective at once.

The AFL won a victory in that it finally got the NFL to admit that the AFL existed.

"We were conscious of them all the time," Rozelle acknowledged, a little grudgingly.

The AFL no longer is from the other side of the tracks. It came out of the deal an equal party, but the price was dear. The AFL must pay a heavy indemnity for its early sassiness.

COLD CASH

In cold figures, this is $18,000,000 over a period of 20 years plus relinquishing the rights to the money from the projected two new franchises which may add another $15,000,000 or $20,000,000 to NFL coffers.

Another costly price was sacrifice of the plucky fighters in the AFL who wanted to fight the NFL to the finish. These include Commissioner Al Davis, probably now looking for another job, and perhaps Sonny Werblin of the New York Jets and Bud Adams of Houston.

"We had them over the barrel and let them get away," growled one of the AFL dissidents.

"Why should we pay them any money—they should pay us," complained another.

READY TO RAID

The Hawks in the AFL were ready to start raiding NFL rosters. The NFL knew this, thus the senior league was happy to reach a truce, even if it meant recognition.

Lamar Hunt of the AFL Kansas City Chiefs and Tex Schramm of the NFL Dallas Cowboys, main instruments in the three-month negotiations, both insist that football and the fans profit from the merger.

They won't admit the players do. Gone are the $400,000 and $450,000 bonus contracts given to players such as Joe Namath and Donny Anderson.

Now it's between the clubs and the players. There's no outside competition forcing up the market.

RAIN STORM WASHES OUT GOLF START

GRAND BLANC, Mich. (AP) — A thunderstorm and a steady downpour that followed forced postponement Thursday of the first round of the $100,000 Buick Open golf tournament.

Professional Golf Association executives went into a huddle to determine how the tournament now will be set up.

Emus in Romp Against Trail

TRAIL — The Emu Cricket Club of Australia romped to an easy victory over a Trail club in an exhibition match Thursday night.

The visitors made it look easy as Trail was dismissed for 29 in the first innings and the Aussies made 92 for the loss of only three wickets before they declared.

In their second innings, Trail did a little better, but could only raise 60 runs against the touring Australian side.

This gave the Emu club a win by innings and three runs.

Rain almost put a stop to the game at one point, but the players took the field again and continued to a finish.

Anderson, Devlin Best in Tourney

Darrell Anderson and John Devlin, both of Victoria, walked away with the major prizes in the annual Tartan men's wear golf tournament at Uplands this week.

Anderson won low gross honors while Devlin retained the handicap championship for a third straight time.

Best round of the day was a par-matching 70 by visiting traveller Jack Sim.

Other prize-winners included Gil Briscoe, Les Davies, Jerry Smith, Phil Nesbitt, Harold Mattern, Murray Sines, Pete Edmundson, Ken Thompson, Ron Martin, George Conn, John McIntosh, Keith Elder and Rennie McLaren.

Middleton's Out Powers Nelsons

Jim Middleton drove in the only run with a sacrifice fly in the fifth inning to power Nelsons to a 1-0 win over Dormans in IAA softball action Thursday.

Nelsons' Ken Poirer and Dormans' Merv Johnson yielded only two hits each.

'Super Stocks' First To Test Mile Track

The swift "super stocks" are coming to Western Speedway this weekend for their first appearance in British Columbia and they promise to provide local car-racing fans with some of the most interesting action of the season.

They will be running on the familiar Millstream Road oval Saturday night and Sunday afternoon they will become the first machines to race over the new one-mile road course at Western.

The "super" part of super stocks is hidden from fans. The cars must retain the appearance of a stock car, but underneath the hood are powerful finely-tuned V-8 engines. They range from 1955 to 1961 models.

Heading the list of drivers is Stan Connelly of Yakima, currently top man in point standings with his 1957 Ford. Trying to close the gap in the point race will be runner-up Jack Jeffrey, driving a 1955 Chevrolet.

Favorite of Vancouver Island fans could be former Ladysmith resident Don Walker, who has been cracking records and pleasing fans with a hot 1961 Ford.

Drivers will compete in a trophy dash, heat races and main event on both days. Time trials start at 7:30 Saturday and Sunday's action begins at 2 p.m.

CITY TOURNEY

Top Trio Grouped For Golf Windup

The brightest "eggs" have been dropped into one "basket" for Sunday's third and final round of the city amateur golf championship.

Don Billsborough of Uplands and Gorge Vale clubmates Art Donaldson and Lex Sutcliffe have been grouped in the most important threesome at Victoria Golf Club.

Billsborough, who completed last Sunday's opening two rounds with 138, on the strength of a two-under-par 68 and a 70, holds a one-stroke lead over Donaldson (69-70), going into the final 18 of the 54-hole tournament.

Sutcliffe, Times Island Open finalist, is third on the list with 72-73—145, one stroke ahead of defending champion Ricky Kent.

The three leaders will start their final round at 11:05.

10:30—V. Painter, R. Hunt, A. MacLeod.
10:37—Munro, Allen, Jacobsen.
10:44—Whan, Pellow, Ferguson.
10:51—Storrie, Baranuik, Morgan.
10:58—Hoadley, Langlois, Wells.
11:05—Billsborough, Donaldson, Sutcliffe.
11:12—Kent, Bigelow, Kolb.
11:19—Bob Hunt, Scott-Moncrieff, Kerr.
11:26—Scroggs, Fanthorpe, S. Cameron.
11:33—Valdal, Swetnam, G. Smith.

HIGH SCHOOL drop-outs and their dismal record as flop-outs in the business of making a livelihood are regarded as a real problem of today's world. Maybe Paul Revere (front, right, without hat) has the answer. He was a bomb-out. According to his own story he fired a typewriter through a school window, thus freeing himself from the confines of formal education and setting his feet on the path to success. Now in the vanguard of big-league groups, the boy from Portland, Ore., and his Raiders (seen surrounding him) will invade Victoria's Memorial Arena, June 23.

AUDIENCE AMPLY REWARDED

Warm Sendoff for Young Violinist

By AUDREY JOHNSON

Victoria will see several fine music students depart this summer for advanced study at various major centres.

Thursday night we heard one of them—17-year-old Mark Butler—in a recital arranged by Victoria branch of the Registered Music Teachers' Association at Oak Bay Junior Secondary School.

It would be good to think that in the years to come such events might develop a pattern; that June might become a month of graduate and farewell recitals.

FAIR AUDIENCE

It would be nice to think too that loyal and sincere music lovers would pack all the halls to capacity.

Mark Butler had a fair audience Thursday but not as good as the occasion or the artists (he was assisted by Robin Wood) warranted.

The young violinist rewards his listener amply. Above everything else, he plays musically. He is, as a matter of course, somewhat preoccupied with technical problems at present, but this still does not obscure his sensitive relationship with the music.

He has attained quite an astonishing degree of technical control over his instrument. This was made clear when he tackled Sarasate's virtuosic Zapateado and the brilliantly beautiful Mozart A major Sonata.

His bowing is lithe and often delicate, his pitch secure—except when nerves get the upper hand—his fingering flexible and his tone warm and sweet, although at present it lacks depth just as his bowing needs more boldness and precision.

A violinist, to an even greater extent than a vocalist, needs strength and full partnership from his accompanist and Mark may never be more fortunate than he was in the support of Robin Wood.

Any young violinist giving his first recital would account it his greatest good fortune to be given such ideal rhythmic, tonal and artistic support.

Mr. Wood's solo performance of Beethoven's Sonata in C, the Waldstein, may not stand as his greatest for he seemed to have moments of distraction. It was, nevertheless, stirring, and handsomely sculptured with fine poetic feeling in the short slow movement and scintillating brilliance in the finale.

TRIBUTE TO TEACHER

Mr. Wood also supplied the evening's relaxed, informal atmosphere.

Canon Hilary Butler, Mark's father, in a few words of acknowledgment, paid a deserved tribute to James Fraser, the teacher who has guided Mark's violin study in Victoria.

As one of the seven Victorians accepted for performance in the National Youth Orchestra, Mark, who has also played with the Victoria Symphony since 1964, will tour Europe this summer and then become a student at the Royal College of Music in London.

School Choir, Band To Perform Sunday

The air is filled with music in Centennial Square these days.

Last Sunday an enthusiastic crowd of 350 joined in the singing in the first of a series of Hymn Sing-Alongs accompanied by the 25-piece Salvation Army Band. The second concert in the series will be presented this Sunday evening at 8:15, with hymn sheets provided.

On the same day, the choir and band of Colquitz Junior Secondary School will present a concert on the steps of the Empress Hotel.

The following Monday, Centennial Square will again be filled with song as the St. Louis' College Glee Club presents a program of Canadian folk songs. Each province will be represented with two songs.

And on Thursday, the band of Central Junior Secondary School will stage a concert.

The events in this elaborate program are all sponsored by the Greater Victoria Centennial Society.

Christ Had a Beard, Graham Tells Beatnik

LONDON (AP) — A dozen long-haired London beatniks and their mini-skirted girls went to Billy Graham's crusade meeting Thursday night and two of the youths were among the first making public commitments to Christ.

The U.S. evangelist chatted with the beatnik group before the meeting.

"He told me I had a fine beard and that Christ had a beard too," said Robert Wilson, a New Zealander.

DELINQUENTS

Billy Graham's subject was God's delinquents and many of those he talked to wore skin-tight jeans, loafers, sweat shirts and dark glasses. Graham estimated about 60 per cent of the 22,500 present were under 25 years old.

Graham based his preaching on the old story of Samson and Delilah.

"There's nothing wrong with sex," the preacher said. "It's not a sin. But its wrong use is a sin. Sex outside marriage is a sin."

When the time came for those ready to make a commitment to come to the front, two long-haired youths shambled out from the beatnik group. Next came two girls from a club in Soho (London's bohemian area).

Soon whole families were behind them.

"This is harvest time in England," said Graham.

The night's number of commitments or decisions for Christ, as the evangelist calls them, beat all records for the London crusade to date at 1,234.

So far 155,368 have attended the London crusade meetings.

Fishing Reel Theft Admitted to Court

Robert Simpson, 266 Obed, pleaded guilty in Central court Thursday to shoplifting two fishing reels from Woodward's June 3.

He will be sentenced next Thursday after Magistrate Ostler has had an opportunity to study a pre-sentence report.

The reels were worth $3.99 each. The accused also admitted shoplifting four spark plugs last March 25.

A.W.E. Isn't Sold On Single Centre

Not all Saanich residents are willing to abandon the prospect of two community recreation centres in favor of a single civic centre.

At a meeting Wednesday of the Saanich group of the Association of Women Electors, concern was expressed that the debate is being decided by default.

"Only one point of view has been covered by the newspapers," said Mrs. Lois Hall, Saanich chairman of the A.W.E.

The association had understood that the matter would be fully discussed, and arguments presented for two separate centres instead of one larger civic centre. Instead, "the sports council has apparently presented a brief advocating a single centre," Mrs. Hall said.

"Saanich doesn't really have crosstown transportation," she commented, "and so two centres may be best after all."

The discussion resulted in the formation of a study committee, and plans to contact all councillors and other interested parties to determine which type of recreation centre would best serve the needs of the community.

The association will meet again Tuesday morning.

DIAL M FOR MURDER
by Frederick Knott

Margot Wendice	Cheryl Kergin
Max Halliday	Hamar Foster
Tony Wendice	Kevin Gillett
Captain Lesgate	James Collbran
Inspector Hubbard	Timothy Rendell
Thompson	Laurence Fisher
Williams	Brian McDaniel

By GLEN ALLEN

Hamlet was once described by some wag as a story of a ghost, a mad prince, a duel.

Yet Hamlet, more than the sum of its parts, defies both description and facetiousness.

There are the plays like Hamlet and there are the plays like Dial M for Murder, a curious affair about misplaced house keys, a wicked man, his faithless wife.

A young company of players from the Shawnigan Lake Boys School and Strathcona Lodge Dramatic Societies, tried valiantly Thursday and almost succeeded in making Frederick Knott's play more than the sum of its rather tired parts.

Margot Wendice, played with heart by Cheryl Kergin, is the rich wife of Tony Wendice, a larcenous tennis bum played very well by Kevin Gillett.

Tony ferrets out an ex-school chum in trouble, and proposes his troubles will end if he kills Margot for 1,000 pounds.

The scheme backfires, Margot sticks her assailant with scissors, and Tony, ever inventive, fixes her with a murder rap.

Margot's former lover uncovers the plot, and with the police, traps Tony.

The story is about as suspenseful as its telling; a fault perhaps attributable to the great care the playwright has taken to telegraph almost everything in it well ahead of time.

There is long and complicated business about the exchange and destination of each of the principal's house keys. Though the keys are material to the plot, they don't figure strongly enough to be much more then confusing.

There is rather too much action along the worst lines of bad detective novels. The detective-inspector, lighting his pipe on the way out of the door and as casual as all Scotland Yard, asks the one question that tells the chief suspect he is, after all, the chief suspect.

Other attenuated business involves the turning off and on of lights, waiting for culprit to come in through the french windows, waiting for telephone calls, and just waiting.

The play took three hours.

The players seemed to have trouble — not without reason — deciding what to make of Dial M for Murder.

It is comedy one scene and high drama the next and for the most part credible. James Collbran did well as the killed killer, Timothy Rendell was a suitably austere if somewhat wooden detective, and Hamar Foster was a good third angle in the triangle.

Mr. Gillett, it should be repeated, will bear watching. He could make a good Hamlet.

Dial M for Murder is repeated tonight at 8 at McPherson Playhouse.

IN HEART OPERATIONS

Chest Walls Separated

VANCOUVER (CP) — An Ontario doctor attending the annual meeting of the Canadian Federation of Biological Studies Thursday disclosed details of a simple operation which may improve pacemakers—electrical impulse stimulators for damaged heart muscles.

Dr. J. V. Basmajian said the operation, at present only carried out with rabbits, enabled doctors to expose the heart without collapsing the lungs or using the elaborate heart-lung machine normally required.

The breastbone is split, the two chest walls are separated without disturbing the lungs and then the heart is worked on.

Electrodes are attached to various parts of the diseased organ, the sternum is sewn up and within an hour the operation is completed.

The electrodes are connected to an electro-cardiogram which gives readings of the various coronary functions.

"The advantage of our method is its simplicity and that it enables us to make our recordings in conscious lively animals," said Dr. Basmajian. "The electrodes we implant are attached to a switchboard strapped to the animal's back and we can plug it in any time we want to take recordings."

Exploding Missile Showers Community

HONOLULU (UPI) — A Nike-Hercules missile launched by the Hawaii national guard in a routine test Thursday exploded like a giant roman candle, spraying burning fuel and debris over the small oceanfront plantation community of Kahuku.

No one was injured in the spectacular blast.

There was no immediate explanation for the explosion. The army emphasized the missile was not nuclear armed.

Police and firemen reported a number of small fires were started by blazing phosphorous-like debris that plummeted to sea and land from the bursting missile. Property damage was light.

Princess Has Son

STOCKHOLM (Reuters) — Princess Birgitta, 29, of Sweden, gave birth to a son today, a court spokesman announced. It is her third child. Princess Birgitta, granddaughter of King Gustav Adolf, married Prince Johann Georg von Hohenzollern, 33, in 1961.

LOCAL CHANGES NEXT

Year of Renewal Praised By Only Male At Meeting

Nineteen-sixty-six will go down in history as a "jubilee" year for the Anglican Church Women of Canada.

"It is a year of reappraisal and renewal," said Rev. Kent Clarke from Montreal — the only male to attend the 81st annual meeting of the Anglican Church Women in Christ Church Memorial Hall.

Referring to the new constitution adopted Wednesday by some 200 delegates from all over Canada, Mr. Clarke said they had taken a significant step forward by dropping the name women's auxiliary and adopting more modern concepts.

Mr. Clarke recalled that the Jewish people used to hold a jubilee every 50 years.

"The slaves were set free and there was no cheating in business — just once every 50 years," he said.

FREEDOM PRESERVED

Mr. Clarke commended the conference on preserving freedom within the framework of its organization.

"The freedom you have established at the national level must now be carried on at the local level," he said.

The visiting clergyman said the women had taken "a bold step" in allowing men to sit on its national (formerly dominion) board. But he believed it would be beneficial to both.

He referred to recent discussions on the image of God.

"The old models have changed," he said, "and that is as it should be. We don't want to crystalize God into certain patterns. These do not contain God — they merely point to Him."

TRIBUTE

In a tribute to Mrs. John Robertson, Kitchener, Ont., national president of the Anglican Church Women, Mr. Clarke said:

"We need the kind of leadership that offers freedom and scope — and that is the kind of leader we have in Mrs. Robertson."

The conference expressed thanks to Mrs. A. C. Calder, London, Ont., for her services as first vice-president.

"Today," Mrs. Calder said, "we have moved from women's work to being part of the whole. God has called the whole church — men and women — to go forward in His service.

"It may be disturbing to some to find that women's work is not so specifically defined as formerly. But we must feel encouraged that they are searching for answers to questions which concern the whole church.

IMPULSE

"We realize, too, that the spirit of mission has been the impulse for woman's ministry throughout the history of the church."

Reporting for British Columbia, Mrs. Maud Anfield of Vancouver, vice-president, said the diocesan board of B.C. celebrated its 60th anniversary this year.

"Our concern is for all women of the church, and in all our work we are bound together by God's love for us and our service to Jesus Christ," Mrs. Anfield said.

The four-day conference concluded with an executive meeting Thursday afternoon.

Other changes under the new constitution are:

Devotion department instead of prayer partners; supply department instead of Dorcas department; personnel department instead of missionary personnel.

'Explain to Clergy Why Money Needed'

More and more Rectors are grumbling about the amount of money the Anglican Church Women send outside the parish, Mrs. E. R. Bagley, Toronto, treasurer of the organization, said here Thursday.

Reporting to the 81st annual meeting of the Anglican Church Women, meeting in Christ Church Memorial Hall, Mrs. Bagley said:

"We were able to spend the $465,876 you gave us on some useful products. We spent it on many needs in our own country and overseas."

She said the rectors object to commitments being made by the women of the parish for outside work—without consulting them and getting their approval.

"All the money the Anglican Church Women spend is for the work of the church. The church asked them to undertake it. If we do not raise it, someone else will have to do so, if the church is to fulfil present obligations.

"We are fully aware of this thinking and, as soon as the total cost of the work of the church is put into the total parish assessment increased—then the Anglican Women can withdraw from this area of service.

"It is as simple as that. It should be our duty to explain this to the clergy who are complaining."

The four-day conference ended Thursday afternoon.

600 EXPECTED TODAY

District Officers Begin Weekend of Training

Former postmaster-general William Hamilton will give a keynote address to 600 Toastmasters who are holding a regional conference at the Empress Hotel today and Saturday.

Mr. Hamilton, who is now president of Canadian Park and Tilford, Vancouver, will speak Saturday at 9 a.m. on the conference theme, 100 years in communications.

The Toastmasters will begin registering at 4 p.m. This will be followed by a speech contest planning session.

The philosophy of the club is that leadership is developed through public speaking.

The purpose of this regional conference is the training of district officers in public speaking.

FINALS SATURDAY

Preliminary speech contests will begin at 9 this evening in preparation for the final speak-off Saturday night at a banquet.

Education and Labor Minister Leslie Peterson is also scheduled to speak at the banquet.

District officer training sessions will take up Saturday morning and afternoon.

Toastmasters were formed in 1924 in Santa Anna, California, and have now grown to 3,600 clubs in almost every country in the world.

But the Victoria club was resposible for making the club international when a club was formed here in 1936. It was the first outside the U.S.

There are now eight Toastmasters clubs south of Duncan.

Convention chairman Sandy Robertson said a regional conference is the largest Victoria could handle because of the lack of facilities.

He said the regional conference is not likely to return here for another 15 to 20 years.

C. SAANICH EXCLUSION AN 'OVERSIGHT'

Confusion 'Heaped Upon Confusion'

The director of the Greater Victoria Library said today threats by Central Saanich council to pull out of the Victoria area library system are the results of "further confusion of an already confused issue."

"Council has confused an intermunicipal committee with the library board," said library director John Lort.

"The library agreement, excluding Central Saanich from representation on the library board, was made by an intermunicipal committee, not the present library board," said Mr. Lort.

Mr. Lort said the library board has not seen the latest revision of the intermunicipal committee's library agreement, but he said the exclusion of Central Saanich's representation is "perhaps an oversight."

The library board has been trying to get Central Saanich a vote in the new library agreement," said Mr. Lort.

"It's a little unfair of council to castigate the board on this count."

In answer to council's understanding that the public library would no longer continue to provide Central Saanich with bookmobile service, Mr. Lort said the board had "absolutely no thought of cutting it off."

"The service was begun primarily for the use of Central Saanich," he said.

"The bookmobile is an integral part of library service."

Replying to Councillor Phillip Benn's declaration that the V.I. regional service would be comparable to present service, Mr. Lort said "they would be trading our facilities for partial service in Sidney."

As for the idea of building a library as a centennial project, an idea discussed at Tuesday's meeting, Mr. Lort pointed out that the present library agreement lasted until December, 1967.

"That washes out the idea of a centennial project," he said. "They can't withdraw until then."

Reeve Lee of Central Saanich is currently a non-voting delegate on the library board.

The latest revision of a new agreement being framed, "but still open to proposals and counter-proposals," in the words of city solicitor Terry O'Grady, gives three votes to Victoria and one to each of Saanich, Oak Bay and Esquimalt.

"If the city does not perhaps own the library, it is the city's 'baby'," said Mr. O'Grady.

"If Central Saanich were given representation in the agreement now being studied in committee, then Victoria would be in the position where it could be outvoted by its former customers," he said.

He said that if in the presently contemplated structure Central Saanich were given a vote, it would have the same voice as Oak Bay, a greater customer of the service than Central Saanich.

IN TRAIL CEREMONY

Bennett Made Freeman of City

TRAIL (CP)—Premier W. A. C. Bennett was presented with the freedom of the city Thursday night by Mayor Joseph Palyga.

The ceremony was the highlight of a week-long Silver City centennial celebration which also featured several prominent speakers including Trail's two other freemen, former external affairs minister Howard Green and Cominco chief executive W. S. Kirkpatrick.

Among the many guests present for the special city council meeting were four cabinet ministers—Frank Richter, minister of agriculture; P. A. Gaglardi, minister of highways; Mines and Petroleum Resources Minister Don Brothers and Minister of Labor and Education Leslie Peterson.

Mr. Bennett was presented with an engraved parchment to mark his appointment as a freeman.

Earlier, Mr. Gaglardi provided the running commentary for an illustrated account of the premier's rise to power as head of the provincial government.

In his acceptance speech, Mr. Bennett said B.C. was expanding as never before and still had a variety of natural resources to develop.

"Not the least of these resources," he said, "is water power."

He said that although prices were rising, the present was the best time possible for development of the Peace and Columbia river.

"And we could not have obtained a cent more in our bargaining with the United States than we have right now."

HOME-OWNER GRANT TO INCREASE

TRAIL (CP)—Premier Bennett said Thursday the home-owner grant and per capita grants to municipalities will be increased next year.

The home-owner grant has risen to $110 this year from $28 in 1957.

A home-builder grant was announced by the premier in April, but he did not say exactly how much it would be. He said only that it would be "several hundreds of dollars" from a fund to be established of $25,000,000.

He said then it would be retroactive to April 1, 1966.

NEW chief commissioner of the Girl Guides of Canada is Mrs. K. B. Clysdale of St. Mary's, Ont. She was installed at a meeting in St. John's, Newfoundland.

Gunman 'Insane'

DETROIT (AP)—Former taxicab driver Edward Waniolek, 40, held in the fatal shooting of one student and the wounding of two others at a Socialist workers party hall, March 16, Wednesday was ordered committed to hospital as insane. A psychiatric panel found Waniolek suffering from fears of a Communist conspiracy and delusions of persecution.

Washington Post Writer Wounded In Viet Action

SAIGON — Ward Just, correspondent of the Washington Post, was wounded by grenade fragments while covering Operation Hawthorn with the 101st Airborne Brigade.

Just was with paratroop elements pursuing North Vietnamese regulars between Kontum and the Laotian border, about 200 miles north of Saigon, according to U.S. Army sources.

Just is expected to be released from the hospital in three or four days.

(Just's reports appear regularly in The Times.)

Arms for Pakistan

KARACHI (Reuters) — The pro-government Pakistani newspaper Dawn reported Thursday that Russia has offered to sell Pakistan arms on the same terms as it already sells them to India.

Kennedy Defends Viet Policy

DAR ES SALAAM (AP) — Senator Robert F. Kennedy today defended U.S. Viet Nam policy before some of the top men of Tanzania's ruling party. He said the United States wants the people of South Viet Nam to decide their own destiny.

"The vast majority of the people of South Viet Nam, if left to themselves, would not choose Communism," he said. "The concern of the United States is to help people themselves determine their future.

"All we are asking is for some peace in the country so there can be an election. If the people decide to have Communism, the United States will abide by it. If they choose some other form of government, the United States will abide by that."

The New York Democrat, who flew here from South Africa on a four-day private visit, was given a cheering, drum-throbbing welcome when he arrived at the headquarters of the Tanganyika African National Union party for a meeting with some of its leaders.

"What two ideas are more inseparable than Beer and Britannia?"

So said the noted writer, Sydney Smith in the early 19th century. Today, many still believe that good beer is a British art. It's certainly a British tradition. After all, Charrington Toby was first brewed over two hundred years ago, in 1757. Only recently have the Charringtons allowed Toby's recipe to leave the country. Now you may enjoy Toby in British Columbia ... for it was to Carling that Charringtons entrusted the Toby recipe. Have a Toby!

Sea Trials Due Soon For Trailer Princess

Sea trials will be held shortly for the CPR trailer ferry Trailer Princess.

The converted U.S. landing craft is having finishing touches put to her by McKay Cormack workmen at the CPR wharf.

Designed to carry trailers and railway box cars between Sidney, Nanaimo and Vancouver, the ferry is expected to go into service later this month.

The 20-year-old vessel was redesigned by Robert Allan Ltd., of Vancouver.

U.S. Attempts To Keep U.K. In Space Race

LONDON (AP)—The United States today renewed an offer of technical co - operation in space in hopes of keeping Britain in the space race with its European partners.

State Secretary Dean Rusk of the U.S. brought up the standing offer in talks with Prime Minister Wilson in a stopover here en route home from the NATO meeting in Brussels, which he also discussed with Wilson.

U.S. officials have not concealed their disappointment at Britain's decision to pull out of the European Launcher Development Organization. The British feel their 40 per cent share of cost—about $40,000,000 a year—of putting up a European satellite by 1970 is too heavy for the country's shaky economy.

But Washington, reflecting the complaints from Britain's partners in Eldo, feel that if Britain drops out of the European space race it will harm Britain's chances for entering the European Common Market. Australia and five Common Market countries—France, West Germany, Italy, The Netherlands and Belgium—are members of Eldo.

The exact nature of U.S. technical co-operation was not disclosed, nor was Wilson's attitude to it immediately known. But U.S. sources stressed that Washington has been willing to provide technical help from its resources of rocket know-how.

Government Challenged In Manitoba Nominations

WINNIPEG (CP) — Nominations for the June 23 Manitoba election closed Thursday with the opposition parties flinging a numerically imposing challenge at the Progressive Conservative government.

The Conservatives and the Liberals, the official opposition in the last legislature, entered candidates by the 1 p.m. deadline in all 56 ridings at stake. The New Democratic Party entered 51 and Social Credit 18. Two Communists are running and two independents.

Nominations in Churchill, the 57th seat, do not close until the actual election day elsewhere in the province. Voting in the northern constituency will be deferred two weeks to Thusday, July 7.

For 56 seats, the over-all candidate total is 185. This compares with 165 candidates for 55 seats at this stage prior to the 1962 general election. That winter election year, when nominations and voting were deferred in both Churchill and Rupertsland, the Conservatives and Liberals had 55 candidates each, the NDP 38, Social Credit 12 and the Communists two. There were three independents.

The major nomination day surprise was the filing by a full-blood Indian, Vernon Mazawasicuna, as the NDP candidate in the southwestern Virden constituency.

The Conservatives seek their fourth consecutive term of office under the leadership of Premier Duff Roblin, who bought them into power as a minority government in 1958.

When the house was dissolved for the election the Conservatives held 36 seats compared to 13 Liberals, five NDP and one Social Credit member. There were two vacancies, both seats that had been held by the NDP. Death caused one vacancy and the other member moved into federal politics.

To each a total of 56 standard bearers the Liberals embraced in Brokenhead riding a candidate who had announced originally that he would run as an independent. The candidate, Stanley Copp, is campaigning now as an independent Liberal.

Arthur Mayse

The dog run I started in a burst of do-it-yourself enthusiasm these many weeks ago is finished at last, and in a qualified sort of way, I'm proud of it. But our dog isn't, and there he sits, a dejected captive, letting the neighbors know precisely what he thinks of his cruel master.

Since this is only a temporary imprisonment, we will soon take him down to the beach for a fish-crow chase. Until then, big chief Almighty Voice, the terror of the borders, can spend his time getting used to life on the reservation.

Meanwhile, for the sake of others who may one day find themselves with a pile of cedar posts, a roll of wire, and only the vaguest notion of what to do with either, I have a few hints to offer.

The first and most important is, don't undertake the project if you can possibly shuffle it off on somebody else. Let George do it. Let the dog do it . . . after all, it's going to be his pen, isn't it?

But if build you must, don't touch a tool until you have laid out a plan on paper. It won't be much help to you, but it will impart enough confidence to get you started, and once under way, there's no turning back. Proceed you must, nipping off a few feet here, grunting in another post there, until all is complete.

I had a dandy plan, and when the preliminary search for a spot which a spade would penetrate was over, the job ran on rails. The posts went in all orderly, even though I did have to yank them out again for creosoting, and no hitch developed until it came time to stretch the wire.

By the time I got to that stage, the dog was my constant companion. He was even starting to bury bones in his enclosure, and while I hauled and stapled and tugged again, he sat in the shade with tongue lolling in a canine grin.

Finally I reached a point where, stretch as I would, a three-foot gap remained unclosed. I checked my plan and found on a second adding that the wire footage came out to a different total. At this point I tore up the plan, resisting a temptation to sell the dog and turn his bower into a chicken coop.

I settled the wire shortage by moving the end posts a couple of feet closer and digging new holes, which happened to collide with a long-disused tile line. That side-excursion consumed most of another weekend.

But an evening did eventually come when I straightened from pounding the last staple. I was admiring my handiwork when a friend strolled down for a look. Our dog Lancer frolicked around him, laughing his head off.

"All finished?" the fellow asked.

"Sure am!" I told him, and began to gather up my tools.

"That's nice," he said, "but how does the dog get in?"

So the next Saturday, instead of going fishing, I snipped out a chunk of wire, dug in another post, and made a gate.

★

But that's all past now, the run is complete, and in it huddles noisy-boy, looking at this distance uncommonly like a large black sulky vulture.

It was, I can tell you, a pleasure to walk him down there all trusting and happy, then sneakily latch the gate.

He can't dig his way out, because the wire is anchored a foot beneath the ground with rocks, a task that shot most of an afternoon. He is my prisoner, and in time I expect he will even learn to love his maximum security enclosure.

While I have been enjoying my gloat, Lancer has changed his tactics.

First he stopped wailing.

Then he gave himself a shake and an all-over stretch as if to limber his muscles.

He is now jumping lazily up and down, with a motion like that of a yo-yo on a string.

At the last leap, his chest cleared the top rail. Another bounce . . . and another . . . and a final one, higher still . . .

Well, it's nice to know that he can't tunnel his way out, and I'm off now in search of poultry wire to make a roof for his stalag. I'll need another pound of staples, too, and had better make no plans for the weekend.

YOU MIGHT BE ITCHING to knock 'em down like Beverly Sawchuck, but the trouble is the pesky "skeeter" you're after isn't quite the size, nor quite as docile as the Provincial Museum model she is holding. (Times Photo.)

Blood-Seekers' Raid Sparks Red Alert

Many district residents are being bitten by the bug.

And they don't like it.

The bug that's got into everyone comes in two varieties—the culex and the anoehel.

To anyone who has had the misfortune to be bitten it's known as a damned mosquito.

They are appearing in swarms as the evenings become balmier.

AFTER BLOOD

And they're really after people's blood.

Just why their appetites have increased isn't known for sure.

But a city entomologist suggested the culicine variety—they're smaller, leaner and hungrier than their anoeheline brothers—are more prevalent than usual.

Reason is two-fold: a reasonably mild winter and an abundance of surface water.

Whatever the reason, they're here, and bug-bitten residents are more interested in getting rid of them than discovering where they came from.

CHOICE GIVEN

According to the encyclopedia they have a choice.

One of the easiest way to instal yellow lights around the house and a bright white light at the bottom of the garden.

That way they'll only bother the neighborhood cats.

More exotic is to take a tip from the old trappers who coated their beards in bacon grease.

In Japan they have a species of fish which gobble up the mosquitoes and their young.

Another way is to breed dragon flies or encourage swallows to nest around your home.

Should all else fail, go out and get a sun tan.

Mosquitoes like their meat white.

VMD-MADE BALL, CHAIN

Big Forest-Flattener On Way to Peace R.

British Columbia's biggest ball and chain soon will be cutting a 65-foot swath through the forest for the Peace River power reservoir.

An eight-foot diameter steel ball weighing nine tons is en route by truck trailer to Finlay Forks, where it will be loaded on a scow for travel up the Finlay River to Fort Grahame, 220 miles northwest of Prince George.

There it will be hooked up to massive chains, each end hooked up to a D8 bulldozer which will drag ball and chain through brush and scrub timber in one of the mightiest pond-clearing projects in the world.

MADE BY VMD

Ball and chains were made by Victoria Machinery Depot industrial division for B.C. Forest Service at cost of some $10,000.

Although the value of the project will pay off in reservoir clearing alone, ball and chain will continue to provide value in agricultural land clearing, forest protection projects, power line right-of-way clearing and silviculture work of foresters.

VMD built the ball of high quality carbon steel plates, each measuring 1¾ inches thick.

They were welded into a single unit leaving holes for an axle running through the centre.

The 8¾-inch diameter axle runs in 15-inch roller bearings for ease of operation, and at each end of the protruding axle are shackles for the chain, whose links are formed of three-inch diameter carbon steel stock.

Although ball and chain clearing has been done before in B.C. and other parts of the world, the forest service device is the biggest and heaviest to date in this province.

Polo Club Day Aids Solarium

Polo is the name of the game Sunday as the Vancouver Island Polo Club presents "a day at the Polo Club" with all proceeds going to the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Hightlights of the action-packed day, beginning at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, include a parade of polo ponies, some from as far away as Hawaii and the Argentine, a demonstration of the finer points of the game, and a tournament polo game.

The polo grounds are just off Island View Road.

$4 Million Improvements Due for Empress Main Wing

Convention Centre In Planning Stage

More than $4 million will be spent over the next four years refurbishing the main wing of the Empress Hotel, it was announced today.

At the same time, it was indicated a convention centre may be built along Belleville Street.

Both announcements were made this morning by Mayor A. W. Toone and E. C. Fitt, general manager of Canadian Pacific Hotels.

"Striking changes won't be evident from the outside," said Mr. Fitt, allaying fears of major external changes to the old hotel.

One-quarter of the expenditure will be to convert DC current to AC in the main wing to allow installation of television and radio and the use of standard electrical appliances.

GREENHOUSES TO GO

Other changes include:

- Doubling the capacity of the present car park by removing the greenhouses;
- Demolition of the powerhouse and stack nearby;
- Refurbishing and air-conditioning of the main guest and meeting salons;
- Installation of modern elevators;
- New car entrance on Douglas Street leading along a canopied entrance under the conservatory;
- Use of the Belleville Street entrance as an assembly area for tour buses;
- Installation of low-pressure oil-fired steam boilers at ground level on the northeast corner of the main wing.

The newer Humboldt wing will remain in operation but no plans have been made at the moment for any changes.

PRESERVE CHARM

"We are intent on preserving the charm and dignity of the Empress," said Mr. Fitt. "I'm pleased to tell you that only minor structural changes will be necessary."

He said green areas around the hotel will be kept and none of the trees will be removed.

Work will start at the end of the summer tourist season and will be spread over off-seasons in the next four years.

Switching the electrical current to AC should be completed by the spring of next year.

MARWELL ON JOB

General contractors for the project are Marwell Construction of Vancouver.

Mayor Toone said it is gratifying that the CPR "saw fit to guard against altering the characteristics of this famous hotel, and thus lessening its charm by carefully planning such extensive interior improvements."

A possible convention centre on the Empress grounds was first mentioned by Mayor Toone.

FORMED TALKS

He said: "It will now be possible for formal consultation with Canadian Pacific officers and consultants regarding a convention facility which will assist the committee in its research and report."

Mr. Fitt said there are areas on the grounds which could be considered without impairing the beauty, altering the gardens, destroying trees or interfering with the hotel's operation.

"We would be pleased to have our officers explore with city representatives the site memtioned which is on Belleville Street.

"While we fully realize that such a centre would be a decided asset to any city, because every citizen and every hotel or motel and business benefits, it is not economically sound for private enterprise to enter into such a venture alone.

"I think everyone present will agree such an undertaking is an expensive one to build, maintain and operate."

STAYING THE SAME on the outside is the stately old Empress Hotel. CPR will spend more than $4 million over the next four years bringing the old lady up to date on the inside. Months of rumors of the fate of the Empress were ended with today's announcement at a joint city-CPR meeting.

MLAs Ask Government Inquiry Into Operation of Orphanage

TAMMY DIES . . . VICTIM OF KINDNESS

The victim of kindness, Tammy the fawn died Thursday afternoon.

Experts from the B.C. government game branch and from the University of Victoria tried in vain to save the three-weeks-old animal.

Tammy was picked up by a motorist Sunday and taken to the SPCA branch here.

"This was mistaken kindness," said David Beeching of the SPCA. "If you see a fawn, leave it alone. It may appear abandoned, but usually the mother is nearby and will take care of her baby the moment a human being goes away."

Capital Iron Faces Charge On Smoke Output

Capital Iron and Metals has been charged with an offence against the city's air contamination control bylaw.

The prosecutor's office said it is alleged that Capital Iron discharged smoke for a longer period of time and at a greater density than allowed by the bylaw.

The company does salvage work at the rear of its Store Street location.

The summons is returnable next Tuesday.

Child Bruised In Car Mishap

Two-year-old John Hedber, 270 Beechwood, is in satisfactory condition at St. Joseph's Hospital after being knocked down by a car in the 1700 block Fairfield on Thursday.

The boy suffered bruises to his face, arms and legs when he ran from behind parked cars into the path of an auto driven by Pauline Buyko, 205 Beach, police said.

He was admitted to hospital for observation.

By DESMOND BILL

Controversy over the Protestant Orphanage continued today with MLAs from opposing parties asking for a government investigation into its operation.

J. Donald Smith, a Social Credit member for Victoria, said the government should "find out if there is anything" to charges made against the Orphanage.

And David Barrett, New Democrat member for Dewdney, said the government "had better get on top of the situation because it is their responsibility."

Mr. Smith said he has no personal knowledge of how the Orphanage is operated but has long thought it was performing a service in the community.

He was surprised by recent criticism that the Orphanage is providing only inadequate service both to the community and the children in its care.

"Since these charges have been made, there is a responsibility on the government to find out if there is anything to them," Mr. Smith said. "The government should make it its business to find out what is the situation."

He is confident the government "will concern" itself with the Orphanage and the attacks on its administration.

NUMEROUS LEGACIES

Critics allege the wealthy, 73-year-old institution hoards its money and skimps on service. It has received numerous legacies, among them about $40,000 from the McPherson Estate.

Mr. Barrett, who is his party's welfare critic in the legislature, said the welfare department should ask for an immediate and full report on the Orphanage from the superintendent of child welfare. This should be the first priority, he said.

"Under existing legislation the provincial government is responsible for supervising such institutions and the welfare department grants licences," he said.

Mr. Barrett asked "when was the last report?" made on the institution and "what did the last report say?"

"I hope he provincial government is right on top of this situation through the department of welfare."

Talks Held On Super-Ship Dock Project

Commercial Transport Minister Robert Bonner today revealed he is "in the middle of detailed discussions" regarding possible construction of the west coast's first dock for handling new super freighters now appearing on the high seas.

He said it involves a fully-automated pier for loading two 100,000-ton vessels, to be built "at Sturgeon Banks or in the vicinity."

Sturgeon Banks is at the mouth of the Fraser River, off Richmond municipality.

The development would cost between $15 and $20 million and would load hydrocarbons — petroleum or coal — brought to the pier head by pipeline or 100-car "unit" trains.

He would give no more details.

Mr. Bonner said the pier would be able to handle vessels at least double the size of the largest that can be handled by the present Vancouver harbor.

NOT ONLY JAPAN

He said it would load cargoes for a variety of "off-shore Pacific markets. It's not confined to Japan."

He said the study has gone beyond the exploratory stage but so far is just "an engineering excercise rather than a constitutional one."

This referred to the still-open question of whether the provincial government can make a deal with private foreign companies to establish new deep-sea port facilities outside of the jurisdiction of the National Harbors Board.

TWO PROJECTS

The pier might involve two projects now being pushed by Japanese interests: To pipe oil from the Alberta tar sands to a west coast port or to move millions of tons of coal — either by rail or pipeline — from the Fernie area.

Mr. Bonner wouldn't identify the interests involved, saying he had given "enough for you to speculate." Either of these projects would involve many more millions of investment in transportation installations in the province besides a deep-sea port.

London Next For Teacher

A former Victoria teacher, Barry M. Gough, has been awarded a master's degree in history by the University of Montana.

Mr. Gough, a son of school superintendent John Gough and Mrs. Gough, intends to study British history at the University of London, beginning this fall.

His thesis for his master's degree traced the struggle in the British Parliament in 1763 between those interested in the fur trade and cod fisheries of Canada versus those who profited from the sugar, spice and slave trade of the Caribbean.

Mr. Gough attended local schools, Victoria College and the University of British Columbia from which he obtained a B. Ed. degree in 1962. He taught at Ladner for two years and then at Victoria Secondary from 1964 to 1965.

Ask The Times

Q. If a person is visiting in California and needs medical attention will our B.C. Medical Plan insurance pay expenses incurred? M.E.P.

A. The Medical Plan office in Victoria advises that if a person is visiting California, expenses incurred up to 90 days after leaving B.C. will be paid for. After 90 days, the person's case will be subject to review and expenses may still be paid. If, however, a person has left B.C. and taken up residence in California or elsewhere in Canada or the United States, only the first 90 days' expenses will be paid for.

As for hospitalization expenses, the Ministry of Health Services and Hospital Insurance says substantially the same formula applies, but the period is six months, not 90 days.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

'Okay, Dad, Let's Make With It And Don't Mess With the Locks'

"If Boy Scouts want to wear their hair long, climb mountains with guitars on their backs, and call their leaders "Dad", let us help them make a good job of it," says senior scout official A. G. Coning.

He was commenting on reports that a British committee of boy scout leaders had recommended scouts wear long, slightly tapered, cuffless pants, and green berets, drop the word "boy" from their name, and take an interest in girls.

Mr. Coning is a member of the Regional Scout Council for Greater Victoria, regional representative on the B.C. and Yukon Provinicial Council, and former president of the Burnaby Region organization.

He has advocated the adoption of long pants since 1958 against determined opposition.

A. G. CONING
. . . let's help them

When long pants were finally made optional, "the die-hards took good care that they were frowned on," he said.

Nor would Mr. Coning be sorry to see the departure of the present boy scout hat.

"The round hat is archaic," he remarked.

"It belongs to the bandolier and the 'Soldiers of the Queen Lily Boys' days."

As for fraternization with the enemy — girls — Mr. Coning is all for it.

"You're not going to keep the boys locked up like monks," he said.

"I feel that scouts as they become old enough will inevitably become involved with girls. If they can do it through the scouts, all the better," he concluded.

City Police Nab Suspects Wanted On Mainland

Victoria police nabbed two wanted men today including a suspect who has eluded the law for five years.

Detective-Inspector Bill Andrews said there is a warrant dating from 1961 and relating to a theft charge for one of the men.

The other is wanted for questioning in connection with worthless cheques passed throughout western Canada.

One man was arrested in a downtown hotel and the other at a house in James Bay, the inspector said. Both were en route to Vancouver by noon today, to face charges.

Exciting Soup Flavor Found in This Shop

By Penny Saver

Do you ever feel like having a light snack after such an outing as a dog walk, or while watching your favorite program? You would be an exception to the rest of us if you don't. After an invigorating evening venture, I'm ready for something hot and tasty. My family thought that I'd "flipped" the other day when I suggested that we try a new kind of soup. First, they were sure that I had not found a new flavor, and they could not understand why I wanted soup, of all things, for a bed-time snack.

I found my suggested snack in a new delicatessen. The soup is a Norwegian import and sells for 45 cents the package. It may not be new to the Norwegians but I have never encountered a soup made of five different fruit flavors before. This dehydrated soup mix contains raisins, apricots, apples, pears and peaches. It can be served hot or cold, and has other uses as well.

First, it must be simmered for 10 minutes in one and one-half pints of boiling water. Then it may be cooled if you don't want it hot.

There are recipes on the package for making delicious desserts from this mix too. Try a glamorous Norwegian sundae or fruit compote made with this. Your family will love it. Try it and see.

Another idea with soups is also an import from Norway. This, the favorite soup among the Norwegians, is a blend of fish, vegetables and milk. One package, selling for 49 cents, makes enough for four or five servings.

To prepare this gourmet delight, add the contents to one and one-half pints of boiling water and simmer for 15 minutes. If you wish, add sour cream or one of two egg yolks before serving. It is very high in vitamin and mineral content and provides an exciting venture into the world of eating.

If you are looking for something different in the dessert line, this shop has the answer. Puddings imported from Germany are perfect for serving with fruit, in pies, or just as puddings.

They're creamy too, as you add milk and sugar to the powdered mix which sells for just 12 cents. Flavors are almond, vanilla, strawberry, cream and lemon. The chocolate flavor sells for 14 cents.

Try something different for delightful dining. Give Penny a call at 382-3131.

DEAR ABBY . . .

'Sweet Thing' May Change Her Tune

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 51-year-old man who is very much in love with a 22-year-old girl. I know you think I'm crazy, but Abby, this girl really loves me. She even broke up with a young good-looking man just for me. She worked for me a short time, but we didn't want any talk around the place, so I had her quit. My problem is my wife. She won't give me a divorce.

Our children are grown, and I offered her a very good settlement, but she refused it. Abby, my girl friend is the sweetest, most unspoiled little thing in the world. She is just the opposite of my wife. She appreciates every little thing I've given her, like a small, inexpensive car, some clothes, and taking care of her mother's hospital bill. I would gladly give up my last dime to be free to marry this girl. But how?

IN LOVE

DEAR IN: Make your wife a better offer. She might surprise you. But I don't advise you to "give up your last dime" for your freedom because that "sweet, unspoiled little thing" might also surprise you.

DEAR ABBY: I'll get right to the point. I had several appointments with a reputable physician regarding a physical ailment. During one of these appointments I confided a very closely-guarded secret about my personal life. He assured me it would go no further.

This morning a friend told me she had heard something "unbelievable" about me. Then she recounted in the very words I had used to tell my doctor, exactly what I had told him. She refused to tell me where she'd heard it, but she didn't have to. She and my doctor's wife are very close friends.

I am sick inside. If this story gets out, it could wreck my marriage. My doctor told his wife, and of that I am positively certain. What would you do?

SICK INSIDE

DEAR SICK: Doctors are human and therefore have their frailties. But most doctors carry all their secrets to their graves. Clip this and send it to your doctor. It is part of the Hippocratic oath a doctor takes when he becomes a physician:

"Whatsoever in my practice, or not in my practice, I shall hear or see, amid the lives of men, which ought not to be noised abroad — as to this I will keep silence, holding such things unfitting to be spoken."

And sign your name! If he's innocent, he won't mind. And if he's guilty he'll be reminded.

DEAR ABBY: I have never seen a problem like mine in your column, and hope you can help me. My wife is a "she wolf." When we are out in public she is constantly looking at other men. It doesn't matter if we are at a restaurant, a ball game, or just walking down the street. You'd think her head was on a swivel.

Then to top it off, she makes some remark about how "handsome" that one is, or what a nice "build" another one has. I am no slouch myself as far as looks go. Should I give her a taste of her own medicine? I'd like to put a stop to this.

SHE-WOLF'S HUSBAND

DEAR HUSBAND: Skip the medicine. But tell your wife to keep her eyes front or some stranger will eventually call her bluff and you will be compelled to fight for her honor. And there's always a chance that you might lose.

Troubled? Write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Calif., 90069. For a personal reply, enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Combined Meeting

Next Tuesday at 8 p.m. the volunteers and auxiliary members of the Victoria Branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association will hold their first combined meeting. It will be held in the board room of Spencerhouse at 1951 Cook Street. Present committees will report on their progress and other committees will be formed. The meeting is open to all persons interested in the association.

SHOWN IN REPORT AT ANNUAL DINNER MEETING

Women's Group Gives $3,000 to Art Gallery

A total of $3,000 was presented by the Women's Committee to the Art Gallery of Greater Victoria board of directors during the past year. This was announced by treasurer Mrs. Graham Harris, Wednesday evening, when she gave her report at the annual meeting and dinner of the committee in the Red Lion Motor Inn.

The major fund-raising project, she said, was the house tour, which realized $1,012.52. Among other projects were the Poinsettia ball, $923.98; rummage sale, $720.19 and Christmas card sale, $400. Total receipts were $3,770.50.

Disbursements were $3,075.33 with main expenditures being a new vacuum cleaner, typewriter, panels and books for the gallery. Balance on hand was $1,095.39.

In the cultural fund, continued Mrs. Harris, receipts were $1,600.70 and disbursements $2,000. Balance in this account stands at $417.20.

PICTURE LOANS

The reciprocal agreement with the Women's Auxiliary to the Vancouver Art Gallery, to exchange paintings and to arrange shipment for artists' works, was discussed in the report of picture loan convener Mrs. R. T. McKean, read by Mrs. A. B. Southon.

She also reported on the success of a new venture of the picture loan committee, TOMP, the original of the month plan, where a group of the loan committee rents paintings to various business and professional offices in the city. Companies wishing pictures had increased from six to 16 over a two-year period, she said, renting more than 30 a month. Profits totalled $300.

Rentals made through the picture loan to members were 1,350, this year, she added, with a value of $31,582. Receipts from this project were $345.

A report on the recent house tour was given by Mrs. Colin Graham.

New committee president is Mrs. W. Parker. Also serving on the new executive are Mrs. Robin Skelton, first vice-president; Mrs. Alec Reid, second; Mrs. R. Weir, recording secretary; Mrs. J. Preston, corresponding; Mrs. Harris, treasurer; Mrs. A. Alexander, membership.

Retiring president Mrs. J. R. Meredith was presented with a gift.

Among the special guests at meeting were gallery board president George Maycock and Mrs. Maycock and vice-president Dr. Robert Lane and Mrs. Lane.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Develop Chest Muscles

Lowman

Q. I am one of those girls who has a very small bust. My mother feels that I cannot increase my bust since I am nearly 19. What do you think? I would surely like to have a larger bust.

A. You can increase your bust measurement and make your bust more prominent at any age by developing the underlying chest muscles. However this takes time. Do not expect results too soon.

Q. Two permanents have turned my hair a shade or two lighter than it was, which disappoints me something fierce. Now here's my question. If I give my hair two oil treatments a week for a while will it turn my hair back to its natural color? Is this a good treatment? What kind of oil should I use?

A. Permanents should not change the color of the hair. Oil treatments will not change it back. However, if your hair is dry this could make some difference in the color and hot oil treatments will help the dry condition. Olive oil is effective.

Q. Is it possible to correct the defect of a bulging calf when wearing high heels? This is very embarrassing. Would an exercise in the leaflet "Why Not Take Steps Towards Lovely Legs?" help this condition?

A. I never thought that high heels made the calf bulge. There is an exercise in the leaflet you mention that is corrective to the bulging calf. This is it: Lie on the floor on your back, knees straight. Raise your left leg up as far as you can with a straight knee. As you do so pull your toe back toward your head. Lower leg to floor. Do the same thing with your right leg and then alternate. Be sure to have your knees straight and your toe pointed back toward your head.

Q. I have a psychological as well as a physical problem — a flat chest. I am not a teen-ager. Could you tell me anything about plastic surgery to increase the size of the bust?

A. This operation can be done. I don't think all plastic surgeons do this one but many do. I suggest that you locate one through your local medical society and talk with him about it.

Q. I am just wondering if I am too fat. Many of my friends say that I need to gain weight, especially those who are overweight themselves. I can't help wondering if they want me to gain because then I will be fat like they are. I am 5 feet 6 inches tall, almost 16 years old and weigh around 118 pounds. Don't you think I am fat?

A. Your friends are right. You are about eight pounds underweight.

SIX-MONTH TOUR

Miss Shirley Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Bell of Lampson Street, arrived home on Wednesday evening after a six-month tour of Great Britain and continental Europe. The trip included a tour of England, a week of skiing at the Norwegian resort of Voss, a six-week tour of Belgium, Germany, Austria, Italy, France and Spain. She also spent two weeks touring The Netherlands and Denmark and visited East Berlin for three hours, passing through Check Point Charlie. Her holiday ended with a two-week tour of Scotland and Ireland. Next week, many of her relatives and friends will gather in the Bell home to see her 400 slides and mementoes. Miss Bell graduated from the University of Victoria last year and plans to enter university again this fall in order to complete her final year of a post-graduate course in education.

Author Honored

Mr. and Mrs. Denis Mason Hurley recently entertained in their Rockland Avenue home in honor of Mr. Hurley's brother, Dr. Patrick Mason Hurley, who was in British Columbia to represent the Massachusetts Institute of Technology at the congregation of the University of British Columbia. Dr. Hurley, who is professor of geophysics at M.I.T., graduated from Victoria College and UBC and is the author of the book, "How Old Is the Earth?"

Novel Corsage

A corsage of white flowers and small kitchen gadgets was presented to Mrs. W. J. Pogson, the former Yvonne Daniel, when she was entertained at a surprise shower in the Blanshard Street home of Mrs. Allan McLeod. Mother of the guest of honor Mrs. Harry Daniel, received a novelty gift. A silver bowl of roses and lily of the valley centred the refreshment table and spring flowers decorated the box which contained the gifts. Attending were Mrs. B. Hawkins, Mrs. R. Bennett, Mrs. J. McKinnon, Mrs. B. Grieves, Mrs. R. Copley, Mrs. G. Mann, Mrs. F. Pomeroy, Mrs. D. Cunningham, Mrs. W. Lewis, the Misses Irene Christie, Judy Gonnason, Susan Lewis, Laurie Bennett, Pat McKinnon, Bernice Osborne, Esther and Ellen Bertelsen and Rev. E. Laura Butler.

Travel South

Mrs. M. F. Hunter and her sister, Mrs. P. B. O'Neill left Wednesday for Merced, Calif. While there they will visit with their brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Luney. They will also attend the graduation ceremonies of their nieces, Miss Sharon Dawn Luney, from Livingstone High School, Merced, and of Miss Wendy Anne Luney from Merced Junior College. Mrs. Hunter and Mrs. O'Neill will return to Victoria at the end of June.

Co-Hostesses

Two miniature dolls with umbrellas topped the shower cake which centred the refreshment table when Miss Colleen Gibson was entertained at a shower by Mrs. N. C. Jackson and Mrs. L. L. Ebert in the latter's McRae Street home. A corsage of yellow carnations was presented to the honor guest, and similar corsages in pink tones were given to the bride-elect's mother, Mrs. S. P. Gibson, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. W. Marshall. Gifts in a decorated pink and white basket were also presented to Miss Gibson. Guests included Mrs. N. G. Jackson, Mrs. N. G. Ebert, Mrs. B. Baechler, Mrs. R. Peaker, the Misses Vicki Jackson, Brenda Ebert, Cheryl Haines and Janet Gibson.

Farewell Party

Pink roses en corsage and a gift were presented to Mrs. S. M. Eden when she was entertained at a farewell party in the Earl Grey Street home of Mrs. S. Cook. Mrs. Eden is leaving Victoria shortly to make her home in North Surrey, B.C. A decorated cake centred the refreshment table and games of court whist were played. Attending the affair were Mrs. G. Dean, Mrs. R. Feldon, Mrs. R. Murray, Mrs. C. Blatchford, Mrs. G. Duncan, Mrs. G. Grainger, Mrs. L. Harman, Mrs. C. Kirchin, Mrs. L. Crowe, Mrs. G. Gandy, Mrs. W. Drane, Mrs. C. Martin and Miss Diane Crowe.

Trousseau Tea

An arrangement of red roses, flanked by white candles, centred the refreshment table when Mrs. Gordon R. Clay entertained at a trousseau tea for her daughter, bride-elect Miss Sherry Clay, in her Cedar Avenue home. Presiding at the table was Mrs. F. E. Easton. Attending the affair were Mrs. E. Easton, Mrs. J. C. Williams, Mrs. A. E. Pistell, Mrs. W. W. Roe, Mrs. R. J. Casey, Mrs. E. Patterson, Mrs. W. Jackson, Mrs. A. Patterson, Mrs. J. J. Patterson, Mrs. R. Lindsay, Mrs. L. Davey, Mrs. J. LIVELY BEAT

Young Musicians Add Zest To Affair at St. Joseph's

When guests entered the auditorium of St. Joseph's Hospital's nurses' residence, Wednesday afternoon, they couldn't help wondering if they'd stumbled into a tune-up period of the Beatles. Providing the unusually lively musical program was organist Vincent Cownden and bass guitarist Steven Pugsley.

The occasion was the spring flower tea of the Ladies' Auxiliary to St. Joseph's Hospital. The well-attended affair, convened by Mrs. R. Atkinson, realized proceeds of $384.

President Mrs. Connie Baker greeted the guests and in charge of tea arrangements were Mrs. B. G. Ryan, Mrs. L. Barraud, Mrs. W. Rothery and Mrs. G. Shipley.

In addition to the usual tasty sandwiches expected at the annual event, guests were treated to succulent dishes of strawberry shortcake, topped with cream, heaped to the point of will-power demolishment. Responsible for the tasty desserts were Mrs. P. W. Semenchuk, Mrs. H. O'Neill and Mrs. A. D. Blair.

Individual tables were centred with fragrant spring nosegays while the head table drew all eyes with its arrangement of shasta daisies, marguerites and cornflowers.

Serviteurs were Mrs. A. Goodwin, Mrs. A. Effa, Mrs. H. Fox, Mrs. J. Chadderton, Mrs. M. Steele, Mrs. T. Pye, Mrs. W. Critchley and Mrs. R. Kay.

If the delicious tea wasn't enough to woo any calorie-shy guest, the nose-twitching aromas from the home cooking stall proved their undoing. In charge of the stall were Mrs. T. Atkinson, Mrs. E. Taylor and Mrs. M. Adkisson.

Receipts of the afternoon, totalled by Mrs. A. Cownden and Mrs. R. Girard, will be used to provide equipment for the hospital's new maternity wing.

ARMSTRONG-MILLIKEN VOWS EXCHANGED

Delicate Appliques Enhance Wedding Gown

Rose appliques, studded with seed pearls and crystals, highlighted the gown of sata-peau worn by Patricia Anne Milliken when she became the bride of Robert John Armstrong recently. The same appliques starred the detachable train which extended from the waist. The fitted bodice was styled with sleeves ending in lily points. A tiara of seed pearls and crystals held her tiered veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of gladioli in red and white tones.

Dean Brian Whitlow officiated at the ceremony uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Milliken, 104 Joseph Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Armstrong, 225 Superior Street. Christ Church Cathedral was decorated with baskets of pink and white gladioli for the occasion. Mr. Milliken gave his daughter in marriage.

The boys' choir sang "Wedding Prayer" during the signing of the register.

Miss Roberta Milliken was maid of honor for her sister and bridesmaid was Miss Beverly Gerrard. Their floor-length gowns featured skirts of crepe over taffeta and bodices of lace styled with cap sleeves. They wore toning headpieces and carried bouquets of pink and white gladioli. The bride's gifts of crystal necklaces was their only jewelry.

Ken Blunt was best man and guests were ushered to pews marked with satin bows by Harry Morgan and Dave English.

At the reception following in the Olde England Inn, the bride and groom cut a three-tier wedding cake which was topped with pink rosebuds. W. J. Green proposed the toast to the bride's happiness.

The couple traveled on honeymoon to Vancouver, Seattle and Portland, and is now living in Duncan. For travelling, the bride chose a three-piece suit in shocking pink tones with a matching hat and black patent accessories. A corsage of white rosebuds completed her outfit.

CWAC REUNION MARKS SILVER ANNIVERSARY

An invitation has been issued to all Canadian Women's Army Corps veterans of the Second World War to attend the Canada-wide silver anniversary reunion being held this summer in Toronto.

The three-day session starts on Friday, Aug. 12, and will feature a weekend packed with banquets, entertainment and reminiscing.

Special reunion gifts will be presented to the veteran who has travelled the greatest distance to attend; the one with the most children, the eldest and the youngest.

Those planning to attend are to reserve early, by writing 25th Anniversary Canada-wide, CWAC Veterans Reunion Committee, CWAC Unit 47 of Canadian Corps Association, 201 Niagara Street, Toronto 2B, Out.

Special set-starter offer:
$5.00 OFF this new Samsonite luggage until June 30th, 1966

Give lightweight, feature-packed Samsonite Debonair a chance to change all your ideas about economy luggage!

The cases in the special offer above are just two of seven Debonair models. We're betting five dollars that after you see and use this new luggage you'll want more than just one case.

Debonair's incredibly tough, moulded shell is made from the lightest luggage material known. The 21-inch cases in the set-starter offer only weigh 5¼ pounds each!

Samsonite's famous magnesium frame in Debonair makes it the strongest luggage in its class—and then some! All closing edges are tongue-and-grooved to keep out dust and damp. The locks are set into the frame to prevent accidental opening.

Inside and out, Debonair comes in six fashion-accessory colours that match its exciting looks and lightness. When it's time to pack up and go—go happy, go lightly with new Samsonite Debonair!

Take advantage of the Debonair set-starter offer now —at any Samsonite Dealer's.

BRIDGE LESSON

By JACOBY AND SON

A winning player must know how to bid and play but there is an extra requisite which is generally described as the "feel of the table."

The man with this characteristic almost never loses a two-way finesse. He just seems to know which opponent holds that missing card. On defense he finds the killing leads and plays. Most important of all, in competitive situations he knows when to sacrifice, and when to gamble that he can set his opponents.

There is nothing remarkable about North's pass to four hearts. Most players would know that they could not make five diamonds but would not bother to take the sure loss that would result from a five-diamond bid.

North passed for an entirely different reason. The game was rubber bridge and he felt certain that he would only go down two tricks at five diamonds doubled. This would merely be a 200-point loss because he held 100 honors, but North passed because he had some hope of beating the heart game. Why take any loss when you don't have to?

North started his campaign to beat four hearts by opening his singleton spade. West saw what North was planning and tried to counteract by playing the ace and another trump, but this did him no good. North went right up with his king and underled the ace-king of diamonds.

South found himself on lead with the queen and returned a spade to give North his ruff and the third defensive trick.

At this point North led a club and eventually declarer had to lose a trick in that suit also.

A crazy little building, right smack up against a big, ugly, apartment block, and sandwiched in amongst houses . . . for which our forefathers should have been put into the stocks for constructing . . . the lot is also goofy.
Inside, it is a sweet little place, really cute . . . two bedrooms, living room, modern kitchen and modern bathroom, all very pretty, (It used to be a store.) A really nice garden in the back with fruit trees and strawberries. The property is a giggle . . . but it may have future commercial possibilities some day. On bus line, close in, store across the street.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

What happens when the family television set converts to color? You watch television more.

Stephen

The viewer flips past the drab black-and-white channels to focus on color, any color. Even commercials.

Suddenly the commercials take on a more interesting light. The ear is repelled to a degree, but the eye is delighted by the varied hues.

That cake which is cut with a feather to show its lightness and delicate texture becomes a yummy item.

Exceptional too are the gleaming new cars speeding along the landscape and the menthol cigarette ads playing against emerald fields or turquoise bays.

Captain Crunch and his youthful cronies gambol through their selling antics with chroma-laden ease.

Old shows appear in a new guise. You suddenly see why Bonanza is so popular. Flipper becomes a visual delight. The underwater scenes shimmering with color excitement. The musical variety shows dazzle with costume brilliance. Old movies live again.

Without a doubt, all this will pass and color will be standard fare in all homes. Set prices are bound to go down as consumer demand increases. Even now stocks of major color set manufacturers are losing value as set prices begin that unalterable slow glide downwards.

But, even now color is not expensive when you realize that quality of the product being introduced into the home.

Back in 1953, many Victorians spent up to $500 for a 21-inch black-and-white set when only two fuzzy Seattle stations were available to this area.

To help bring these two horribly-bad (by today's standards) signals into the home, another $175 was spent on a 60-foot mast antenna. Almost $700 to catch Sid Caesar and Imogene Coca, Milton Berle and the Wednesday night fights.

Today's color set prices, therefore, are not that far out of line.

Besides, five American stations offer color while the three Canadian stations will launch into 30-hour color program schedules in the fall.

Color is catching on quickly as more and more consumers lean towards the innovation to television viewing.

Color television has been referred to as the most significant single factor to influence the North American economy over the next five years. This year 3,500,000 sets will be built in the U.S. with this figure rising to 6,100,000 in 1969.

Do you want a surprise! When you drive up to this Better Homes and Garden-like setting I'll bet you'll gasp—and won't believe there is nearly 2,000 sq. ft. finished. This is beyond compare for a picturesque setting. Here's what's inside:

- Sunken L.R. with R.H. fireplace and bookshelves.
- D.R.
- Exhilarting kitchen — covered arborite countertops with Crestwood custom cabinets.
- Extra large eating area.
- 3 bedrooms, 4-pce bathroom plus en suite 2-pce vanity bathroom off master.
- Lovely finished ground floor bedroom and 2-pce bathroom.
- 13x39 approx. finely finished bright family game and music room.
- Pocket-sized fenced back garden and Butchart-type front lawn and garden with pool, enhanced by curving driveway.
- Large utility room plus furnace room and workshop.

Price $25,500

Looking for Something DIFFERENT?

For the couple or family that wants a 3-BR home — here is one with a plan that is practical, unique, charming. Architect - designed, quality-built, attractively finished post and beam. Open plan with combined dining area and family room opening onto large patio facing south. Located on a 92x95 lot, close in, midway between elementary and high schools. With the landscaped garden you couldn't duplicate this today for $24,900. WILF DAVIS, 388-4271 or residence 658-5276.

LET'S FACE IT

Where can you buy a spacious modern, completely finished home on a good seaview lot fully landscaped for $36,500? Isn't it worth living six miles from city centre in a select area where ALL homes are over $30,000, where schools, particularly the senior high are so handy, where the prevailing west wind doesn't bother? I have a house in Georgia Park that meets these requirements and much more. It has 3 BRs plus den and 2 full bathrooms on upper level, it has a 21-ft. LR, a 13x11 DR and kitchen with built-in range on main floor. It has a large family room which opens onto a patio at rear (the DR also has a raised patio through French doors), a games room, sewing room, workshop, double garage with automatic door. You can't find many to compare with this one and you'll never regret "moving out." Phone today for appointment to see WILF DAVIS 388-4271 or 658-5276.

BUILT FOR THE BRITISH ADMIRAL!
THE PRINCE OF WALES
SLEPT HERE

So the story goes — and we have no reason to disbelieve it as this 13-room home was obviously built around the turn of the century, is situated near the Navy Base. It has a commanding view of the sea and is nestled in a setting of Oak trees. What a story the old manse could tell!

And now that the Admiral has long since passed the maritime scene the house remains, and is being used as lodging for sailors. While the years have taken their toll and a renovating job is obviously needed this property nevertheless provides the owner with a home and income. Retiring owner wishes to sell and the price is $12,000. Call DON BACON, 388-4271.

ANY CANADIAN ELIGIBLE

$50,000 Award Set For Achievment

OTTAWA (CP) An annual award of $50,000 to a Canadian of outstanding achievement was announced Thursday as the centennial project of the Royal Bank of Canada.

President W. Earle McLaughlin told a press conference the Royal Bank centennial award has been set up in "perpetuity, or for as long as the Bank Act lasts."

Mr. MacLaughlin announced the names of a six-man selection committee and said it is hoped the first award can be announced next June.

Bankers and politicians in office aren't eligible but any other Canadian in any field is.

The criterion will be whether the achievement contributes "to the common good and welfare of Canada or the world society."

Anyone living in Canada, or any team, may be nominated by two persons other than themselves for the Royal Bank award. Citizenship isn't a necessary qualification but domicile is.

Cut-off date for nominations for the first one will be Feb. 28, 1967, with hopes the committee can make a selection by next June.

BOARD

Mr. McLaughlin stressed that in a close contest, the runner-up could always be chosen by the committee the following year.

Committee chairman is Dr. A. W. Trueman, Guelph, Ont., dean of University College, University of Western Ontario.

The other members are J. V. Clyne, Vancouver, board chairman and chief executive officer of McMillan Bloedel Ltd.; G. Maxwell Bell, chairman of FP Publications Ltd. and publisher of The Albertan, Calgary; Dr. O. M. Solandt, chancellor of the University of Toronto and vice-president of de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd.; Dr. Roger Gaudry, rector of the University of Montreal; and Chief Justice J. L. Ilsley of Nova Scotia, a former federal finance minister.

BAN ON LSD ENFORCED

PARIS (Reuters) — French Interior Minister Roger Frey instructed police throughout France Thursday strictly to enforce legislation prohibiting the sale of hallucinatory drugs such as LSD. The government banned such drugs last week.

Centennial Enthusiasm Lacking

Central Saanich may be the only municipality to end up with no centennial project next year.

The reason is the lack of enthusiasm on the part of many residents, coupled with the lack of co-operation between various organizations to support a project which more or less would be acceptable to the majority of people.

The situation is such that even Reeve Gordon Lee is beginning to think a project will never get off the ground.

"At this stage," he said, "there appears to be little enthusiasm for any project. It's disheartening."

Central Saanich centennial problems began when council rejected a proposal to build a $36,000 swimming pool at Centennial Park on Wallace Drive.

SYMPATHETIC

Council was sympathetic towards the project, but strong opposition from ratepayer groups and farm organizations forced it to drop the proposal.

As an alternative, the South Saanich Farmers Institute suggested construction of a museum to house pioneer and farm relics.

But the proposal received a lukewarm reception. Out of 13 letters sent to different organizations asking their opinion on the museum, only five replied to council. None of these endorsed the project, but asked for further information.

One group, the Mount Newton PTA, flatly opposed the project.

Leaflets opposing the museum were even distributed to children at Brentwood School to take home to their parents.

"I don't know where we go from here," said Reeve Lee. "If residents won't agree on a project, it's quite possible we won't have any."

WHO WILL RUN ARTS CENTRE?

Hole in Ground Sparks B-B Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — A project that is still only a $4,000,000 hole in the ground sparked another bilingual-bicultural debate in the Commons Thursday.

A bill that would spell out just who would operate the National Arts Centre brought the issue to the fore.

Earlier Conservative Leader Diefenbaker attacked Liberal financial policies before the House approved income tax changes outlined by Finance Minister Sharp in his budget speech March 29.

Costs for the arts centre now are expected to reach about $36,000,000, up from $9,000,000 originally. But this wasn't the issue in the Commons debate, which centred on the personnel who would run the centre once in business.

State Secretary Judy LaMarsh was piloting the bill at second reading.

It spelled out that there would be a board of trustees consisting of a chairman, vice-chairman, the current mayors of Ottawa and neighboring Hull, Que., the director of the Canada Council, the CBC president, the head of the National Film Board and "nine other members."

Debate zeroed in on the nine. A. A. Mongrain (IND—Trois-Rivieres) moved an amendment specifying that three of them should be French-speaking Canadians. Gilles Gregoire (Creditiste — Lapointe) seconded it.

It finally went down 68 to 8 in a standing committee vote. The mover and seconder were supported by three other Creditistes, and Georges Valade (PC — Montreal Ste. Marie), Jean Rochon (L—Montreal Laval) and Maurice Allard (Ind-PC—Sherbrooke).

Raynald Guay (L — Levis) then moved a second amendment that in appointments to the board the government recognize Canada's bilingual nature.

Discussion on this was to continue today.

Mr. Mongrain said, before his amendment went under, that the best way to confront separatism is to spell out biculturalism in legislation. This stand was shotgunned from both sides of the House.

It constituted the worst type of discrimination, said Michael Starr (PC—Ontario), born in Northern Ontario of parents of Ukrainian origin. "We're all Canadians, no distinctions should be made in this regard."

Miss LaMarsh concurred. "Narrowness in any regard" shouldn't be a factor in culture. She had no fears, because of the yeasty nature of French culture, that French-Canadians would be left out.

Bryce Mackasey (L — Verdun) said the suggestion that any sort of minimum had to be legislated to ensure adequate representation was an insult to French-Canadians.

CITES NEW CITIZENS

And Jack Roxburgh (L—Norfolk), a southwestern Ontario farmer, spoke of attending a recent ceremony in citizenship court where immigrants, none of them of French or English origin, became Canadians.

"I've taken all I can," he said, addressing himself to his "French friends." He added that Mr. Mongrain's type of stipulation was an attempt to drive a wedge into the country.

Before the income tax resolution won approval, Mr. Diefenbaker tackled Mr. Sharp, particularly on the issue of just how much he believes in the policies of Walter Gordon (L—Toronto Davenport) his predecessor in the portfolio who resigned after the 1965 election failed to bring the Liberals a majority government.

Mr. Diefenbaker asked Mr. Sharp to explain any philosophical differences between himself and Mr. Gordon.

He said there apparently was supposed to be a "discarded" Gordon policy and a "more enlightened but similar" Sharp policy. But as far as he could see the two holders of the finance portfolio were "fighting with powder puffs."

He asked the government to spell out its current financial policy. Was it Gordon nationalism or Sharp internationalism?

Mr. Sharp branded the whole thing "an exhibition of trouble-making." It was an attempt to impute to the Liberal party the kind of discord that has been rife within Conservative ranks, he said.

VMD Lands Tanks Contracts

Contracts worth a combined $1½ million to build petrochemical industrial units have been won by Victoria Machinery Depot.

They are from Imperial Oil Ltd. for its Monteral refinery and from Chemcell Ltd. for its Cornwall, Ont., plant, both for construction of methanol exchangers.

Resembling other high pressure tanks the company has made in recent years, the latest projects use techniques evolved at VMD permitting multi-thickness shells to be shrunk together forming a single wall capable of withstanding immense pressure.

Completed tanks are usually some 40 feet long, weighing around 170 tons.

10 Pigeons Lost

Dick Jones, 735 Cameo, told Saanich police Thursday night that 22 of his pet pigeons have been stolen in the past two weeks.

Ten of these were taken Thursday night, he said, and estimated he had lost 30 birds in recent months.

The pigeons live in a loft at the rear of his property.

Gov't Brainwashing Charged In Glowing Accounts of India

If you think Canadian governments are bad, you should take a long hard look at India's.

In a speech to the Victoria branch of the World Federalists, Thursday, vice-president Ranjit Singh Azad brushed aside glowing official Indian government accounts of the situation in India as "brainwashing."

He charged:

● "Very highly placed politicians" control the tremendous illegal drug traffic. The police are obliged to look the other way as drugs are sold in the open market.

● According to people who were there, India really attacked Pakistan at the start of recent hostilities over Kashmir. It was a subterfuge designed to unite the Indian people and suppress the communists.

● "You might as well stop your foreign aid because we never get it anyway." In fact, few Indians even know foreign aid is unavailable to the Indian who is unwilling to pay a bribe.

● Bribery is commonplace in elections. The lower castes are especially vulnerable to exploitation.

● The government is riddled with corruption, and the grafters are so powerful they can refuse to take bribes except in the form of gold and silver, which they sell at a profit on the black market foreign exchange to Indian millionaires.

● The caste system is as rigid as ever, and caste antagonism is increased.

As a result of this sorry state, "most Indians think conditions have reached a point of no return."

DISGUSTED

"The mood is a very sad mood. The people are disillusioned and disgusted," Mr. Azad said.

Mr. Azad's charges were based on personal observation during a lengthy visit to India recently, after an absence of 20 years. His address was illustrated with slides depicting the stark contrast between great wealth and abject poverty in India.

He was speaking in the St. John Ambulance Hall.

Uvic Students Going to Africa For 'Crossroads'

Two University of Victoria students will be among the 37 Canadians who will go to Africa this summer to take part in Operations Crossroads.

They are Mary Helen Johaneson, 2880 Glenwood, going to Togo, in Central Africa, and Kenneth Heast, 1149 Victoria Ave., who will spend his time in Nigeria.

They will live in work camps with African students and work on tasks for which their help has been specifically requested by the host country.

The Canadians will form part of a team of North American students. They will have an orientation course at Rutgers University beginning June 19 and leave by air for Africa June 24.

'New Pattern Of Living' Burglar's Need

Two youths earlier convicted of breaking and entering were given terms in the young offenders' unit when they appeared in central court for sentence Thursday.

"What you need is training and guidance to change your pattern of living," Magistrate Ostler told Robert Powell, 18, of 1048 Pandora.

He noted the accused had committed his first burglary at the age of 10.

Powell was sentenced to eight months definite and four months indefinite and his companion, Harry Hagen, 20, 3946 Quadra, was given a six-month term and three months indefinite.

SOLUTION MONDAY

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to James Amberger, age 10, of Staten Island, N.Y., for his question:

What should I feed my pet salamanders?

There are more than 130 different salamanders in North America, and many of the medium-sized ones make nice little pets. All salamanders are meat eaters so do not feed them vegetables or salad greens. In the wild they hunt for a living and devour their food alive and kicking.

Perhaps your graceful little pets are spotted salamanders with green-brown coats adorned with bright yellow spots. Or they may be yellow-striped tiger salamanders. These gaudy fellows may be found almost anywhere in the Eastern States. The black and white marbled salamander and the drab olive Jefferson salamander also are easterners, but they are not as handsome as their cousins marked with yellow.

Salamanders are amphibians with clammy moist skins. They must avoid the dry heat of direct sunlight, and in the wild they do most of their hunting at night. Snails and slugs and worms also avoid daylight and come forth to feed after sunset. The quiet little salamanders lie in wait and pounce upon these slowpokes. They also dine on bugs and beetles, on grubs and crawling caterpillars.

Captive salamanders must have the same kind of foods they enjoy in the wild. You may not wish to supply them with live snails and slugs, but they must have groceries that are just as good for them. All their food must be meat, and it should be served in small bite-sized portions. As a rule, salamanders are not fussy about their menus, but their diet must be varied.

Feeds on Grubs or Larvae

Your pets may enjoy a few crumbs of raw hamburger. Serve it at room temperature and remove all scraps after the meal is finished. Vary the diet with a few beetles and grubs. And every day or so feed them a supply of mealworms. These little grubs are a necessary diet item and the salamanders enjoy them. If your pets refuse to eat hamburger, you will need to keep a supply of mealworms on hand.

This, however, may lead to trouble and make your salamanders very unpopular in the home. Mealworms are the grubs or larvae of certain beetles, and the greedy little wrigglers tend to invade our stores of flour and corn meal, You can buy them at most pet stores, but be sure to keep them in well-sealed containers.

Pet salamanders are comfortable and contented in a terrarium-type home which you can make yourself. Use an oblong box with glass walls and a glass roof that seals in a supply of moist air. Cover the floor with soil and sink in a bowl big enough for a dunking pool. Have plenty of growing plants either in small pots or rooted in the ground and place the terrarium in filtered sunlight near a window.

* * *

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book Globe to Robert Plutnick, age 10, of Old Bridge, N.J., for his question:

What do tadpoles eat?

This is the season when young nature lovers take home a jar of frog eggs. The youngsters that hatch from the jellified eggs are wriggly black tadpoles, and these junior frogs are not at all like their parents. They do best in water taken from their own ponds or stream—and be sure to add a few of their own water weeds.

If you change the water every few days with fresh supplies from the pond, you do not have to feed the tadpoles. Their tiny round mouths nibble the water weeds and swallow miniature scraps floating in the water. The water from an outdoor pond or stream teems with scraps and with living plants and animals too small for our eyes to see. But this microscopic debris comes in just the right bite-sized pieces to feed a batch of growing tadpoles.

Person With Hernia Should Have Surgery

By WALTER C. ALVAREZ

A hernia means a rupture, and the commonest rupture is the one in the groin or groins of a man. In such cases a loop of bowel comes down through a hole in the abdominal wall — a hole through which goes the spermatic cord (a tube that carries millions of spermatozoa, the essential part of the sperm, from the testicles to a little receptacle at the base of the bladder near the prostate gland).

Alvarez

In women, rarely a loop of bowel passes down in the groin alongside of the big fermoral artery that leaves the abdomen to supply the thigh and leg — hence it is called a femoral hernia.

Many men, for all their lives, have a large inguinal ring (at the lower end of the canal in the groin) and hence are threatened with a rupture, but it does not come down. This tendency to rupture can be inherited.

If a hernia gets big enough to permit the bowel to come out and go down into the sac of the testicles, it had better be repaired surgically. This most certainly should be done immediately if the man often lives all alone out in the wilds as a hunter, or forest ranger, or explorer, or miner — because if the hernia ever came out and got caught, so that the man could not push it back into the abdomen, he would soon die a painful death — with an intestinal obstruction.

* * *

I remember a rancher in the mountains who for 40 years wore a truss (a pad designed to hold back his hernia, and keep it from coming out too far). He hated it, and often it did not work well; the hernia would come out by the side of the pad to greatly endanger his life.

Then, when he was 70 or so, the rupture got so big he had to have it operated on. Then he said to me, "I feel like hiring a man to kick me around the block for being such a fool as to put up with the nuisance of that hernia all those years — when in the end I had to have it operated on."

Many people ask me if there is any medical treatment worth trying. And my answer is none. No chemical taken by mouth can repair the hole in the abdominal wall.

Some ask, "But after an operation can the hernia come back?" Yes, in some cases it does, largely because the muscles have become so thin and so weak that sutures will not hold; they will tear out. Then the surgeon will operate again, closing the hole with a wire mesh or a net made out of fibrous tissue. The operation can be performed safely, perhaps under "local block" anesthesia, even when the man is 80.

Today, there are many hernias that form in the scars of wounds left after an operation. Often what happened was that a chain-smoker, after an operation coughed so hard and steadily that he or she tore open the wound. Some of these persons wear a tight band around the abdomen, while others get operated on.

Tire Safety Bill

Red Brick Building Has Filled a Need

By ELIZABETH FORBES

The Protestant Orphanage and the work it does has been the subject of much controversy in the past week.

Forbes

It has been said that the place is out-of-date, and that old-fashioned methods are being used in caring for the children, do not fit them to enter the grown-up world of today.

Even the name of the place, with the word "orphan" in it, has come in for censure. There are no orphans in the Home, it is said. All the children have either a mother or a father living.

On the surface, these statements sound feasible. But let's delve a little below the surface.

* * *

How many orphans (and I mean children with both parents gone) are in this area today?

Modern science has done much to improve health conditions. Epidemics that carried off mothers and fathers within days of each other are things of the past. Very rarely do you hear of a child left entirely alone in this way now.

On the other hand there are hundreds of homes where one parent dies or, what is even worse, walks out on his or her responsibilities.

This leaves the other parent to care for the children and at the same time to provide for their economic needs.

Here, the big red brick building on Cook Street hill, no matter what its name, has filled a need. Those in charge have made it a rule that families are never separated. If they take in one child they take the brothers and sisters.

* * *

The parent is welcome to visit at any time and to take the children out on weekends.

A nominal charge is made. But if the parent cannot, or does not pay, the children are not dropped. They stay in the Home, sometimes for short periods until the parent has a way of taking them back (perhaps through a second marriage), or at other times, until they grow up.

There are men and women in this city — successful in many lines of work — who spent all their young lives in the Home and who are proud to say so.

Dormitory life didn't distort their perspective. Rather it taught them how to get along with others. Being able to tell their troubles to a sympathetic matron and to have her sit up with them when they were sick, didn't make them anti-social. Rather it gave them something that is still a real part of their lives.

The big red brick building was erected, we are told, to accommodate 160 children. But that was a long time ago. Today, modern regulations say that no more than 50 can be housed within its walls at one time.

* * *

This does not mean that the building has not been modernized. There is an up-to-date elevator, ceramic tile floors, and modern laundry and kitchen equipment, including an automatic dishwasher. There is a hobby room for the children and boys' and girls playrooms, all well equipped.

The children go to Sunday School. They attend elementary and high schools in the district. And, they come back each noon hour to a hot meal, served family-style in the big dining room. (Let's face it — how many children who live with their parents in this city, go home regularly for a good noon hour meal?).

When it is time for a boy or girl to leave the Home and make a living for themselves, careful watch is kept to see that they make a good start. It is a fact that the board has placed small sums of money in banks to help young men and women to carry on until they receive their first pay cheques. It is also a fact that young girls have been helped with clothes allowances until they could earn living wages.

* * *

This is much like the pattern of family living anywhere. It adheres to the belief that if children are to grow into responsible men and women there must be permanence and "tender loving care" in their lives.

So far it has worked. It is the proud boast of members of the board of directors that none of their boys and girls have ever been in serious trouble with the police or other authorities.

This is a big mark in favor of the Protestant Orphanage. Let's add to it the words of a small boy who was recently accepted in residence.

He came in from school for his first noon hour meal. It was a sunny day and the children were allowed to take their plates outdoors for "a picnic."

"Gee!" he said, "is this what they do here? I wish I had come before!"

Urban Renewal Pays Way

Urban renewal practically pays its own way, according to city planner Geoffrey Greenhalgh.

He outlined the economics of it to the Appraisal Institute Thursday. For $120,000 down and an annual payment of $20,000 for 15 years, a city could underwrite a $1,200,000 urban renewal project.

Mr. Greenhalgh said such a project would enhance property values so that additional taxes would cover the $20,000 annual payment. He said urban renewal on this basis is continuing and self-renewing.

Mount View Club Donates Refrigerator

The Mount View High School Red Cross Club donated a refrigerator Wednesday to the Elford Street centre for retarded children.

Funds for the refrigerator had been raised by the students.

It was presented to Mrs. John Clark, director of the training centre. The centre is operated by the Greater Victoria Association for the Retarded.

A Mount View student, Dan McGregor, was elected president of the Victoria Inter-High Red Cross Council for the next academic year.

Other officers elected in the same meeting were: vice-president, Adrienne Chan, S. J. Willis Junior High; secretary, Margot Weisterman, Norfolk House; treasurer, Lynne Ingram, S. J. Willis; publicity directors, Mary Bigelow, Norfolk House, and Maxine Boyd, Oak Bay Junior High.

POSSESSION OF STOLEN GOODS

Salt Spring Man to Face Trial

A Salt Spring Island man will face trial on charges of breaking and entering and possession of stolen goods.

But Magistrate William Ostler refused to commit Charles Head, 54, on a third charge of arson following a preliminary hearing Thursday, ruling the crown had not made a case for the latter charge.

The hearing arises from an Incident at Cushion Lake March 29 when a cottage owned by Donald Symons of Vancouver was almost destroyed by fire.

The Crown alledges a number of goods were taken from the cottage before it burned and witnesses at the hearing testified how they found a TV set, radio, several bottles of liquor and canned food hidden in nearby bush a few days after the fire.

An RCMP fingerprint expert told the hearing Thursday tha in his opinion a prin ftound on the hidden TV set belonged to Head.

The fire started within the cottage near a point in a bedroom where flames had eaten through the floor, according to evidence presented by an inspector from the fire marshall's office.

Among arguments used by defence counsel for dismissal of the charges were claims that goods had been taken from Head's rented cottage before a search warrant was obtained and that the search and arrest warrants were incomplete.

Head has elected to be tried by a judge.

HOME GARDEN

First Summer Show Of Flowers Saturday

By JACK BEASTALL

Saturday the first of the summer flower shows will be opened for the enjoyment of local home gardeners.

Jack

It is the Victoria West Summer Show held annually in the St. Saviour's Parish Hall, Catherine and Henry Streets, in Victoria West and staged by the St. Saviour's Couples' Club.

The floral arrangement classes look particularly attractive with themes linked to the B.C. Centennial

It is always fun to speculate what one might find in a class depicting Beautiful British Columbia in Roses, or the Sunny Okanagan in a Composition of Fruit.

What would you use, for instance, for Keep B.C. Green, By the Sea, or Progress in B.C. Highrise? Follow the Birds to Victoria may be easier or Gold in Them There Hills, a theme for men only.

Roses will, no doubt, be the most prominent flowers on the show tables, and the cooler weather of the past few weeks should result in some fine blooms which stand up well.

The show is open to the public from 2:30 until 9 p.m., and the modest admission charge of 50 cents includes afternoon tea or evening refreshments.

THOUSANDS OF HOMELESS BIG PROBLEM

Giant Cleanup Starts In Tornado-Hit Areas

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — The problems of looking after several thousand persons left homeless by a tornado which took 16 lives faced city officials today.

Most of those whose homes were lost or heavily damaged in the disaster put up temporarily with friends, relatives and strangers. Four Red Cross shelters were opened in schools and the Municipal Auditorium.

About 70 persons had been taken to hospital with injuries and at least 61 of them spent a second night in hospitals. Another 260 persons received outpatient treatment at hospitals.

Fifteen deaths occurred in Topeka — hardest hit of several towns struck by tornadoes in a brief span Wednesday night. One man was killed about 20 miles northeast of Topeka.

Many persons made offers of temporary housing for the homeless.

The Salvation Army and Red Cross operated field kitchens around the city to feed the homeless and the rescue-and-repair personnel rushed in from other cities.

Gov William Avery and officials of the federal Office of Emergency Planning ordered damage estimates which could lead to federal disaster grants for stricken areas.

Mayor Charles W. Wright Jr. planned to ask nearby cities for equipment and personnel to help clear debris. Some had already sent aid and others offered anything needed.

Heavy tree trunks, chunks of buildings, and battered cars littered many parts of town, even after a full day of cleanup which succeeded in opening all streets to some degree. One city official said the cleanup is expected to take at least four weeks.

The tornado was the worst in the city's history. Ranging up to a half mile wide, it swept a 15-mile path of death and destruction through the city.

"The Red Cross said about 2,000 dwelling units were destroyed," said Mayor Wright who figured damage at between $75,000,000 and $100,000,000.

Wright said the number of Topekans left homeless ranged from 2,000 to nearly 5,000 but probably is somewhere in between the two extremes. A factual count is not expected to be completed for several days.

Upwards of $4,000,000 in damage resulted in Manhattan, 50 miles away, where a tornado hit an hour before the Topeka storm. About 60 persons went to hospitals for treatment and 12 were admitted.

THUNDERSTORMS BATTER NEW YORK

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Severe thunderstorms battered most of New York State Thursday night and early today, injuring scores of persons, disrupting power and causing thousands of dollars damage.

In Buffalo Thursday night, John Walgate, 23, was killed when his automobile struck a stalled car during a heavy rainstorm.

Heavy damage to property was reported in Syracuse, where winds reached 50 miles an hour during the peak of the storm. Thirteen persons were reported injured when the winds swept through a trailer park and overturned several of the mobile homes.

Residents in the Onondaga County communities of Skaneateles and Fayetteville were without electrical power for about three hours.

Work crews from the Niagara Mohawk Power Corp. worked through the night to restore service.

In western New York, tornado-like winds slammed the Erie County community of Holland, where trailer-homes were overturned and power lines and trees snapped and cluttered streets.

KELOWNA—The affluent society has made it harder to get workers to devote their time to union activities.

"Changing living conditions have proven to be stiff competition for the union," said James Dowell, education director of the Canadian Union of Public Employees.

"It is not as easy to get the members' participation in union affairs as it was 20 years ago.

"Because of this, we must develop a corps of responsible local union leaders who have the confidence and trust of the dues-paying members."

Mr. Dowell was addressing the annual meeting of the union's B.C. division in Kelowna.

CELEBRATING his 45th birthday today is Prince Philip. At a party tonight he will receive presents from Queen Elizabeth and their four children.

New Talks to End War on Malaysia

JAKARTA (AP)—A high Malaysian official has slipped into Jakarta for further talks on the ending of Indonesia's undeclared war on Malaysia.

Mohamed Ghazalie - Shafie, permanent secretary of Malaysia's foreign office, is expected to spend several days in talks with military strongman Lt.-Gen. Suharto, whose reform government is trying to end President Sukarno's three-year-old war and get Indonesia's vital trade with Singapore and Malaysia moving again.

Suharto and Ghazalie will work out details of restoring diplomatic relations, a high Indonesian official said.

The talks grew out of a broad agreement in Bangkok, Thailand, last week.

The Malaysian cabinet has endorsed the Bangkok agreement, but Sukarno so far has balked.

SINGAPORE (Reuters)—The official Hanoi daily Nhan Dan says Indonesian leaders decided to end their policy of "confrontation" with Malaysia under orders from the U.S.

The Nhan Dan report, quoted by the North Viet Nam news agency and monitored here, says the U.S., Britain, Holland, West Germany, and Japan are providing millions of dollars to the new Indonesian leaders as big rewards.

90-MILE CORRIDORS FOR JETLINERS OUT

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Canada, the United States and Britain today suspended the controversial 90-mile corridors for jets flying the North Atlantic and agreed to return to the old separation width of 120 miles.

The surprise announcement was a resounding victory for airline pilots who have denounced the 90-mile standard as unsafe.

The decision to scrap the narrower corridors was announced by the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA), which has been holding on-again, off-again hearings on charges by the Air Line Pilots' Association that a 30-mile airlane could constitute a collision hazard.

A '66 Mercury will run farther for less money than any other outboard

You've got a surprise coming: the fuel economy of the '66 Mercury outboards. The refreshing shock comes when you realize you've got the slowest fuel gauge on the lake. The new Mercurys have money-saving features like new exclusive Polar-Gap spark plugs and Thunderbolt ignition system (six-cylinder Mercurys) that cut fuel consumption 6%. You save on oil, too—new Quicksilver Formula 50 Super Outboard Motor Oil cuts oil consumption 50%! Use Formula 50 safely at a 50:1 gas-oil ratio (boat-tested for three million miles). And don't forget the other features that help make Mercury the world's most economical outboard: small-bore, short-stroke, in-line design; plus smaller, lighter pistons and connecting rods; fixed-jet carburetors and Power-Dome combustion chambers. See the money-savingest outboards—the '66 Mercurys—at your Mercury dealer. 3.9, 6, 9.8, 20, 35, 50, 65, 95 and 110 hp.

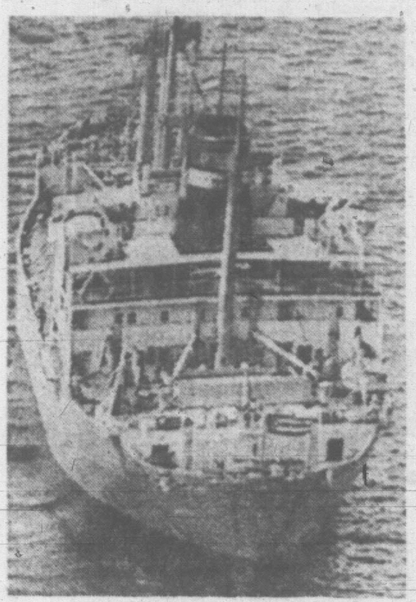
Cuban Athletes Stranded; Ship Denied Entry to Port



SHIP CERRO PELADO
. . . six miles off harbor

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard announced today that the Cuban merchant ship Cerro Pelado, carrying 364 Cuban athletes for the 10th Central American and Caribbean Games, has been denied permission to dock here.

A formal announcement said the coast guard acted on the instruction of the U.S. treasury department.

The coast guard called a press conference to announce that Cuban authorities have been advised that they would not be permitted to land either a ship or plane in Puerto Rico.

The Cerro Pelado waited six miles off San Juan's harbor. A coast guard patrol boat circled the ship and a coast guard patrol plane flew overhead.

A coast guard spokesman said he does not know what the Cuban ship will do next. He said there has been no communication with the ship.

The formal announcement said the action was taken in consultation with the state department but the final decision was made by the treasury department because the coast guard is under the latter's jurisdiction.

The coast guard said the denial of entry permission was taken under the Magnuson Act, which provides for the protection and security of U.S. port areas.

SUPPORT PLEAS REJECTED

U.K. Seamen Claim Solution to Strike

LONDON (CP)—Leaders of Britain's striking maritime union announced today they believe they have found a solution to the dispute which has progressively paralysed Britain's Britain's shipping since May 15.

The announcement came an hour after a meeting between seamen's union leaders and the finance and general purposes committee, the so-called inner cabinet, of the Trades Union Congress.

The seamen did not disclose their proposed solution. But they said it would mean bringing together the government, the shipowners, the congress and the union.

Efforts were reported under way to set up a meeting of nine members of the 48-man seamen's executive with congress leaders tonight or Saturday morning.

REBUFFED

The announcement came in the wake of rejection by Britain's top union leaders of pleas for support from the striking seamen. This was seen as forcing the union to the negotiating table soon.

The congress Thursday refused to help the seamen's union and urged it to end its strike.

The TUC rebuff, coupled with an appeal from Prime Minister Wilson and a spark of dissent within the union, failed to budge the strikers.

William Hogarth, general secretary of the union, said the seamen will hold out "forever and a day" in their refusal to sail until they get a 40-hour work-week.

Hogarth said the strikers hope to bypass the TUC and he appealed directly to other unions for a boycott by dockside labor which would further cripple British imports.

The seamen also are counting on the support of foreign unions for their appeal to boycott all British ships abroad.

Shortly before the TUC meeting, the prime minister issued a statement urging an end to the strike and calling the recommendations of a judicial inquiry which the seamen rejected Wednesday "a fair settlement."

The inquiry formula calls for

ALMA DOWN-GRADED AFTER FLORIDA SPREE

VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—Hurricane Alma, her might diminished after hitting the Florida Panhandle, is splashing through Georgia today.

The national hurricane centre in Miami predicted rains up to eight inches along a wide path from Georgia to the Carolinas and warned of possible flooding.

But Alma no longer met hurricane standards of winds of 75 miles an hour or more. Her highest winds were 70 miles an hour, and reported ebbing.

The early-season hurricane from the tropics, charged with 47 deaths in three countries, was reported moving northeastward at about 12 miles an hour.

UNION CHARGES:

Court Actions Delaying Talks

MONTREAL CP)—The International Longshoremen's Union (CLC) complained to Labor Minister Nicholson today that court action being taken by the Shipping Federation of Canada and the National Harbors Board is holding up mediation talks in Quebec's month-old dock strike.

The union sent a telegram to Mr. Nicholson, with copies to the leaders of the different parties in the Commons.

The telegram said:

"Yesterday morning mediation was delayed because ILA members of the negotiating committee received subpoenas on insistence of Shipping Federation to appear in sessions court concerning a complaint made several years ago, and this morning mediation is again delayed because of National Harbors Board seeking to enjoin all picketing although ILA has not opposed injunction already granted limiting peaceful picketing to three pickets per entrance."

A spokesman for the union said the Shipping Federation's complaint for which subpoenas were handed out Thursday morning concerned a longshoremen's strike of three years ago.

"They're saying that there were too many pickets in a

HARBOR LAND DISPUTE SETTLED

OTTAWA (CP) — An 86-year-old dispute between the CPR and the National Harbors Board over 200 acres of property on the Vancouver waterfront has been settled on a 50-50 basis, it was learned Friday.

Informants said it will pave the way for a major development in the harbor.

An agreement to be signed in Vancouver gives the harbors board clear title in an area east of a line between Piers A and B C and north of the existing railway line. The CPR will take over the western and southern sections of the property.

Air Canada to Operate Despite Strike Call

Ticketing Staff Walkout June 15

TORONTO (CP)—Air Canada said today it will operate its flights despite a strike called for midnight next Wednesday by employees handling tickets, reservations, airport counters, teletypes and public offices.

The airline said "some inconvenience on the ground is to be expected" but schedules will be carried out.

Robert Dye, president of the independent Air Canada Employees Association, said today the 1,453 employees voting in a contract dispute with Air Canada voted 1,201 in favor of the strike, 83 per cent.

The strike would be by personnel handling passengers and sales. These make reservations, assemble reservation data, issue tickets and handle airport passenger operations.

WILL USE SUPERVISORS

"In event of a strike we will use supervisory personnel at the airports," an Air Canada spokesman said today. "We don't anticipate any wildcats or sympathy strikes. We expect all other employee groups of Air Canada to honor our agreements with their unions."

The association is seeking a two-year contract. The basic pay for a passenger agent now is $476 a month. The union wants a 10-per-cent increase in the first year, counted from expiration of the old contract in November, 1965, and 10 per cent in the second year and reduction of the work week to 37½ hours from 40.

A conciliation board has recommended settlement pay covering Dec. 1, 1965, to June 1, 1966, of $150 an employee and a new contract starting June 1 to expire at Nov. 30, 1968. This would call for an eight-per-cent increase now and seven per cent at Sept. 5, 1967. It made no recommendation on the work week.

In Victoria, Air Canada district sales manager Stan Mooney said he expects to be able to maintain normal service by using clerical and supervisory workers.

He hoped the strike will be averted, but expected Air Canada will direct some people to use the facilities of travel agents.

A strike would affect ticket agents downtown and passenger agents at Pat Bay, a total of 10.

OTTAWA SEEKS SETTLEMENT

OTTAWA (CP) — A "very senior official" of the federal labor department is attempting to work out a settlement in the wage dispute between Air Canada and its 1,453 sales employees, Labor Minister Nicholson said today.

SOVIET PLEDGE

Viet Cong Aid To Be Boosted

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Leonid Brezhnev, Soviet Communist party leader, pledged today that Soviet aid to North Viet Nam will be increased "on an ever-growing scale."

He said the Kremlin was taking "new measures" to ensure a Vietnamese Communist victory.

"We are strongly confident that the people of Viet Nam will win," he declared.

The Russian leader did not explain what new measures were being planned, but said Soviet aid for Viet Nam was multi - purpose — economic, military and political.

"We are taking new measures and making new efforts to help speed up the victory of the heroic Vietnamese people," he said in a Moscow election speech.

"We shall do everything in our power to organize a united anti-imperialist front in support of heroic Viet Nam."

Brezhnev spoke to 6,000 selected constituents in the Kremlin's Palace of Congresses. He is an assured candidate for a Moscow seat in the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) in national elections Sunday.

Martial Law Order For Hue

HUE, South Viet Nam (Reuters) — More than 400 crack paramilitary combat police moved into this dissident northern city today in a bid to end a Buddhist-led campaign to topple the Saigon military government.

Martial law was declared in the rebellious city of 105,000.

Hue has been almost paralysed by the latest form of anti - government demonstration—the moving of thousands of Buddhist family altars into the streets to block traffic.

The roads of the city were still blocked today by the altars, despite orders broadcast by loudspeaker from low-flying government planes that inhabitants must stop blocking essential supplies routes.

RADIO REPEATS ORDERS

Similar orders were broadcast by a secret government radio station, making the voice of Saigon heard in Hue for the first time in three weeks.

The radio said martial law would apply from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. each night.

A clandestine "Radio S O S Buddhist," operated by Buddhist monks, continued to pour out tirades against the military junta from one of the city's main pagodas.

The northern leader of the militant Buddhist movement, Thich Tri Quang, who is on a protest hunger strike against American support for the junta, was taken to a city hospital today after 44 hours without food.

Meanwhile, it was revealed Thursday that a manifesto issued in Saigon by the Unified Buddhist Church called for U.S. troops to remain in the country.

It said that any peace now would mean "surrender to the Viet Cong guerrillas."

It was an apparent effort of the politically conscious Buddhist group to woo U.S. support for its efforts to speed up restoration of civilian rule.

Paratroops In 4-Day Battle

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. paratroops battled a stubborn dug-in North Vietnamese force for the fourth day in the Central Highlands today.

Helicopters lifted at least two battalions of American and Vietnamese troops into the fierce action 280 miles north of Saigon. Battlefield reports indicated the Americans may be fighting as many as two regiments—some 1,800 men—of North Vietnamese regulars, although the enemy force earlier was estimated at 900 men.

An American military spokesman in Saigon said 239 North Vietnamese had been killed in the fighting, which began before dawn Tuesday on a small U.S. encampment.

Policeman Killed By Fleeing Suspect

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A policeman was shot to death today while taking a young burglary suspect to a cell inside the downtown public safety building, headquarters of the city police department.

The burglary suspect leaped through a closed mezzanine window and fled on foot. He was captured about 90 minutes later on a rooftop in the city's uptown district, about a mile from he downtown area.

The policeman, Joseph Gaetano, 36, of the police department's identification section, was pronounced dead on arrival at Mercy Hospital. He had been shot in the chest.

It was believed the suspect, Edward E. Bittner, 21, had shot the policeman with his own weapon.

Brothers Sentenced In Kidnapping

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Three South African brothers were sentenced today to prison terms ranging from five to 16 years for kidnapping Mrs. Betty Glazer, wife of a millionaire property owner.

Ephraim Levy, 37, was given 16 years for kidnapping Mrs. Glazer and her 20-month-old baby. The other two brothers, Kenneth, 31, and Leonard, 43, were sentenced to six and five years, respectively, for kidnapping Mrs. Glazer.

Mrs. Glazer and her baby were released after Glazer paid a ransom of 140,000 rand ($196,000). Most of the ransom money has been recovered.

The actual kidnapping was carried out by Ephraim Levy and Stanley Jawitz, a 37-year-old unemployed actor, by stopping Mrs. Glazer's car.

MARTIN REPORTS TO PARLIAMENT

Little Hope for Solution to NATO Problems

OTTAWA (CP)—External Affairs Minister Martin, who helped head off a showdown with France at this week's NATO ministerial meeting, told the Commons today it will be "extremely difficult" to reconcile the position of France with that of the other 14 members.

Mr. Martin, who presided at the two-day meeting in Brussels, gave a lengthy account of the talks after he was applauded by Liberal MPs when he rose at the beginning of the day's sitting.

He said the issue is the amount of military co-operation France is prepared to provide as a substitute for participating in the integrated military structure. The French government has decided to withdraw its military forces from the structure.

Mr. Martin said this is the have concerted planning in peacetime if there is to be an issue because it is necessary to effective response in war.

He said the outcome of the "complex and crucial" negotiations agreed to at the meeting cannot be forecast "but they are at least fairly launched."

After the 14 agreed to shelve a decision on the council site—now Paris — until October, France agreed to hold talks within the council about the role of its forces remaining in West Germany.

Mr. Martin said he was opposed to any immediate decision about a change of site before learning whether co-operation with France is possible, before President de Gaulle's visit to Moscow and before the French foreign minister had arrived at the meeting.

"How could we hope to work out such arrangements with France if our first action as 14 was to anticipate that our negotiations with the French would fail?"

He said that by October the French president will have visited Moscow, there will be a clearer picture of the amount of military co-operation that can be expected from France and "in reaching our decision, facts rather than expectations can guide us."

Mr. Martin said all NATO members recognized the need to improve contacts with Eastern European countries to create an atmosphere for negotiations which must eventually take place on Germany.

"But the road to that settlement will be long. It is the intractability of the problems—rather than any lack of will to pursue solutions—which makes progress inevitably slow."

Conservative Leader Diefenbaker said "Sometimes there is victory in the postponement of action."

He thought a Danish proposal for an early East-West conference was worthy. Mr. Diefenbaker hoped a meeting could be arranged, although past experience reduces optimism about the result.

It was to be hoped that President de Gaulle would return from his forthcoming visit to Russia with new concepts about the preservation of NATO.

Mr. Diefenbaker said he does not accept the view that NATO's days are numbered. The alliance must be maintained and changed.

"NATO has not outlived its usefulness," he said. "NATO must be preserved. Mr. Diefenbaker welcomed the conference decision to postpone action on moving the North Atlantic Council site from Paris. Had the site been moved, NATO would have slid into history.

Any action to place France outside would have weakened the alliance to the extent it would have become "little more than a memory."

BRUSSELS, Belgium (Reuters)—Belgium agreed officially today to a request by its NATO allies to transfer Supreme Headquarters Allied Powers in Europe (SHAPE) to Belgian territory from its present location outside Paris.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Most grains showed signs of irregularity in late trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

There was some activity in oil seeds in early trading, stimulated by broad advances in the soybean market in the United States and by the possibility of the sale of edible oils to India and Pakistan. As the session progressed, however, there were reductions from the earlier gains.

CHICAGO (AP) — Demand slackened considerably in the grain futures market today but selling pressure was light to moderate most of the time and prices only slightly easier.

Old-crop soybeans held onto gains of a cent or so most of the time after having opened almost 3 cents higher. Dealers said there seemed to have been some speculative profit-cashing for the weekend but that the offerings were absorbed by commercial accounts.

THE WORLD POPULATION WILL DOUBLE IN 36 YEARS

Obviously this will be good for our young Canadian economy, calling on its huge untouched resources to meet the ever-increasing demands of all countries.

In the resulting flush of enterprise antiquating services will diminish — ventures based on new services will appear. Some will lose, some will win and stay on to become institutional. Many businesses, old and new, will continue as before to experience the irregular ebb and flow of success in their respective classes and in the "long haul" provide a reasonably assured growth for the investor.

But, through it all, the Mortgage business will carry on within its own sanc, protective sphere—unheralded—non-dynamic—punching out its above-average yield year after year.

It is for the investor who requires, economically or psychologically, the assurance of a steady income or growth, without fluctuation, that mortgage investments serve best.

Victoria Mortgage Corporation offers 7½% on 5-year debentures; 7¼% 2½ years; 7% 1 year; (all payable before maturity in event of death). Interest paid quarterly (or compounded on request). Current Mortgages average 39% of appraised security. Share Capital further secures the debenture holder. No acquisition cost. For prospectus to be mailed to you, phone Douglas Hawkes, EV 4-7128.

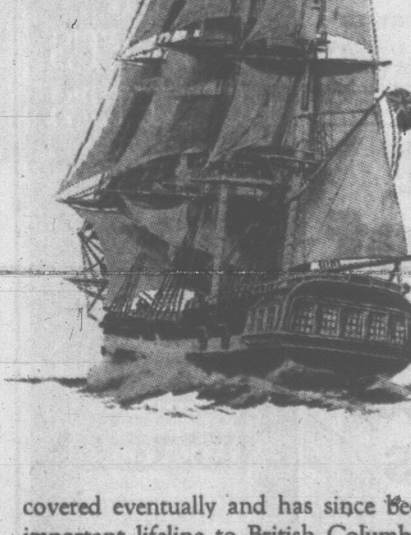
The River that wasn't there



The year is 1791. Captain George Vancouver of the Royal Navy and Don Dionisio Alcala Galiano and Cayetano Valdes, of the Spanish navy, meet aboard one of the Spanish ships anchored off Point Grey. In comparing notes, the explorers find that neither of them has been able to locate Rio Blancho, a river found a year earlier by Jose Maria Narvaez. Thus, the Rio Blancho passes into the annals of discovery as a river that couldn't be found.

History shows that the river was re-discovered eventually and has since become an important lifeline to British Columbia's agriculture and industry. Without it, the dynamic growth of this province would have been impossible. Next time you stand at the banks of the mighty Fraser River, think of the men who discovered it—and lost it. Think also of the men who have made this province what it is today—a shining example of progress. Celebrate Centennial Year — 100 years of British Columbia.

DELAYS INVESTIGATED

Chamber Would Hasten 2-Year-Old Street Plan

A Victoria Chamber of Commerce group will investigate delay in launching a 15-year $35 million arterial transportation plan for Greater Victoria.

The master plan for streets and downtown traffic improvements, parking facilities and a new parkway linking the urban core with main highway accesses was brought in more than a year ago.

A recent Chamber of Commerce director's meeting agreed its implementation is vital to the survival of downtown Victoria as the economic epicentre of the capital region.

The Chamber harbor and transportation group, chaired by director George Farmer, was given the task of compiling a feasibility study which is hoped will point the way to financing the undertaking in co-operation with the provincial government.

'END DELAY'

"We want to get the various bodies acting together, to end the delay and fence-sitting," Mr. Farmer said in outlining a proposed plan of operation.

A preliminary group meeting was held Thursday, attended by most of the seven members of the harbor and transportation group. Others besides Mr. Farmer are Foster Isherwood, Tom Blackwood, Robert Wright, Lionel Walter, Hugh Stephen and Thomas Denny.

Mr. Farmer said a series of meetings between the group and municipal representatives would pave the way for co-ordinating meetings by the fall.

He said it is the intention to get as much technical information as possible first from the engineers and planners of Greater Victoria.

The Capital Region Planning Board, author of the master plan, would be brought into the co-ordinated scheme that will evaluate ideas of how to accomplish the plan.

At present, Mr. Farmer said, there seems to be a bottleneck in development along the eastern half of the route that would be followed by a loop.

SAANICH ACCESS

Even if it were possible to delineate where the Saanich end of the access would lie — which depends on a provincial highways department decision on Patricia Bay Highway — the situation would be improved, Mr. Farmer said.

Mr. Farmer was referring to the extension of Rose Street into a multi-laned route forming part of a loop to encircle the Inner Harbor and legislative precinct via a bridge or tunnel at Laurel Point.

This would be partly elevated to avoid conflict with urban renewal schemes and be built as a landscaped parkway to express highway standards.

The western half of the system, envisaged as an extension of Patricia Bay Highway and Trans-Canada Highway, would follow railway right-of-way, cross Selkirk Water and pass through Victoria West before crossing into James Bay.

Both ends would join the highways at interchanges at the northern side.

The whole would be laid out in harmony with parking facilities and be within walking distance of the downtown business section.

Mr. Farmer feels the partly developed Blanshard-Rose Street section should be continued northward to connect with the suburban highways.

"The other aspect in Victoria West would be more in the future," he said.

Meanwhile, with nothing being done, adjoining development in both Victoria and Saanich is being held up because of zoning uncertainty.

Tunnel Project Starting

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canadian National Railway Tuesday announced the awarding of contracts for $10,000,000 railway tunnel under suburban Burnaby and part of Vancouver.

The tunnel will connect with a planned $8,000,000 bridge over Burrard Inlet and will form part of a new CNR link with Vancouver Harbor.

The over-all plan, announced in April of last year, calls for the tunnel, bridge, and expansion of yards and other facilities at a total cost of $27,000,000.

Contract for the two-mile tunnel was awarded to Northern Construction Co. and J. W. Stewart Ltd., and Perini Pacific Ltd., both Vancouver firms.

Arthur Mayse

The dog run I started in a burst of do-it-yourself enthusiasm these many weeks ago is finished at last, and in a qualified sort of way, I'm proud of it. But our dog isn't, and there he sits, a dejected captive, letting the neighbors know precisely what he thinks of his cruel master.

Since this is only a temporary imprisonment, we will soon take him down to the beach for a fish-crow chase. Until then, big chief Almighty Voice, the terror of the borders, can spend his time getting used to life on the reservation.

Meanwhile, for the sake of others who may one day find themselves with a pile of cedar posts, a roll of wire, and only the vaguest notion of what to do with either, I have a few hints to offer.

The first and most important is, don't undertake the project if you can possibly shuffle it off on somebody else. Let George do it. Let the dog do it . . . after all, it's going to be his pen, isn't it?

★

But if build you must, don't touch a tool until you have laid out a plan on paper. It won't be much help to you, but it will impart enough confidence to get you started, and once under way, there's no turning back. Proceed you must, nipping off a few feet here, grunting in another post there, until all is complete.

I had a dandy plan, and when the preliminary search for a spot which a spade would penetrate was over, the job ran on rails. The posts went in all orderly, even though I did have to yank them out again for creosoting, and no hitch developed until it came time to stretch the wire.

By the time I got to that stage, the dog was my constant companion. He was even starting to bury bones in his enclosure, and while I hauled and stapled and tugged again, he sat in the shade with tongue lolling in a canine grin.

Finally I reached a point where, stretch as I would, a three-foot gap remained unclosed. I checked my plan and found on a second adding that the wire footage came out to a different total. At this point I tore up the plan, resisting a temptation to sell the dog and turn his bower into a chicken coop.

I settled the wire shortage by moving the end posts a couple of feet closer and digging new holes, which happened to collide with a long-disused tile line. That side-excursion consumed most of another weekend.

But an evening did eventually come when I straightened from pounding the last staple. I was admiring my handiwork when a friend strolled down for a look. Our dog Lancer frolicked around him, laughing his head off.

"All finished?" the fellow asked.

"Sure am!" I told him, and began to gather up my tools.

"That's nice," he said, "but how does the dog get in?"

So the next Saturday, instead of going fishing, I snipped out a chunk of wire, dug in another post, and made a gate.

★

But that's all past now, the run is complete, and in it huddles noisy-boy, looking at this distance uncommonly like a large black sulky vulture.

It was, I can tell you, a pleasure to walk him down there all ttsiung and happy, there all trusting and happy, then sneakily latch the gate.

He can't dig his way out, because the wire is anchored a foot beneath the ground with rocks, a task that shot most of an afternoon. He is my prisoner, and in time I expect he will even learn to love his maximum security enclosure.

While I have been enjoying my gloat, Lancer has changed his tactics.

First he stopped wailing.

Then he gave himself a shake and an all-over stretch as if to limber his muscles.

He is now jumping lazily up and down, with a motion like that of a yo-yo on a string.

At the last leap, his chest cleared the top rail. Another bounce . . . and another . . . and a final one, higher still . . .

Well, it's nice to know that he can't tunnel his way out, and I'm off now in search of poultry wire to make a roof for his stalag. I'll need another pound of staples, too, and had better make no plans for the weekend.

YOU MIGHT BE ITCHING to slap 'em down like Beverly Sawchuck, but the trouble is the pesky "skeeter" you're after isn't quite the size, nor quite as docile as the Provincial Museum model she is holding. (Times Photo.)

Blood-Seekers' Raid Sparks Red Alert

Many district residents are being bitten by the bug.

And they don't like it.

The bug that's gotten into everyone comes in two varieties—the culex and the anoehel.

To anyone who has had the misfortune to be bitten it's known as a damned mosquito.

They are appearing in swarms as the evenings become balmier.

AFTER BLOOD

And they're really after people's blood.

Just why their appetites have increased isn't known for sure.

But a city entomologist suggested the culicine variety—they're smaller, leaner and hungrier than their anoeheline brothers—are more prevalent than usual.

Reason is two-fold: a reasonably mild winter and an abundance of surface water.

Whatever the reason, they're here, and bug-bitten residents are more interested in getting rid of them than discovering where they came from.

CHOICE GIVEN

According to the encyclopedia they have a choice.

One of the easiest way to keep them at bay is to instal yellow lights around the house and a bright white light at the bottom of the garden.

That way they'll only bother the neighborhood cats.

More exotic is to take a tip from the old trappers who coated their beards in bacon grease.

In Japan they have a species of fish which gobble up the mosquitoes and their young.

Another way is to breed dragon flies or encourage swallows to nest around your home.

Should all else fail, go out and get a sun tan.

Mosquitoes like their meat white.

VMD-MADE BALL, CHAIN

Forest-Flattener On Way to Peace R.

British Columbia's biggest ball and chain soon will be cutting a 65-foot swath through the forest for the Peace River power reservoir.

An eight-foot diameter steel ball weighing nine tons is en route by truck trailer to Finlay Forks, where it will be loaded on a scow for travel up the Finlay River to Fort Grahame, 220 miles northwest of Prince George.

There it will be hooked up to massive chains, each end hooked up to a D8 bulldozer which will drag ball and chain through brush and scrub timber in one of the mightiest pond-clearing projects in the world.

MADE BY VMD

Ball and chains were made by Victoria Machinery Depot industrial division for B.C. Forest Service at cost of some $10,000.

Although the value of the project will pay off in reservoir clearing alone, ball and chain will continue to provide value in agricultural land clearing, forest protection projects, power line right-of-way clearing and silviculture work of foresters.

VMD built the ball of high quality carbon steel plates, each measuring 1¾ inches thick.

They were welded into a single unit leaving holes for an axle running through the centre.

The 8¾-inch diameter axle runs in 15-inch roller bearings for ease of operation, and at each end of the protruding axle are shackles for the chain, whose links are formed of three-inch diameter carbon steel stock.

Although ball and chain clearing has been done before in B.C. and other parts of the world, the forest service device is the biggest and heaviest to date in this province.

Polo Club Day Aids Solarium

Polo is the name of the game Sunday as the Vancouver Island Polo Club presents "a day at the Polo Club" with all proceeds going to the Queen Alexandra Solarium.

Hightlights of the action-packed day, beginning at 2:30 Sunday afternoon, include a parade of polo ponies, some from as far away as Hawaii and the Argentine, a demonstration of the finer points of the game, and a tournament polo game.

The polo grounds are just off Island View Road.

$4 Million in Improvements Due for Empress Main Wing

Convention Centre In Planning Stage

More than $4 million will be spent over the next four years refurbishing the main wing of the Empress Hotel, it was announced today.

At the same time, it was indicated a convention centre may be built along Belleville Street.

Both announcements were made this morning by Mayor A. W. Toone and E. C. Fitt, general manager of Canadian Pacific Hotels.

"Striking changes won't be evident from the outside," said Mr. Fitt, allaying fears of major external changes to the old hotel.

One-quarter of the expenditure will be to convert DC current to AC in the main wing to allow installation of television and radio and the use of standard electrical appliances.

GREENHOUSES TO GO

Other changes include:

- Doubling the capacity of the present car park by removing the greenhouses;
- Demolition of the powerhouse and stack nearby;
- Refurbishing and air-conditioning of the main guest and meeting salons;
- Installation of modern elevators;
- New car entrance on Douglas Street leading along a canopied entrance under the conservatory;
- Use of the Belleville Street entrance as an assembly area for tour buses;
- Installation of low-pressure oil-fired steam boilers at ground level on the northeast corner of the main wing.

The newer Humboldt wing will remain in operation but no plans have been made at the moment for any changes.

PRESERVE CHARM

"We are intent on preserving the charm and dignity of the Empress," said Mr. Fitt. "I'm pleased to tell you that only minor structural changes will be necessary."

He said green areas around the hotel will be kept and none of the trees will be removed.

Work will start at the end of the summer tourist season and will be spread over off-seasons in the next four years.

Switching the electrical current to AC should be completed by the spring of next year.

MARWELL ON JOB

General contractors for the project are Marwell Construction of Vancouver.

Mayor Toone said it is gratifying that the CPR "saw fit to guard against altering the characteristics of this famous hotel, and thus lessening its charm by carefully planning such extensive interior improvements."

A possible convention centre on the Empress grounds was first mentioned by Mayor Toone.

FORMED TALKS

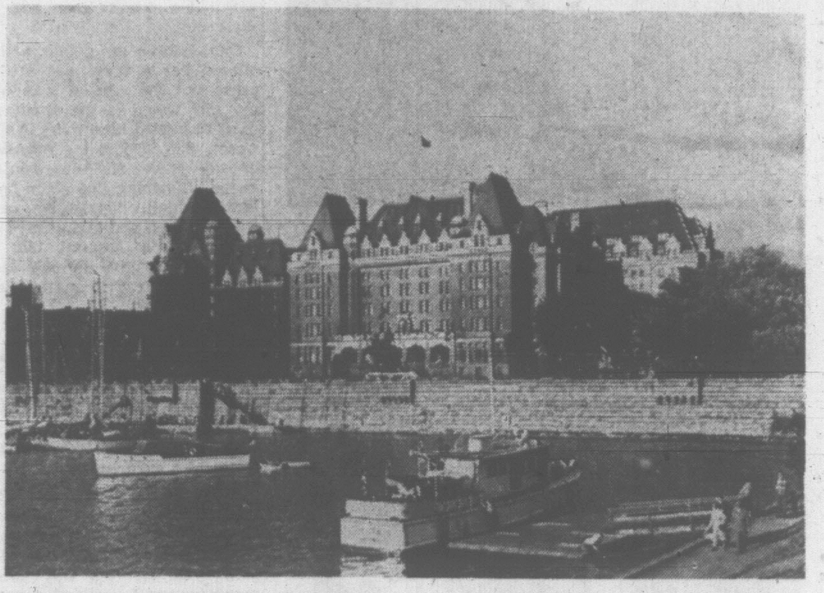
He said: "It will now be possible for formal consultation with Canadian Pacific officers and consultants regarding a convention facility which will assist the committee in its research and report."

Mr. Fitt said there are areas on the grounds which could be considered without impairing the beauty, altering the gardens, destroying trees or interfering with the hotel's operation.

"We would be pleased to have our officers explore with city representatives the site memtioned which is on Belleville Street.

"While we fully realize that such a centre would be a decided asset to any city, because every citizen and every hotel or motel and business benefits, it is not economically sound for private enterprise to enter into such a venture alone.

"I think everyone present will agree such an undertaking is an expensive one to build, maintain and operate."



STAYING THE SAME on the outside is the stately old Empress Hotel. CPR will spend more than $4 million over the next four years bringing the old lady up to date on the inside. Months of rumors of the fate of the Empress were ended with today's announcement at a joint city-CPR meeting.

MLAs Ask Government Inquiry Into Operation of Orphanage

TAMMY DIES . . . VICTIM OF KINDNESS

The victim of kindness, Tammy the fawn died Thursday afternoon.

Experts from the B.C. government game branch and from the University of Victoria tried in vain to save the three-weeks-old animal.

Tammy was picked up by a motorist Sunday and taken to the SPCA branch here.

"This was mistaken kindness," said David Beeching of the SPCA. "If you see a fawn, leave it alone. It may appear abandoned, but usually the mother is nearby and will take care of her baby the moment a human being goes away."

Capital Iron Faces Charge On Smoke Output

Capital Iron and Metals has been charged with an offence against the city's air contamination control bylaw.

The prosecutor's office said it is alleged that Capital Iron discharged smoke for a longer period of time and at a greater density than allowed by the bylaw.

The company does salvage work at the rear of its Store Street location.

The summons is returnable next Tuesday.

Child Bruised In Car Mishap

Two-year-old John Hedber, 270 Beechwood, is in satisfactory condition at St. Joseph's Hospital after being knocked down by a car in the 1700 block Fairfield on Thursday.

The boy suffered bruises to his face, arms and legs when he ran from behind parked cars into the path of an auto driven by Pauline Buyko, 205 Beach, police said.

He was admitted to hospital for observation.

By DESMOND BILL

Controversy over the Protestant Orphanage continued today with MLAs from opposing parties asking for a government investigation into its operation.

J. Donald Smith, a Social Credit member for Victoria, said the government should "find out if there is anything' to charges made against the Orphanage.

And David Barrett, New Democrat member for Dewdney, said the government "had better get on top of the situation because it is their responsibility."

Mr. Smith said he has no personal knowledge of how the Orphanage is operated but has long thought it was performing a service in the community.

He was surprised by recent criticism that the Orphanage is providing only inadequate service both to the community and the children in its care.

"Since these charges have been made, there is a responsibility on the government to find out if there is anything to them," Mr. Smith said. "The government should make it its business to find out what is the situation."

He is confident the government "will concern" itself with the Orphanage and the attacks on its administration.

NUMEROUS LEGACIES

Critics allege the wealthy, 73-year-old institution hoards its money and skimps on service. It has received numerous legacies, among them about $40,000 from the McPherson Estate.

Mr. Barrett, who is his party's welfare critic in the legislature, said the welfare department should ask for an immediate and full report on the Orphanage from the superintendent of child welfare. This should be the first priority, he said.

"Under existing legislation the provincial government is responsible for supervising such institutions and the welfare department grants licences," he said.

Mr. Barrett asked "when was the last report?" made on the institution and "what did the last report say?"

"I hope he provincial government is right on top of this situation through the department of welfare."

Talks Held On Super-Ship Dock Project

Commercial Transport Minister Robert Bonner today revealed he is "in the middle of detailed discussions" regarding possible construction of the west coast's first dock for handling new super freighters now appearing on the high seas.

He said it involves a fully-automated pier for loading two 100,000-ton vessels, to be built "at Sturgeon Banks or in the vicinity."

Sturgeon Banks is at the mouth of the Fraser River, off Richmond municipality.

The development would cost between $15 and $20 million and would load hydrocarbons — petroleum or coal — brought to the pier head by pipeline or 100-car "unit" trains.

He would give no more details.

Mr. Bonner said the pier would be able to handle vessels at least double the size of the largest that can be handled by the present Vancouver harbor.

NOT ONLY JAPAN

He said it would load cargoes for a variety of "off-shore Pacific markets. It's not confined to Japan."

He said the study has gone beyond the exploratory stage but so far is just "an engineering excercise rather than a constitutional one."

This referred to the still-open question of whether the provincial government can make a deal with private foreign companies to establish new deep-sea port facilities outside of the jurisdiction of the National Harbors Board.

TWO PROJECTS

The pier might involve two projects now being pushed by Japanese interests: To pipe oil from the Alberta tar sands to a west coast port or to move millions of tons of coal — either by rail or pipeline — from the Fernie area.

Mr. Bonner wouldn't identify the interests involved, saying he had given "enough for you to speculate." Either of these projects would involve many more millions of investment in transportation installations in the province besides a deep-sea port.

BARRY GOUGH

London Next For Teacher

A former Victoria teacher, Barry M. Gough, has been awarded a master's degree in history by the University of Montana.

Mr. Gough, a son of school superintendent John Gough and Mrs. Gough, intends to study British history at the University of London, beginning this fall.

His thesis for his master's degree traced the struggle in the British Parliament in 1763 between those interested in the fur trade and cod fisheries of Canada versus those who profited from the sugar, spice and slave trade of the Caribbean.

Mr. Gough attended local schools, Victoria College and the University of British Columbia from which he obtained a B. Ed. degree in 1962. He taught at Ladner for two years and then at Victoria Secondary from 1964 to 1965.

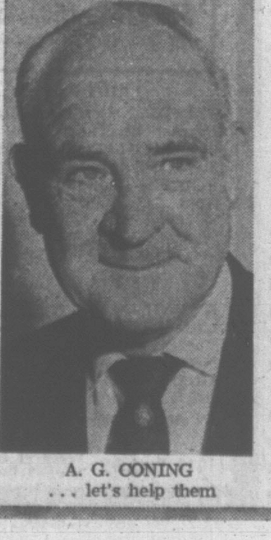
'Okay, Dad, Let's Make With It And Don't Mess With the Locks'

"If Boy Scouts want to wear their hair long, climb mountains with guitars on their backs, and call their leaders "Dad", let us help them make a good job of it," says senior scout official A. G. Coning.

He was commenting on reports that a British committee of boy scout leaders had recommended scouts wear long, slightly tapered, cuffless pants, and green berets, drop the word "boy" from their name, and take an interest in girls.

Mr. Coning is a member of the Regional Scout Council for Greater Victoria, regional representative on the B.C. and Yukon Provinicial Council, and former president of the Burnaby Region organization.

He has advocated the adoption of long pants since 1958 against determined opposition.



A. G. CONING
. . . let's help them

When long pants were finally made optional, "the die-hards took good care that they were frowned on," he said.

Nor would Mr. Coning be sorry to see the departure of the present boy scout hat.

"The round hat is archaic," he remarked.

"It belongs to the bandolier and the 'Soldiers of the Queen Lily Boys' days."

As for fraternization with the enemy — girls — Mr. Coning is all for it.

"You're not going to keep the boys locked up like monks," he said.

"I feel that scouts as they become old enough will inevitably become involved with girls. If they can do it through the scouts, all the better," he concluded.

City Police Nab Suspects Wanted On Mainland

Victoria police nabbed two wanted men today including a suspect who has eluded the law for five years.

Detective-Inspector Bill Andrews said there is a warrant dating from 1961 and relating to a theft charge for one of the men.

The other is wanted for questioning in connection with worthless cheques passed throughout western Canada.

One man was arrested in a downtown hotel and the other at a house in James Bay, the inspector said. Both were en route to Vancouver by noon today, to face charges.

Ask The Times

Q. If a person is visiting in California and needs medical attention will our B.C. Medical Plan insurance pay expenses incurred? M.E.P.

A. The Medical Plan office in Victoria advises that if a person is visiting California, expenses incurred up to 90 days after leaving B.C. will be paid for. After 90 days, the person's case will be subject to review and expenses may still be paid. If, however, a person has left B.C. and taken up residence in California or elsewhere in Canada or the United States, only the first 90 days' expenses will be paid for.

As for hospitalization expenses, the Ministry of Health Services and Hospital Insurance says substantially the same formula applies, but the period is six months, not 90 days.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to a dealer.

TODAY'S GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG (CP)—Most grains showed signs of irregularity in late trading on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today.

There was some activity in oil seeds in early trading, stimulated by broad advances in the soybean market in the United States and by the possibility of the sale of edible oils to India and Pakistan. As the session progressed, however, there were reductions from the earlier gains.

CHICAGO (AP) — Demand slackened considerably in the grain futures market today but selling pressure was light to moderate most of the time and prices only slightly easier.

Old-crop soybeans held onto gains of a cent or so most of the time after having opened almost 3 cents higher. Dealers said there seemed to have been some speculative profit-cashing for the weekend but that the offerings were absorbed by commercial accounts.

THE WORLD POPULATION WILL DOUBLE IN 36 YEARS

Obviously this will be good for our young Canadian economy, calling on its huge untouched resources to meet the ever-increasing demands of all countries.

In the resulting flush of enterprise antiquating services will diminish — ventures based on new services will appear. Some will lose, some will win and stay on to become institutional. Many businesses, old and new, will continue as before to experience the irregular ebb and flow of success in their respective classes and in the "long haul" provide a reasonably assured growth for the investor.

But, through it all, the Mortgage business will carry on within its own sane, protective sphere—unheralded—non-dynamic—punching out its above-average yield year after year.

It is for the investor who requires, economically or psychologically, the assurance of a steady income or growth, without fluctuation, that mortgage investments serve best.

Victoria Mortgage Corporation offers 7½% on 5-year debentures; 7¼% 2½ years; 7% 1 year; (all payable before maturity in event of death). Interest paid quarterly (or compounded on request). Current Mortgages average 39% of appraised security. Share Capital further secures the debenture holder. No acquisition cost. For prospectus to be mailed to you, phone Douglas Hawkes, EV 4-7128.

The River that wasn't there

The year is 1791. Captain George Vancouver of the Royal Navy and Don Dionisio Alcala Galiano and Cayetano Valdes, of the Spanish navy, meet aboard one of the Spanish ships anchored off Point Grey. In comparing notes, the explorers find that neither of them has been able to locate Rio Blancho, a river found a year earlier by Jose Maria Narvaez. Thus, the Rio Blancho passes into the annals of discovery as a river that couldn't be found.

History shows that the river was re-discovered eventually and has since become an important lifeline to British Columbia's agriculture and industry. Without it, the dynamic growth of this province would have been impossible. Next time you stand at the banks of the mighty Fraser River, think of the men who discovered it—and lost it. Think also of the men who have made this province what it is today—a shining example of progress. Celebrate Centennial Year — 100 years of British Columbia.

MARKET SUMMARIES

New York Up; Trading Heavy

The New York market showed a substantial gain today in the heaviest trading since May.

Industrials remained bouyant in Montreal, Toronto moved fractionally higher. But Vancouver continued low in dull trading.

AT NEW YORK glamor stocks were the leaders in early trading while blue chips moved up conservatively. As the session wore on many of the market wheelhorses also took fire, giving the Dow Jones industrial average a jump of better than eight points.

Alcan gained ⅞ among Canadian stocks. Dome Mines fell 1¾, International Nickel and Walker Gooderham ⅜.

AT MONTREAL utilities were off, with Trans-Canada Pipe Line slipping ⅝ to 32¾ and CPR ¼ to 12½.

Among the papers Domtar eased ⅛ to 18¼.

Industrials moved higher, with Moore Corp. climbing ¼ to 84¼. Base metals were off, with Cominco declining one point to 41.

The machinery section moved higher, with Massey-Ferguson adding ½ to 35.

AT TORONTO the gold index was down 3.36 to 173.47 and had been as low as 172.26 in morning trade. Dome paced the decline falling 1⅝ to 44¾ and Giant Yellowknife 1 to 12½.

Scurry Rainbow sparked a western oil advance, climbing 2 to 31½. Banff gained ⅝ to 15¾ and Home A ½ to 17⅝. Chieftain added ¾ at 7.

AT VANCOUVER four mines hit new lows. Brightest spot in mines was Norgold which rose to a new high of 20 cents, up .01.

New lows were recorded by Croydon, down .08 to 63 cents; Peel off .01 to 14 cents; Slocan off .04 to 46, and General Resources off .02 to 24 cents. General later regained to 25 cents.

Other mines were: Anuk up .05 to 83 cents; Brenda up .10 to $6.80; Buttle Lake down .03 to 62 cents; Dynasty up 37 to $13.25; Silver Arrow up .04 to 92 cents; Trojan up .03 to 34 cents and West Coast Resources off .04 to 88 cents.

AT LONDON the stock market stood up remarkably well today to an apparent deadlock in the seamen's strike. Selling was light and a little selective buying was enough to maintain a firm undertone.

A Wall Street price rally was more than offset by a further fall in the dollar premium and dollar stocks were mostly easier. In Canadians, International Nickel fell 4s. Losses elsewhere in Canadians were under a point. Canadian banks were easier.

Longer Shutdown Seen for Plants

DETROIT (AP) — Chevrolet Division of General Motors Corp. plans to close down 13 assembly plants for longer-than-normal changeover periods this summer.

Company officials refused further details, but industry observers say they believe it would mean production cuts amounting to some 150,000 autos.

Tourism Major Business

Tourism in British Columbia is now a $201,000,000 business, it is reported in a resources manual released by Trade Minister Loffmark.

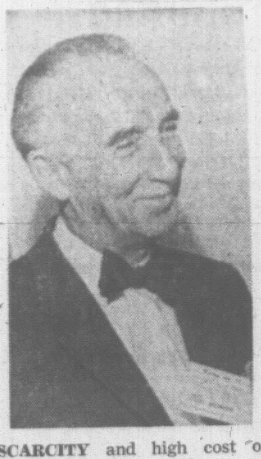
And the tourist volume will increase over last year's 5,157,000 visitors, the minister said, because of the new Kelsey Bay-Prince Rupert ferry link.

American visitors provided most of the tourist dollars last year.

Some 2,400,000 U.S. tourists crossed the border into B.C. and spent $95,200,000. Another 534,000 who entered via Alberta spent $21,400,000.

Canadian tourists spent $69,200,000 while British Columbians paid an estimated $15,500,000 to vacation in their own province.

The report states the average automobile tourist spends 29 per cent of his holiday money on food, 24 per cent on travel, and 20 per cent for lodging.



SCARCITY and high cost of mortgage funds has temporarily shelved a proposed move to north Douglas Street area by Empress Motors Ltd. David H. Lawson, president and general manager, confirmed that his company has renewed leases on its Fort Street location for at least 22 months. That puts any thought of relocating "on ice," he said. The firm has picked a tentative new site and was investigating financing.

Argentina Boosts Oil Products Price

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Oil czar Facundo Suarez has announced that Argentina is raising the price of its petroleum products 15 per cent, but said this country can still undersell U.S., Canadian and European suppliers.

Suarez, who heads the government's oil monopoly, told a news conference the price rise is necessary because of last week's devaluation of the Argentine peso.

Suarez said Esso International Corp. has offered to sign a $12.5-million contract at the new price level.

BRITISH BUSES TO U.S.S.R.?

LONDON (UPI) — The top salesman of Britain's Leyland Motors was Moscow-bound today on a business trip to sell the Russians buses and possibly a bus factory.

Leyland's export sales manager, Louis Portman, was going to the Soviet capital in response to a request Wednesday by Premier Alexei Kosygin for designs and bids from a British firm for selling buses to Russia.

The British company, which won publicity when it sold buses to Communist Cuba, also planned to follow up Portman's trip by sending a complete bus to Moscow.

Mission Delayed

Scottish trade representatives will arrive here next week one day later than announced.

The day of their visit is changed from Wednesday to Thursday. Arrangements to meet with the visitors may be made through Victoria Chamber of Commerce secretary-manager Earl Dicknoether.

The mission consisting of 14 members of Scottish manufacturing firms will seek new trade outlets in visits to Vancouver, Montreal and Toronto during their stay under sponsorship of the Council of Scottish Chambers of Commerce.

WINTERS OFF TO MOSCOW

Trade Relations with Russia Explored

OTTAWA (CP)—Trade Minister Winters leaves Saturday for London and Moscow to discuss Anglo-Canadian and Commonwealth trade and to try to lay a broader base for commercial relations with Russia.

The detailed agenda for his talks is secret, but it appeared they would revolve around several main subjects:

- Whether and to what extent Commonwealth preferences in tariff treatment, the mainstay of Commonwealth trading relations since the 1930s, should be revised.

extent Commonwealth preferences in tariff treatment, the trading relations since the 1930s, should be revised.

- The attitude and position of Commonwealth countries generally in the current Kennedy round of international tariff negotiations in Geneva.
- Britain's attitude towards membership in the European Common Market and what this might mean to Canada.
- Remaining thorns in Anglo-Canadian trade which the British say have not all been blunted on the Canadian side.
- How serious is Russia's recent diplomatic prickliness towards Canada and how the Russians can be reassured of Canada's commercial goodwill.

Mr. Winters said in an interview it will be his first visit to Russia and will serve as a prelude to a trip he plans this autumn to the Eastern European countries. All of these represent good opportunities for Canadian trade—if they can be pointed out to Canadian businessmen and if the latter can be encouraged to try them.

The trade minister will attend a closed meeting of Commonwealth trade ministers in London June 13-16.

Mr. Winters then is to talk with British ministers and officials about Anglo-Canadian trade.

He is likely to hear again from British authorities that Canada's relaxation of regulations governing the pricing of British goods for Canadian duty purposes hasn't been put fully into effect.

Air Canada Orders Two More Big Jets

MONTREAL (CP) — Air Canada will buy two 196-passenger DC-8-61 jets at a total cost of $18,000,000, the Crown corporation has announced.

The planes are to be delivered early in 1968.

Air Canada previously ordered four planes of the same type, to be delivered in February, 1967, and is now using 18 smaller DC-8 jets.

$50,000 Award Set For Achievement

OTTAWA (CP) An annual award of $50,000 to a Canadian of outstanding achievement was announced Thursday as the centennial project of the Royal Bank of Canada.

President W. Earle McLaughlin told a press conference the Royal Bank centennial award has been set up in "perpetuity, or for as long as the Bank Act lasts."

Mr. MacLaughlin announced the names of a six-man selection committee and said it is hoped the first award can be announced next June.

Bankers and politicians in office aren't eligible but any other Canadian in any field is.

The criterion will be whether the achievement contributes "to the common good and welfare of Canada or the world society."

Anyone living in Canada, or any team, may be nominated by two persons other than themselves for the Royal Bank award. Citizenship isn't a necessary qualification but domicile is.

Cut-off date for nominations for the first one will be Feb. 28, 1967, with hopes the committee can make a selection by next June.

BOARD

Mr. McLaughlin stressed that in a close contest, the runner-up could always be chosen by the committee the following year.

Committee chairman is Dr. A. W. Trueman, Guelph, Ont., dean of University College, University of Western Ontario.

The other members are J. V. Clyne, Vancouver, board chairman and chief executive officer of McMillan Bloedel Ltd.; G. Maxwell Bell, chairman of FP Publications Ltd. and publisher of The Albertan, Calgary; Dr. O. M. Solandt, chancellor of the University of Toronto and vice-president of de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd.; Dr. Roger Gaudry, rector of the University of Montreal; and Chief Justice J. L. Ilsley of Nova Scotia, a former federal finance minister.

Centennial Enthusiasm Lacking

Central Saanich may be the only municipality to end up with no centennial project next year.

The reason is the lack of enthusiasm on the part of many residents, coupled with the lack of co-operation between various organizations to support a project which more or less would be acceptable to the majority of people.

The situation is such that even Reeve Gordon Lee is beginning to think a project will never get off the ground.

"At this stage," he said, "there appears to be little enthusiasm for any project. It's disheartening."

Central Saanich centennial problems began when council rejected a proposal to build a $36,000 swimming pool at Centennial Park on Wallace Drive.

SYMPATHETIC

Council was sympathetic towards the project, but strong opposition from ratepayer groups and farm organizations forced it to drop the proposal.

As an alternative, the South Saanich Farmers Institute suggested construction of a museum to house pioneer and farm relics.

But the proposal received a lukewarm reception. Out of 13 letters sent to different organizations asking their opinion on the museum, only five replied to council. None of these endorsed the project, but asked for further information.

One group, the Mount Newton PTA, flatly opposed the project.

Leaflets opposing the museum were even distributed to children at Brentwood School to take home to their parents.

"I don't know where we go from here," said Reeve Lee. "If residents won't agree on a project, it's quite possible we won't have any."

WHO WILL RUN ARTS CENTRE?

Hole in Ground Sparks B-B Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — A project that is still only a $4,000,000 hole in the ground sparked another bilingual-bicultural debate in the Commons Thursday.

A bill that would spell out just who would operate the National Arts Centre brought the issue to the fore.

Earlier Conservative Leader Diefenbaker attacked Liberal financial policies before the House approved income tax changes outlined by Finance Minister Sharp in his budget speech March 29.

Costs for the arts centre now are expected to reach about $36,000,000, up from $9,000,000 originally. But this wasn't the issue in the Commons debate, which centred on the personnel who would run the centre once in business.

State Secretary Judy LaMarsh was piloting the bill at second reading.

It spelled out that there would be a board of trustees consisting of a chairman, vice-chairman, the current mayors of Ottawa and neighboring Hull, Que., the director of the Canada Council, the CBC president, the head of the National Film Board and "nine other members."

Debate zeroed in on the nine. A. A. Mongrain (IND—Trois-Rivieres) moved an amendment specifying that three of them should be French-speaking Canadians. Gilles Gregoire (Creditiste — Lapointe) seconded it.

It finally went down 68 to 8 in a standing committee vote. The mover and seconder were supported by three other Creditistes, and Georges Valade (PC — Montreal Ste. Marie), Jean Rochon (L—Montreal Laval) and Maurice Allard (Ind-PC—Sherbrooke).

Raynald Guay (L — Levis) then moved a second amendment that in appointments to the board the government recognize Canada's bilingual nature. Discussion on this was to continue today.

Mr. Mongrain said, before his amendment went under, that the best way to confront separatism is to spell out biculturalism in legislation. This stand was shotgunned from both sides of the House.

It constituted the worst type of discrimination, said Michael Starr (PC—Ontario), born in Northern Ontario of parents of Ukrainian origin. "We're all Canadians, no distinctions should be made in this regard."

Miss LaMarsh concurred. "Narrowness in any regard" shouldn't be a factor in culture. She had no fears, because of the yeasty nature of French culture, that French-Canadians would be left out.

Bryce Mackasey (L — Verdun) said the suggestion that any sort of minimum had to be legislated to ensure adequate representation was an insult to French-Canadians.

CITES NEW CITIZENS

And Jack Roxburgh (L—Norfolk), a southwestern Ontario farmer, spoke of attending a recent ceremony in citizenship court where immigrants, none of them of French or English origin, became Canadians.

"I've taken all I can," he said, addressing himself to his "French friends." He added that Mr. Mongrain's type of stipulation was an attempt to drive a wedge into the country.

Before the income tax resolution won approval, Mr. Diefenbaker tackled Mr. Sharp, particularly on the issue of just how much he believes in the policies of Walter Gordon (L—Toronto Davenport) his predecessor in the portfolio who resigned after the 1965 election failed to bring the Liberals a majority government.

Mr. Diefenbaker asked Mr. Sharp to explain any philosophical differences between himself and Mr. Gordon.

He said there apparently was supposed to be a "discarded" Gordon policy and a "more enlightened but similar" Sharp policy. But as far as he could see the two holders of the finance portfolio were "fighting with powder puffs."

He asked the government to spell out its current financial policy. Was it Gordon nationalism or Sharp internationalism?

Mr. Sharp branded the whole thing "an exhibition of troublemaking." It was an attempt to impute to the Liberal party the kind of discord that has been rife within Conservative ranks, he said.

VMD Lands Tanks Contracts

Contracts worth a combined $1½ million to build petrochemical industrial units have been won by Victoria Machinery Depot.

They are from Imperial Oil Ltd. for its Monteral refinery and from Chemcell Ltd. for its Cornwall, Ont., plant, both for construction of methanol exchangers.

Resembling other high pressure tanks the company has made in recent years, the latest projects use techniques evolved at VMD permitting multi-thickness shells to be shrunk together forming a single wall capable of withstanding immense pressure.

Completed tanks are usually some 40 feet long, weighing around 170 tons.

10 Pigeons Lost

Dick Jones, 735 Cameo, told Saanich police Thursday night that 22 of his pet pigeons have been stolen in the past two weeks.

Ten of these were taken Thursday night, he said, and estimated he had lost 30 birds in recent months.

The pigeons live in a loft at the rear of his property.

Gov't Brainwashing Charged In Glowing Accounts of India

If you think Canadian governments are bad, you should take a long hard look at India's.

In a speech to the Victoria branch of the World Federalists, Thursday, vice-president Ranjit Singh Azad brushed aside glowing official Indian government accounts of the situation in India as "brainwashing."

He charged:

- "Very highly placed politicians" control the tremendous illegal drug traffic. The police are obliged to look the other way as drugs are sold in the open market.
- According to people who were there, India really attacked Pakistan at the start of recent hostilities over Kashmir. It was a subterfuge designed to unite the Indian people and suppress the communists.
- "You might as well stop your foreign aid because we never get it anyway." In fact, few Indians even know foreign aid is unavailable to the Indian who is unwilling to pay a bribe.
- Bribery is commonplace in elections. The lower castes are especially vulnerable to exploitation.
- The government is riddled with corruption, and the grafters are so powerful they can refuse to take bribes except in the form of gold and silver, which they sell at a profit on the black market foreign exchange to Indian millionaires.
- The caste system is as rigid as ever, and caste antagonism is increased.

As a result of this sorry state, "most Indians think conditions have reached a point of no return."

DISGUSTED

"The mood is a very sad mood. The people are disillusioned and disgusted," Mr. Azad said.

Mr. Azad's charges were based on personal observation during a lengthy visit to India recently, after an absence of 20 years. His address was illustrated with slides depicting the stark contrast between great wealth and abject poverty in India.

He was speaking in the St. John Ambulance Hall.

Uvic Students Going to Africa For 'Crossroads'

Two University of Victoria students will be among the 37 Canadians who will go to Africa this summer to take part in Operations Crossroads.

They are Mary Helen Johaneson, 2880 Glenwood, going to Togo, in Central Africa, and Kenneth Heart, 1149 Victoria Ave., who will spend his time in Nigeria.

They will live in work camps with African students and work on tasks for which their help has been specifically requested by the host country.

The Canadians will form part of a team of North American students. They will have an orientation course at Rutgers University beginning June 19 and leave by air for Africa June 24.

'New Pattern Of Living' Burglar's Need

Two youths earlier convicted of breaking and entering were given terms in the young offenders' unit when they appeared in central court for sentence Thursday.

"What you need is training and guidance to change your pattern of living," Magistrate Ostler told Robert Powell, 18, of 1048 Pandora.

He noted the accused had committed his first burglary at the age of 10.

Powell was sentenced to eight months definite and four months indefinite and his companion, Harry Hagen, 20, 3946 Quadra, was given a six-month term and three months indefinite.

AIR CANADA TO FLY IN EVENT OF STRIKE

FINAL ★★★★ BULLETINS

Thieves Flee in Hijacked Plane

SITKA, Alaska (AP)—Police said two armed men got $2,500 in a holdup at the Pioneer Bar here today and escaped in a hijacked plane.

Canadian and U.S. Coast Guard planes took part in an unsuccessful chase.

State police at Juneau reported the plane landed later near Ketchikan and the men were seen running from the beach into the woods.

CPR's Dominion Stays Off Tracks

OTTAWA (CP)—The Commons transport committee has decided, reluctantly, not to recommend a revival of the CPR's Dominion passenger train this summer, it was learned today.

Tuesday the committee was told by Ian Sinclair, president of the railway, that it would take four or five months to get the Dominion's equipment back in shape for an acceptable service.

Crack Race Horse Shot by Sniper

DURBAN, South Africa (Reuters)—An unknown gunman shot and injured one of South Africa's best race horses today as it was being taken out for exercise.

The marksman picked off Sea Cottage, 13-to-8 favorite to win the £15,000 ($45,000) Durban July Handicap, from a string of horses on their way to the track here.

The bullet was fired from the top of a bridge as Sea Cottage passed underneath. It penetrated deep in a hindleg and left the horse lame and shocked.

South Africans Win Cup Tennis

ROME (AP)—Frew McMillan and Keith Diepraam of South Africa defeated an experimental Italian doubles combination of Giordano Maili and Gaetano DiMaso 3-6, 9-11, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4 today in their Davis Cup European Zone B semifinals.

Italy won the two singles Thursday and leads 2-1.

Howe Wants to Play 2 More Years

MONCTON, N.B. (UPI)—Gordie Howe, one of the three men ever to play 20 years in the National Hockey League, says he wants to play at least two more years in the big time.

The Detroit Red Wings' star right-winger told reporters he would like to play "as long as I'm wanted by the Red Wings. If I have a good year in 1966-67, I'll be back for sure in '67-'68."

SOVIET PLEDGE

Viet Cong Aid To Be Boosted

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Leonid Brezhnev, Soviet Communist party leader, pledged today that Soviet aid to North Viet Nam will be increased "on an ever-growing scale."

LEONID BREZHNEV
'. . . confident'

He said the Kremlin was taking "new measures" to ensure a Vietnamese Communist victory.

"We are strongly confident that the people of Viet Nam will win," he declared.

The Russian leader did not explain what new measures were being planned, but said Soviet aid for Viet Nam was multi - purpose — economic, military and political.

"We are taking new measures and making new efforts to help speed up the victory of the heroic Vietnamese people," he said in a Moscow election speech.

"We shall do everything in our power to organize a united anti-imperialist front in support of heroic Viet Nam."

Brezhnev spoke to 6,000 selected constituents in the Kremlin's Palace of Congresses. He is an assured candidate for a Moscow seat in the Supreme Soviet (Parliament) in national elections Sunday.

Chou Plans Visit

VIENNA (UPI)—Communist Chinese Premier Chou En-Lai will visit Romania later this month, the official Romanian news agency Agerpres reported today.

Martial Law Order For Hue

HUE, South Viet Nam (Reuters) — More than 400 crack paramilitary combat police moved into this dissident northern city today in a bid to end a Buddhist-led campaign to topple the Saigon military government.

Martial law was declared in the rebellious city of 105,000.

Hue has been almost paralysed by the latest form of anti - government demonstration—the moving of thousands of Buddhist family altars into the streets to block traffic.

The roads of the city were still blocked today by the altars, despite orders broadcast by loudspeaker from low-flying government planes that inhabitants must stop blocking essential supplies routes.

RADIO REPEATS ORDERS

Similar orders were broadcast by a secret government radio station, making the voice of Saigon heard in Hue for the first time in three weeks.

The radio said martial law would apply from 9 p.m. to 6 a.m. each night.

A clandestine "Radio S O S Buddhist," operated by Buddhist monks, continued to pour out tirades against the military junta from one of the city's main pagodas.

The northern leader of the militant Buddhist movement, Thich Tri Quang, who is on a protest hunger strike against American support for the junta, was taken to a city hospital today after 44 hours without food.

Meanwhile, it was revealed Thursday that a manifesto issued in Saigon by the Unified Buddhist Church called for U.S. troops to remain in the country.

It said that any peace now would mean "surrender to the Viet Cong guerrillas."

It was an apparent effort of the politically conscious Buddhist group to woo U.S. support for its efforts to speed up restoration of civilian rule.

SUPPORT PLEAS REJECTED

U.K. Seamen Claim Solution to Strike

LONDON (CP)—Leaders of Britain's striking maritime union announced today they believe they have found a solution to the dispute which has progressively paralysed Britain's Britain's shipping since May 15.

The announcement came an hour after a meeting between seamen's union leaders and the finance and general purposes committee, the so-called inner cabinet, of the Trades Union Congress.

The seamen did not disclose their proposed solution. But they said it would mean bringing together the government, the shipowners, the congress and the union.

Efforts were reported under way to set up a meeting of nine members of the 48-man seamen's executive with congress leaders tonight or Saturday morning.

REBUFFED

The announcement came in the wake of rejection by Britain's top union leaders of pleas for support from the striking seamen. This was seen as forcing the union to the negotiating table soon.

The congress Thursday refused to help the seamen's union and urged it to end its strike.

The TUC rebuff, coupled with an appeal from Prime Minister Wilson and a spark of dissent within the union, failed to budge the strikers.

William Hogarth, general secretary of the union, said the seamen will hold out "forever and a day" in their refusal to sail until they get a 40-hour work-week.

Hogarth said the strikers hope to bypass the TUC and he appealed directly to other unions for a boycott by dockside labor which would further cripple British imports.

The seamen also are counting on the support of foreign unions for their appeal to boycott all British ships abroad.

Shortly before the TUC meeting, the prime minister issued a statement urging an end to the strike and calling the recommendations of a judicial inquiry which the seamen rejected Wednesday "a fair settlement."

The inquiry formula calls for

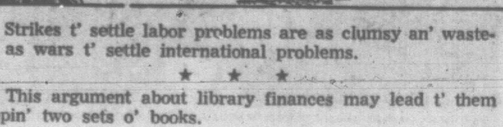
Policeman Killed By Fleeing Suspect

PITTSBURGH (UPI)—A policeman was shot to death today while taking a young burglary suspect to a cell inside the downtown public safety building, headquarters of the city police department.

The burglary suspect leaped through a closed mezzanine window and fled on foot. He was captured about 90 minutes later on a rooftop in the city's uptown district, about a mile from he downtown area.

The policeman, Joseph Gaetano, 36, of the police department's identification section, was pronounced dead on arrival at Mercy Hospital. He had been shot in the chest.

It was believed the suspect, Edward E. Bittner, 21, had shot the policeman with his own weapon.



Strikes t' settle labor problems are as clumsy an' wasteful as wars t' settle international problems.

RETRIAL of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard on a second-degree murder charge in the 1954 bludgeon-slaying of his wife, Marilyn, has been ordered by Cleveland prosecutor John T. Corrigan. Sheppard already has served nine years in prison on a murder conviction. He has been free on $10,000 bail since July 16, 1954, while appealing on grounds he did not receive a fair trial.

HARBOR LAND DISPUTE SETTLED

OTTAWA (CP) — An 86-year-old dispute between the CPR and the National Harbors Board over 200 acres of property on the Vancouver waterfront has been settled on a 50-50 basis, it was learned Friday.

Informants said it will pave the way for a major development in the harbor.

An agreement to be signed in Vancouver gives the harbors board clear title in an area east of a line between Piers A and B C and north of the existing railway line. The CPR will take over the western and southern sections of the property.

Canada's Extremes

Walkout Set For Wednesday

TORONTO (CP)—Air Canada said today it w operate its flights despite a strike called for midnigh next Wednesday by employees handling tickets, reserva tions, airport counters, teletypes and public offices.

The airline said "some inconvenience on the groun is to be expected" but schedules will be carried out.

Robert Dye, president of the independent Air Canada Employees Association, said today the 1,453 employees voting in a contract dispute with Air Canada voted 1,201 in favor of the strike, 83 per cent.

The strike would be by personnel handling passengers and sales. These make reservations, assemble reservation data, issue tickets and handle airport passenger operations.

WILL USE SUPERVISORS

"In event of a strike we will use supervisory personnel at the airports," an Air Canada spokesman said today. "We don't anticipate any wildcats or sympathy strikes. We expect all other employee groups of Air Canada to honor our agreements with their unions."

The association is seeking a two-year contract. The basic pay for a passenger agent now is $476 a month. The union wants a 10-per-cent increase in the first year, counted from expiration of the old contract in November, 1965, and 10 per cent in the second year and reduction of the work week to 37½ hours from 40.

A conciliation board has recommended settlement pay covering Dec. 1, 1965, to June 1, 1966, of $150 an employee and a new contract starting June 1 to expire at Nov. 30, 1968. This would call for an eight-per-cent increase now and seven per cent at Sept. 5, 1967. It made no recommendation on the work week

In Victoria, Air Canada district sales manager Stan Mooney said he expects to be able to maintain normal service by using clerical and supervisory workers.

He hoped the strike will be averted, but expected Air Canada will direct some people to use the facilities of travel agents.

A strike would affect ticket agents downtown and passenger agents at Pat Bay, a total of 10.

Brothers Sentenced In Kidnapping

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) — Three South African brothers were sentenced today to prison terms ranging from five to 16 years for kidnapping Mrs. Betty Glazer, wife of a millionaire property owner.

Ephraim Levy, 37, was given 16 years for kidnapping Mrs. Glazer and her 20-month-old baby. The other two brothers, Kenneth, 31, and Leonard, 43, were sentenced to six and five years, respectively, for kidnapping Mrs. Glazer.

Mrs. Glazer and her baby were released after Glazer paid a ransom of 140,000 rand ($196,000). Most of the ransom money has been recovered.

The actual kidnapping was carried out by Ephraim Levy and Stanley Jawitz, a 37-year-old unemployed actor, by stopping Mrs. Glazer's car.

Jawitz plunged to his death from the top of a Johannesburg building before he could be arrested in connection with the kidnapping.

ALMA DOWN-GRADED AFTER FLORIDA SPREE

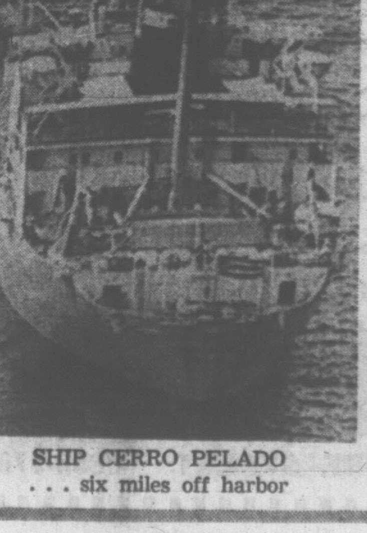
VALDOSTA, Ga. (AP)—Hurricane Alma, her might diminished after hitting the Florida Panhandle, is splashing through Georgia today.

The national hurricane centre in Miami predicted rains up to eight inches along a wide path from Georgia to the Carolinas and warned of possible flooding.

But Alma no longer met hurricane standards of winds of 75 miles an hour or more. Her highest winds were 70 miles an hour, and reported ebbing.

The early-season hurricane from the tropics, charged with 47 deaths in three countries, was reported moving northeastward at about 12 miles an hour.

Cuban Athletes Stranded; Ship Denied Entry to Port



SHIP CERRO PELADO
. . . six miles off harbor

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico (AP) — The U.S. Coast Guard announced today that the Cuban merchant ship Cerro Pelado, carrying 364 Cuban athletes for the 10th Central American and Caribbean Games, has been denied permission to dock here.

A formal announcement said the coast guard acted on the instruction of the U.S. treasury department.

The coast guard called a press conference to announce that Cuban authorities have been advised that they would not be permitted to land either a ship or plane in Puerto Rico.

The Cerro Pelado waited six miles off San Juan's harbor. A coast guard patrol boat circled the ship and a coast guard patrol plane flew overhead.

A coast guard spokesman said he does not know what the Cuban ship will do next. He said there has been no communication with the ship.

The formal announcement said the action was taken in consultation with the state department but the final decision was made by the treasury department because the coast guard is under the latter's jurisdiction.

The coast guard said the denial of entry permission was taken under the Magnuson Act, which provides for the protection and security of U.S. port areas.

Centennial Enthusiasm Lacking

Central Saanich may be the only municipality to end up with no centennial project next year.

The reason is the lack of enthusiasm on the part of many residents, coupled with the lack of co-operation between various organizations to support a project which more or less would be acceptable to the majority of people.

The situation is such that even Reeve Gordon Lee is beginning to think a project will never get off the ground.

"At this stage," he said, "there appears to be little enthusiasm for any project. It's disheartening."

Central Saanich centennial problems began when council rejected a proposal to build a $36,000 swimming pool at Centennial Park on Wallace Drive.

SYMPATHETIC

Council was sympathetic towards the project, but strong opposition from ratepayer groups and farm organizations forced it to drop the proposal.

As an alternative, the South Saanich Farmers Institute suggested construction of a museum to house pioneer and farm relics.

But the proposal received a lukewarm reception. Out of 13 letters sent to different organizations asking their opinion on the museum, only five replied to council. None of these endorsed the project, but asked for further information.

One group, the Mount Newton PTA, flatly opposed the project.

Leaflets opposing the museum were even distributed to children at Brentwood School to take home to their parents.

"I don't know where we go from here," said Reeve Lee. "If residents won't agree on a project, it's quite possible we won't have any."

WHO WILL RUN ARTS CENTRE?

Hole in Ground Sparks B-B Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — A project that is still only a $4,000,000 hole in the ground sparked another bilingual-bicultural debate in the Commons Thursday.

A bill that would spell out just who would operate the National Arts Centre brought the issue to the fore.

Earlier Conservative Leader Diefenbaker attacked Liberal financial policies before the House approved income tax changes outlined by Finance Minister Sharp in his budget speech March 29.

Costs for the arts centre now are expected to reach about $36,000,000, up from $9,000,000 originally. But this wasn't the issue in the Commons debate, which centred on the personnel who would run the centre once in business.

State Secretary Judy LaMarsh was piloting the bill at second reading.

It spelled out that there would be a board of trustees consisting of a chairman, vice-chairman, the current mayors of Ottawa and neighboring Hull, Que., the director of the Canada Council, the CBC president, the head of the National Film Board and "nine other members."

Debate zeroed in on the nine. A. A. Mongrain (IND—Trois-Rivieres) moved an amendment specifying that three of them should be French-speaking Canadians. Gilles Gregoire (Creditiste — Lapointe) seconded it.

It finally went down 68 to 8 in a standing committee vote. The mover and seconder were supported by three other Creditistes, and Georges Valade (PC — Montreal Ste. Marie), Jean Rochon (L—Montreal Laval) and Maurice Allard (Ind-PC—Sherbrooke).

Raynald Guay (L — Levis) then moved a second amendment that in appointments to the board the government recognize Canada's bilingual nature.

Discussion on this was to continue today.

Mr. Mongrain said, before his amendment went under, that the best way to confront separatism is to spell out biculturalism in legislation. This stand was shotgunned from both sides of the House.

It constituted the worst type of discrimination, said Michael Starr (PC—Ontario), born in Northern Ontario of parents of Ukrainian origin. "We're all Canadians, no distinctions should be made in this regard."

Miss LaMarsh concurred. "Narrowness in any regard" shouldn't be a factor in culture. She had no fears, because of the yeasty nature of French culture, that French-Canadians would be left out.

Bryce Mackasey (L — Verdun) said the suggestion that any sort of minimum had to be legislated to ensure adequate representation was an insult to French-Canadians.

CITES NEW CITIZENS

And Jack Roxburgh (L—Norfolk), a southwestern Ontario farmer, spoke of attending a recent ceremony in citizenship court where immigrants, none of them of French or English origin, became Canadians.

"I've taken all I can," he said, addressing himself to his "French friends." He added that Mr. Mongrain's type of stipulation was an attempt to drive a wedge into the country.

Before the income tax resolution won approval, Mr. Diefenbaker tackled Mr. Sharp, particularly on the issue of just how much he believes in the policies of Walter Gordon (L—Toronto Davenport) his predecessor in the portfolio who resigned after the 1965 election failed to bring the Liberals a majority government.

Mr. Diefenbaker asked Mr. Sharp to explain any philosophical differences between himself and Mr. Gordon.

He said there apparently was supposed to be a "discarded" Gordon policy and a "more enlightened but similar" Sharp policy. But as far as he could see the two holders of the finance portfolio were "fighting with powder puffs."

He asked the government to spell out its current financial policy. Was it Gordon nationalism or Sharp internationalism?

Mr. Sharp branded the whole thing "an exhibition of trouble-making." It was an attempt to impute to the Liberal party the kind of discord that has been rife within Conservative ranks, he said.

VMD Lands Tanks Contracts

Contracts worth a combined $1½ million to build petrochemical industrial units have been won by Victoria Machinery Depot.

They are from Imperial Oil Ltd. for its Monteral refinery and from Chemcell Ltd. for its Cornwall, Ont., plant, both for construction of methanol exchangers.

Resembling other high pressure tanks the company has made in recent years, the latest projects use techniques evolved at VMD permitting multi-thickness shells to be shrunk together forming a single wall capable of withstanding immense pressure.

Completed tanks are usually some 40 feet long, weighing around 170 tons.

10 Pigeons Lost

Dick Jones, 735 Cameo, told Saanich police Thursday night that 22 of his pet pigeons have been stolen in the past two weeks.

Ten of these were taken Thursday night, he said, and estimated he had lost 30 birds in recent months.

Gov't Brainwashing Charged In Glowing Accounts of India

If you think Canadian governments are bad, you should take a long hard look at India's.

In a speech to the Victoria branch of the World Federalists, Thursday, vice-president Ranjit Singh Azad brushed aside glowing official Indian government accounts of the situation in India as "brainwashing."

He charged:

● "Very highly placed politicians" control the tremendous illegal drug traffic. The police are obliged to look the other way as drugs are sold in the open market.

● According to people who were there, India really attacked Pakistan at the start of recent hostilities over Kashmir. It was a subterfuge designed to unite the Indian people and suppress the communists.

● "You might as well stop your foreign aid because we never get it anyway." In fact, few Indians even know foreign aid is unavailable to the Indian who is unwilling to pay a bribe.

● Bribery is commonplace in elections. The lower castes are especially vulnerable to exploitation.

● The government is riddled with corruption, and the grafters are so powerful they can refuse to take bribes except in the form of gold and silver, which they sell at a profit on the black market foreign exchange to Indian millionaires.

● The caste system is as rigid as ever, and caste antagonism is increased.

As a result of this sorry state, "most Indians think conditions have reached a point of no return."

DISGUSTED

"The mood is a very sad mood. The people are disillusioned and disgusted," Mr. Azad said.

Mr. Azad's charges were based on personal observation during a lengthy visit to India recently, after an absence of 20 years. His address was illustrated with slides depicting the stark contrast between great wealth and abject poverty in India.

He was speaking in the St. John Ambulance Hall.

Uvic Students Going to Africa For 'Crossroads'

Two University of Victoria students will be among the 37 Canadians who will go to Africa this summer to take part in Operations Crossroads.

They are Mary Helen Johaneson, 2880 Glenwood, going to Togo, in Central Africa, and Kenneth Heart, 1149 Victoria Ave., who will spend his time in Nigeria.

They will live in work camps with African students and work on tasks for which their help has been specifically requested by the host country.

The Canadians will form part of a team of North American students. They will have an orientation course at Rutgers University beginning June 19 and leave by air for Africa June 24.

'New Pattern Of Living' Burglar's Need

Two youths earlier convicted of breaking and entering were given terms in the young offenders' unit when they appeared in central court for sentence Thursday.

"What you need is training and guidance to change your pattern of living," Magistrate Ostler told Robert Powell, 18, of 1048 Pandora.

He noted the accused had committed his first burglary at the age of 10.

Powell was sentenced to eight months definite and four months indefinite and his companion, Harry Hagen, 20, 3946 Quadra, was given a six-month term and three months indefinite.
